GUEVARA OUSTED IN CUBA

HAVANA (Reuters) — Top Cuban revolutionary leader Ernesto Che Guevara was dropped today from leadership of the Cuban United Socialist Revolutionary party.

The name of the Argentine-born Communist, who disappeared from the public scene six months ago, was omitted from the list of the 100-member central committee, which today replaced a 25-member national directorate as the party's supreme body.

Guevara, considered the third most important man in Cuba after Premier Fidel Castro and his brother Raul, often was thought to have been the brains behind the Cuba revolution.

3-MONTH TOUR

His last important official function was to represent Cuba at the United Nations last December, after which he undertook a three-month African and Asian tour.

He was welcomed home by Castro himself and then disappeared from the public scene.

Four days ago, Castro said he would read a document from Guevara explaining his absence during recent months.

Many rumors have circulated about Guevara. Some said he was abroad, ill, or engaged in special work in Cuba and others that he had had ideological differences with Castro.

Nobody, But Nobody Seeks Nominations

VANCOUVER (CP)—There were only two things missing at a nominating meeting here Friday night—guest speakers and prospective candidates.

The meeting had been called by Social Credit to nominate federal election candidates in Vancouver Burrard and Vancouver Quadra.

Emil Shafer, president of the Quadra constituency association, said candidates expected to run had not turned up.

"We could have got candidates right there at the meeting but we have certain key people in mind who were unable to be there."

The guest speakers were to be Attorney-General Bonner and Trade Minister Loffmark. But the ministers were in Ottawa promoting British Columbia's 1967 International Trade Fair.

The audience of 50 agreed to have another meeting at a later date.

Dief Pushes Unity Appeal

By IAN MacDONALD
Times Ottawa Bureau

TORONTO — Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker made an emotional appeal to Canadians Friday night to unite behind him for the sake of national unity.

The Tory chief urged the people to turn their backs on the Liberals and put Canada back "on the high road again to national greatness and unity."

He made his appeal before an overflow-crowd of some 7,000 chanting, cheering people in Toronto's Varsity Arena.

About another 1,000 unable to get in stood outside and listened to the meeting over loudspeakers.

Tories came in busloads from various parts of the province for the rally.

It was Diefenbaker's most enthusiastic reception since the election began, and he reacted to it.

He had the backing of a solid show of Tory strength and party unity.

Diefenbaker was flanked on the stage by the Conservative premiers of Ontario, Manitoba, and Nova Scotia.

Before he spoke he heard the crowd cheering the statements of Theo Ricard, the Conservative Quebec leader, that his people are Canadians first and want to remain Canadians.

HIT SCANDALS

He raked the Liberal administration for scandals and disruption of unity, and touched only briefly on the Tory platform.

"I am not going into policy at this hour," he said.

BID FOR CUT IN CAR PRICE TIED TO VOTE

WINDSOR (CP)—Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said today he expects the federal government is trying to bring about lower automobile prices before the Nov. 8 federal election.

"I would think that the powers that be, the Drurys and the Gordons, would be exercising that interest at the moment that might achieve the objective of reduced prices," he told a press conference in this major motor vehicle manufacturing centre.

Mr. Diefenbaker, who has accused the Pearson government of ignoring the interests of consumers when it entered the Canada-U.S. auto trade agreement, said earlier in the campaign he would not be surprised if prices went down before voting day.

POST INVADED BY CHINESE

NEW DELHI (UPI)—The Indian defence ministry said about 20 Chinese Communist troops invaded the Himalayan kingdom of Sikkim today and opened fire on a three-man Indian observation post "well inside" Indian territory. The Indians returned the fire.

It was the first exchange of fire since Chinese troops were reported withdrawing from the mountain border areas where they said the Indians had destroyed military installations Peking claimed were built on Chinese territory.

11 Killed By Bombs In Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — Two terrorist bomb explosions, hours apart, killed 11 Vietnamese in Saigon today and wounded 42 others including two Americans.

The first bomb went off at noon at the base of a steel utility pole near the Cong Hoa National Stadium, a training centre for Vietnamese police officers. Four children and five police officers were killed and 32 persons wounded.

A taxi loaded with a bomb exploded in front of a Saigon theatre and near three American military billets tonight, killing two Vietnamese and wounding 10 other people, including the Americans.

U.S. military police said the bomb was under the rear seat of the small taxi and apparently exploded prematurely about 100 yards from a U.S. navy hospital.

The terrorists were presumed to be Viet Cong agents and the main target the Vietnamese police.

The explosion went off just outside a stadium where policemen had been training. Terrorists have made several other attacks on the police in recent weeks.

The four children killed were between the ages of 12 and 17. Three of the children were going by on bicycles when the mine exploded from the base of a steel utility pole.

Police said the type of mine used usually is filled with steel pellets and can be aimed in any direction.

Suspect May Never Stand Trial

Murder suspect Robert McDonald may never stand trial in connection with the knifing death Monday of 83-year-old retired farmer Frederick Adolph Dyer.

He was declared too sick to appear in court again today to hear a charge of capital murder read against him.

Magistrate William Ostler remanded him into the custody of the superintendent of Riverview Hospital at Essondale until Oct. 30.

New York Set To Meet Pope

NEW YORK (CP)—Pope Paul arrives here Monday on an unprecedented peace mission and the United Nations is all set to welcome the first pontiff ever to pay a visit to the Western Hemisphere.

Although the primary purpose of the Pope's visit is to address the world organization at a time of conflict in Viet Nam and Kashmir, the pontiff has accepted other engagements during his heavy one-day schedule in New York.

The massive turnout of people expected along the route Pope Paul will take to UN headquarters and later to Yankee Stadium, where he will celebrate mass, has posed numerous problems to New York City police and UN security officials.

Police Commissioner Vincent Broderick, head of the city's 26,000-man force, said 18,000 policemen have been assigned for duty during the 14-hour visit, which includes a meeting between the Pope and President Johnson.

WORK FOR PEACE

The pontiff said in Vatican City that he accepted an invitation by UN Secretary-General U Thant to address the UN General Assembly because he feels it is his duty to "omit no effort" that might promote world peace.

Plans call for U Thant to lead a distinguished group of international officials and church dignitaries in welcoming the Pope when he arrives on a commercial airliner from Rome after a flight that will take it over part of Canada.

The pontiff will enter an open limousine for a motorcade to St. Patrick's Cathedral, where he will kneel in a brief prayer of thanksgiving for a safe journey.

From the cathedral, Pope Paul will rejoin the motorcade to the Waldorf Astoria Hotel for his meeting with Johnson prior to his visit to the United Nations.

The papal party will arrive at 3:15 p.m. EDT at the UN General Assembly building, which will be closed to the public Monday. He will enter the building through "the Canadian doors"—

Lemay Aim Mexico?

HOUSTON (AP)—U.S. immigration officers and agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Texas have been warned to be on the lookout for Canadian Georges Lemay, escapee from a Florida jail, and two other persons, one of them Lemay's wife.

An immigration service spokesman there, Francis Quebodeaux, said it was feared Lemay, one of North America's most-wanted men, and his companions may attempt to enter Mexico.

All-Out Civil War Threatens

JAKARTA (UPI) Fighting broke out today in the streets of Jakarta between troops loyal to President Sukarno and leftist rebel forces seeking to overthrow him and seize control of this sprawling island republic of 100 million people.

(A broadcast heard in Singapore said loyal troops rushed into Jakarta appeared to have tipped the balance in Sukarno's favor. But it warned the situation appeared to have grown worse and there were fears of large-scale civil war.)

SINGAPORE (Reuters)—Jakarta radio tonight broadcast a statement by Indonesian President Sukarno saying he had taken over-all leadership of the army.

The statement, which appeared to be in his own voice, appealed to the people for calm and his ministers to carry on.

As the third day of the uncertain struggle for power drew to a close, there was no clue to the fate of Sukarno.

Jakarta radio, held by Sukarno's supporters, repeatedly declared he and defence minister Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution were in "safe hands."

But there has been no direct word from either Sukarno or Nasution since the revolutionary group, which the army said Friday was "Communist inspired," struck suddenly last Thursday.

LOYAL FORCES

An army broadcast last night said loyal forces had crushed the revolutionary "30th of September movement" headed by a presidential guard officer, Lt. Col. Untung.

But shooting erupted this morning and the army-controlled Jakarta radio declared a state of war in the capital and ordered a dusk-to-dawn curfew.

A statement denied reports the air force was involved in the rebel movement headed by Untung. But it did not mention what had become of air force commander vice marshal Omar Dani, who had been listed among Untung's supporters.

EXTORTIONISTS PREY ON JAPANESE PRINCESS

. . . eyed in private

TOKYO (AP)—A blackmail letter demanding 1,000,000 yen ($2,800) for negatives of sneak photographs taken of Princess Yasuko, 21, was received Sept. 5 by her mother, Princess Yuriko Mikasa, police said today.

The princess and her parents are expected to return to Tokyo Oct. 4 from a world tour. They now are visiting Canada and were scheduled to arrive in Vancouver today.

Prince Mikasa is Emperor Hirohito's youngest brother. Princess Yasuko's engagement was recently announced.

Police said the letter claimed the photographs were taken of Princess Yasuko's private life through the window of her summer residence at Karuizawa, a mountain resort 100 miles north of Tokyo.

Analyst's Comments — Monday Entries

By HAL MALONE

FIRST RACE: It's been a long, dry summer for this bunch but we expect the drought might end here for Lee's Time. Off her excellent race to Actella, she could lead these home if Ventrella can keep her in on the turns. Kelly Joe appears the only other pace but from the outside she's no bargain. If the leaders tire the improving Fishermaid could grab the bacon. Of the eligibles Pascanna might consume this lot. She's been in over her head and shown fine promise . . . PASCANNA (Lee's Time, Fishermaid).

SECOND RACE: After drawing bad posts twice (and still showing fair horsepower) Wallys Gem finally lands on the inside. Shields should be able to lay fairly close early and take over when he's ready. We look for Magic Eve and Golden Empress to lead them a ways. Avons Jr. is an interesting proposition at a price. If Gisebricht can get good position the first half he could loom dangerously in the stretch . . . WALLY'S GEM (Avons Jr.)

THIRD RACE: The way Green Again has been running it looks like the only way the're going to stop him is with a gun. He meets real speed today in Mil Easy who likes to barrel away from the barrier, preferably unaccompanied. Waraway should benefit from the fast fractions. Will Roll comes from the clouds and will have to if the speed duel materializes. Of much interest will be the Elliott-Phillips' strategy. If they snug in behind Mil Easy that could be it. If they elect to run with her it will be strictly a question of the survival of the fittest . . . GREEN AGAIN (Mil Easy).

FOURTH RACE: He hasn't had a spectacular season but No Soap may be able to draw away. Milne is an alert gateboy and there's no speed to speak of inside him. Colinda couldn't make it with a better post and may have trouble getting good position. Whaang Leather is overdue and the spot certainly isn't too difficult. They're switching riders on Totem Miss here and while we don't want to take anything away from Milne, Shields might fit the mare better. Cor Asia is sharp but has been going a distance and doesn't seem to be the easiest horse to handle. If Loodani draws in, he could get on the board . . . TOTEM MISS (No Soap).

FIFTH RACE: There should be one doozer of a traffic jam at the first turn here. Cherys Pet, Power Tip and Ardorin all like to get the bit in their bicuspids and go-go. The first two tend, however, to develop faint hearts if molested. Ardorin hasn't been to the races since Aug. 19 but she has two highly impressive works under her and if she runs to them, that could mean bye-bye. Orange Result will appreciate the speed duel and if they all get the staggers and Cormack finds an opening he could surprise them . . . ARDORIN (Orange Result).

SIXTH RACE: He's never been known as a marathoner but Pils Friday, weight and all, might fool them here. He's tight, has speed and it appears that he can be rated. If Combs sets up a false pace, the chargers might have difficulty. Constone also likes to cavort fairly close up. Why Him seems to like this racket and wasn't beaten very much the other day. Gay Bond gets a better post but seems to lack the winning kick. Hawksboro rarely puts two good ones together but the distance won't stop him. Chekaj Chekaj will probably be the post favorite and his class should carry him home . . . CHEKAJ CHEKAJ (Pils Friday).

SEVENTH RACE: Frankly, we never considered Permano to be anything but a sprinter and were as surprised as anybody when he not only stayed with Shock Troop but pulled away. Permano picks up four pounds today (he received five from Shock Troop in the Derby trial) but his manner was very impressive. Track Record gets off a brilliant race occasionally and should get on the board. Peaceful Nite has a look with these and the Alberta filly, Bell's Sheila, should improve off her last try . . . PERMANO (Shock Troop).

EIGHTH RACE: They are switching riders all over the place here, and while we don't normally put too much emphasis on changes, they could be a factor today. Nevercot has been backing up, but under Marsh, could make it interesting. Buberlou gets Broomfield, and if he hadn't been forced to take the outside in his last might have taken it. Trejos switches from Miss Orb to Lloyter and may be the one they have to beat. The one we fancy, though, is Gulf Island. He was full of gallop in his list but had no room to breathe in the lane. In a grab-bag. — GULF ISLAND (Lloyter).

Polish Official Dies

LONDON (AP) — Oscar Lange, 61, Poland's deputy premier and chief economic planner, died in Westminster Hospital today after treatment of several weeks for an undisclosed illness.

'Sit Down' For Two Days To Get Results

More than 80 delegates to the annual convention of the B.C. Government Employees Association repeated demands Friday for collective bargaining rights and dues checkoff.

The delegates also passed a resolution calling on the executive of the 8,000-member group to make representations to the government for a 30-hour week with no reduction in pay, to create more jobs.

The resolutions were submitted by the Oakalla local of the Canadian Labour Congress-affiliated union.

It was pointed out that bargaining rights have been extended to government workers in Quebec, Manitoba and Alberta in the last few months.

For many years Saskatchewan government workers have also

But all the B.C. government workers can do is make representation to the Civil Service Commission.

'QUICK WAY'

One delegate said there is a quick way to gain the same rights of private companies enjoy under the Labor Relations Act.

"Go home and sit down for two days," said E. L. Scott of Penticton.

"What are we supposed to do, crawl to them and lick their boots? We're the only organized body in Canada that hasn't got the checkoff."

Deduction of union dues by the government was stopped by the government in 1960, after a brief strike the previous year which was ended by injunction. Dues now are paid voluntary.

"This is our lifeblood," said Alex McEwan of Oakalla. "We want bargining rights and dues checkoff and we will no longer accept excuses.

"I don't want to see delegates passively voting for this resolution. I want to see them stirred up."

The two-day convention at the Empress Hotel ended today.

Social Credit Nomination Last In Area

The last nomination meeting on Southern Vancouver Island will be held Monday night when Esquimalt-Saanich Social Credit members pick their candidate.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in the Lake Hill Women's Institute. No one has declared himself for the candidacy so far.

With this exception, all the expected candidates in the Nov. 8 federal election have been picked in Victoria and Esquimalt-Saanich constituencies.

Here is the lineup:

Victoria — David Groos, Liberal; Rev. Clifford Waite, Progressive Conservative; Lloyd Brereton, New Democrat; Frank Hunter, Social Credit; W. S. E. Morrison, Communist.

frequently failed to carry to the stage.

"I want you to get home before morning, replied Diefenbaker as his partisan supporters yelled and waved placards.

He kept his main appeal to the end of his speech.

Said the 70-year-old leader:

"To the service of our country I have given the full span of my years and I would like to hope, and hope you will believe me, that whatever the errors that were committed or the shortcomings, the years have not been unworthy.

ALL CANADIANS

"I am going to make an appeal to the conscience of this nation, not just to Conservatives, but to all Canadians.

"This nation has not come to a place of greatness without heavy accountability to history; to answer that accountability, to be worthy of those who began our days at a nation, I ask you to join so that each of us, humbly and with God's help, in the years to come may be worthy of the land which in days long gone by so many gave so much, and that we as Canadians will turn our back on the two years of the present administration which has torn our country asunder," Diefenbaker said.

He said the Conservatives wanted the opportunity to work for the dreams of the founding fathers.

Turning briefly to Tory policy, Diefenbaker repeated his promises of increased aid to higher education and to research.

He referred to his plans for a constitutional conference.

"In the interest of this nation the time has come to end the political carpentry of the present government that has driven province against province and race against race," he said.

THROW RASCALS

He added that the Tories will "restore integrity to national government."

Diefenbaker said the Liberal slogan is "throw the rascals in."

He stated wrongdoing had permeated the heart and soul of the administration, and that the Liberals had tried to conceal it.

"The time has come to establish in this nation new principles of honesty, to restore those things that have been lost in 2½ years," he said.

His pledge to raise old-age pensions to $100 raised the same loud cheers as it has done during the rest of his campaigning.

His only new policy statement was that a Tory government would bring in a program for urban renewal and replacement, and would bring in national housing act legislation to permit mortgages for older homes.

so named because they are a gift of the people of Canada.

The pontiff will have private talks with Thant and Amintore Fanfani of Italy, president of the General Assembly, as well as address the 117-nation assembly and meet delegations. The secretary-general will then give a diplomatic reception in the Pope's honor.

The Canadian delegation to the UN will be headed on this occasion by External Affairs Minister Paul Martin.

At the UN, the Pope will pause outside the assembly hall to pose for a photograph with a group of children from the UN International School, amongst them Ronald Mason, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Mason of Ottawa, who will present a bouquet of flowers to the pontiff on behalf of the United Nations Children's Fund.

After a brief visit with Catholic, Protestant and Jewish groups at Holy Family Church, near the UN, the pontiff will stop at the residence of Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York before going to Yankee Stadium where a crowd of more than 100,000 is expected.

The Pope will celebrate mass at 8:30 p.m. EDT before leaving for a brief visit to the Vatican Pavilion at the New York World's Fair. From the fair, Pope Paul will leave for Kennedy Airport and the flight back to Rome.

An inquest will be held in connection with the stabbing Monday at 7:30 p.m. in McCall Bros. Chapel.

BROKE INTO HOME

It is alleged McDonald, 44, of 1036 Caledonia, broke into the Dyer home, 1213 Walnut, early Monday morning.

McDonald was ruled too sick to appear at a previous court appearance Tuesday.

Today, Dr. Douglas Alcorn described his condition as "confused but quieter" than when he saw him after his arrest in the vicinity of the Dyer home Monday.

He had been seeing him daily in his cell at Victoria Law Courts.

Dr. Alcorn said the accused man told him he "has been in six different countries in the last week."

"SOME CHARGE"

He said he was incapable of defending himself in court or instructing counsel. He added, McDonald understands "some charge has been laid against him."

"He has put his trust in God," the psychiatrist said.

Dr. Alcorn recommended McDonald be sent to the Essondale mental institution for a period of observation to get proper care difficult to provide in Victoria.

Rezoning Hearing Set Monday

Oak Bay ratepayers will get a chance to voice objections to rezoning of former Mountain View Home property for a six-storey apartment building Monday at 7:30 p.m.

The rezoning hearing will take place in the Municipal Hall council chamber prior to council's regular meeting.

The proposed bylaw would change property on Cadboro Bay Road between Cranmore and Bowker from residential to apartment zoning.

Buildings erected on the property, which is owned by the city, shall not be less than two or more than six storeys, excluding basement and penthouse.

Original applications by the city asked for a 12-storey apartment but this was chopped in half by the Oak Bay planning committee.

The city has protested the limit saying the restriction would make any apartment building uneconomic.

Spacecraft Loses Contact With Earth

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Mariner 4 "lost its voice" Friday, ending the spacecraft's historic 307-day mission that was highlighted last July with the first close-up photograph of Mars.

Since the Nov. 28 launch last year, Mariner 4 has travelled 418,000,000 miles and transmitted some 50,000,000 scientific measurements on space and Mars as well as its own technical performance.

Creditistes Set Hopes On Power Balance Role

CREDITISTE CAMPAIGN will be officially launched Sunday by leader Real Caouette who arrived in Quebec City Friday with his wife to prepare for major rally. (CP Wirephoto.)

By REMY d'ANJOU

QUEBEC (CP)—Creditiste Leader Real Caouette predicted Friday that no party will get a clear-cut majority in the Nov. 8 federal election and that his party will hold the balance of power.

Mr. Caouette told a press conference that because of this balance of power the Creditistes will be able to impose their will "on the aspiring Canadian prime minister.

"He who wants to become prime minister will have to sign an agreement with us to the effect that, in the first Speech from the Throne, he will announce an increase in family allowance — according to the cost of living index — a reduction in taxes, an increase in old-age pensions to $100 a month with a later objective of $125 and the granting of interest-free loans to municipalities and provinces."

Mr. Caouette was in Quebec City to attend a day-long closed meeting of his party's organizers. Aim of the meeting is to map out party strategy for the forthcoming electoral campaign.

PREDICTS SWEEP

Describing himself as being in good health, "dangerously good for the opposition," the Creditiste leader and member of the last Parliament for Villeneuve said his party will take between 35 and 50 of Quebec province's 75 Commons seats.

He described the entry of Jean Marchand, Gerard Pelletier and Pierre Elliott-Trudeau — three Quebec intellectuals—into the ranks of the Liberal party as "a flagrant infiltration of socialism and communism into that party."

The Liberals allowed the three to join their party because of "intellectual nonchalance" and because they were ready "to do anything to retain power."

Between now and Nov. 7 the Creditiste leader is to tour the province by car, visiting 60 constituencies.

HAS NO FUND

"Le Ralliement des Creditistes has no election fund and doesn't need one, as we can count on volunteer workers," Mr. Caouette said.

But he said the Liberal election fund "is financed by the international and Canadian underworld" and the Conservative fund is made up of grants from big business.

Mr. Caouette, who said he believes "Diefenbaker is no more poisonous to French-Canadians than Pearson," added that Quebec Premier Jean Lesage's tour of Western Canada is a political test "which will allow him to see whether he would be accepted as Mr. Pearson's successor as head of the federal Liberal party."

He said he remains convinced, despite Mr. Pearson's denial, that the federal election was called to make sure that Canada will be able to send 100,000 soldiers to Viet Nam.

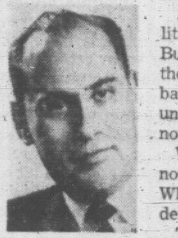
"I have learned from a definitive source that preparations have been made so that a first contingent will leave Canada around Nov. 15 or 20."

This first group of 50,000 men would be followed by a second group of the same size.

"To send these men, it will be necessary to conscript the youth of 18 to 23 years of age. Even if they are sent to Viet Nam to keep the peace, I am against it."

Party Banners Replace Dief In PC Drive

By PETER NEWMAN



Newman

WITH DIEFENBAKER CAMPAIGN TRAIN IN TORONTO—The Diefenbaker party—which was swept into power in 1957 by the platform magic of the man from Prince Albert, and swept out again in 1963 by his glaring ineptitudes in office—has been replaced in this campaign by the Conservative Party.

That the Progressive Conservative Party of Canada is no longer the personal property of one man was the clear undercurrent of the messages delivered at Toronto's varsity arena Friday night, by John Robarts of Ontario, Duff Roblin of Manitoba and Bob Stanfield of Nova Scotia.

All three pledged their political support to Diefenbaker. But they left little doubt that their allegiance was primarily based on their desire to reunite the Conservative Party, not to save John Diefenbaker.

What they talked about was not the leader but the party. What they stressed was not demagoguery but unity.

This idea—that the Conservative Party has a history and a future apart from the leader—lost currency during "the Diefenbaker Years," when his supporters wallowed in worship of a man who captured their imaginations as well as their ballots.

Toronto Shuns Personal Drive

The very name Diefenbaker so stirred the people that it replaced the party label. On April 25, 1957, at the Toronto rally which kicked off his first victorious campaign, the word "Conservative" was hardly mentioned. A 30-foot-high map of Canada bearing the legend Diefenbaker—Canada's Man dominated the stage of Massey Hall.

Conservative election pamphlets urged people to "Keep a date with Diefenbaker and democracy on June 10."

In the 1958 campaign, this unusual appeal was carried even further with party literature advertising local candidates not as Conservatives but as "the personal representatives of John Diefenbaker."

Friday night it was different. There was only one sign at the Toronto rally and it read: "Policies for Progress."

The only evidence of Diefenbaker in the hall's decorations was a blown-up picture of him smiling at John Robarts, who was given equal time on the speakers' platform.

There were just two hand-letter placards proclaiming the virtues of "Our Boy Dief": all the other wildly waving banners in the hands of sombre youths and lively ladies were for local candidates.

United Effort Hope for Win

The change of mood in the Conservative party is not a renewed manifestation of anti-Diefenbaker sentiment. The Tories are well aware that he's still the party's best campaigner. But what the three provincial premiers underlined in their messages of unit was that this time, a Conservative win will be the victory of an entire party not the triumph of one man.

Tory moderates apparently hope that a new Diefenbaker ministry would not be the erratic one-man government that Canada had between 1957 and 1963, because Diefenbaker would presumably be willing to listen to his advisors.

If he did not and reverted to his former tactics, the men around Diefenbaker would be emboldened to speak out and remind him of just how his power was achieved.

Beyond this short-term consideration, which is based on the unlikely event of a Conservative upset, there is the long-term aspect of using the occasion of this election campaign to provide a firm base on which Diefenbaker's successor can build.

"How can we hope to attract good candidates for the leadership, unless we present them with a party that's worth leading?" asks one high-ranking Toronto Tory. "We don't want to pass on a rump of 30 MPs."

A resurgence of optimism about the Conservative party's long-term future is now general in Toronto, the party's onetime bastion. During the Diefenbaker years, the Toronto area became the centre of disillusionment with the man from Prince Albert.

In the 1963 election he lost every Toronto seat. The revolts against his leadership at the party's annual and executive meetings in 1964 and 1965 were all Toronto inspired.

It was Lester Pearson's election call which precipitated a turnabout in the Tory attitude.

No man typifies this transformation better than Joseph Sedgwick, the distinguished lawyer, generally regarded as the leader of Toronto's Tory establishment.

A marvellously articulate gentleman of solid Conservative persuasion, he has never sought office. But for 40 years he has organized, raised funds, and arranged party deals, and formulated party policy.

Although he was chairman of the policy committee at Diefenbaker's leadership convention in 1956, he gradually became disillusioned with Diefenbaker Conservatism.

During the 1963 campaign, he wrote an open letter disavowing his party.

"I could not in conscience support a Diefenbaker candidate, because I would not know (and he could not know) what he stood for."

But Joseph Sedgwick has come once again to the aid of his party, vigorously intent on raising funds to finance its resurgence.

"By calling this unnecessary election at a time when he thought the Conservatives were hopelessly divided, Mr. Pearson has done more than any other man could have achieved in uniting our party," he told me Friday.

NDP LEADER T. C. DOUGLAS ON THE HUSTINGS

. . . the Rivard scandal? . . . I won't mention it . . . well, maybe just once.

INTEREST ON LOANS SCORED

Free University Tuition Big Goal in NDP Program

By BEN WARD

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—T. C. Douglas wound up the first big week of his federal election campaign Friday night with a sharp attack on the government's student loan plan, calling it a disgraceful substitute for free university education.

The NDP leader said a student will have to pay up to $1,000 in interest charges if he uses the maximum $5,000 loan obtainable during five years of study.

"I think this is disgraceful," Mr. Douglas told an audience of 1,400 that filled all but a few gallery seats in the Beal High School auditorium. Students and staff members from the University of Western Ontario here made up a large section of it, the biggest turnout he had drawn so far in the campaign.

He repeated his pledge that a New Democratic Party government would give immediate priority to making education free at every level by providing the provinces with the financing necessary to remove tuition fees from universities.

The province of Ontario was the first to provide free primary and secondary school education. "But you and I today must take up where our ancestors left off."

Mr. Douglas appeared to have lost much of his bounce and energy after a sleepless night in Sudbury followed by a flight to Toronto, a press conference there and an afternoon flight to London.

Key figure in the NDP campaign in this area is Archdeacon Kenneth Bolton, 59-year-old theology professor at Huron College — an Anglican affiliate of the university—who is running for the Middlesex East seat.

The party is running token candidates in other London ridings and concentrating its forces on Middlesex East, 200 strong.

'WILL PAY OFF'

Mr. Douglas told the dinner group the party is getting its biggest response and "most enthusiastic I've ever seen. Don't let anybody tell you it's impossible for the New Democrats to win this one. If we get out and do the work it will pay off this time."

In his speech at the high school, Mr. Douglas made his first indirect reference of the campaign to the Rivard affair, saying people are uncertain about how to vote when they see "the slimy hand of the underworld reaching up into the high councils of the nation . . . and when they see influence - peddling and bail - jumpers averting justice."

But he added later that neither he nor his colleagues intend to go about the country "digging up corruption, scandal and muck." They had their own positive program to talk about.

A 50-foot banner reading: "We'd help elect you, but Pearson won't let us" was stretched across the balcony of the auditorium. It referred to the fact that many student voters will be unable to vote from their university residences because they were not enrolled when election writs were issued Sept. 8.

BLAMES PEARSON

Mr. Douglas said this was the fault of Prime Minister Pearson who set the election date without considering the problem.

"A man who can't see that far ahead isn't going to be much good directing this country in the difficult days that lie before us," he said.

Mr. Pearson was reported to be spending most of his time in Canada drawing up an election platform. "Why doesn't he just use the old one? It's still as good as new," the NDP leader said with a laugh.

One of the major unfilled promises in the 1963 Liberal platforms was that of free university scholarships "Ask your Liberal friends what happened on that one?"

Mr. Douglas was to fly to Ottawa today to work on his future schedule and take a 24-hour rest before heading into a Maritimes swing.

Lesage Chooses Tory Emissary to Quebec

WINNIPEG (CP) — Quebec Premier Jean Lesage said Friday night Manitoba Premier Duff Roblin would be a good man to present a true picture of the Canadian West to Quebecers.

Mr. Lesage, speaking at a press conference here, said it is necessary to set up a series of exchanges between Qubec and the West.

The premier, asked whether Mr. Roblin would receive organizational support during a visit to Quebec province—as Mr. Lesage has in the West—replied, "Certainly. There would, for example, be the chambers of commerce of our province."

"If a man such as Mr. Roblin made a tour of Quebec, he would have to go to Montreal, Quebec, Trois-Rivieres, Riviere du Loop, Rimouski and every region of the province."

Mr. Roblin's name was suggested to Mr. Lesage because the Manitoba premier speaks fluent French.

Another reporter asked: "Would Mr. Ross Thatcher, who also speaks French and is premier of Saskatchewan, make as good a western representative as Mr. Roblin?"

"Mr. Thatcher would be equally welcome in Quebec," Mr. Lesage said "but I must stay away from partisan politics."

LIBERALS PLAN NO PEAKING YET

OTTAWA (CP)—The Liberals have often attributed their inability to win a majority in 1963 to the assertion that they "peaked" too soon.

They're trying not to take any chances this time that Prime Minister Pearson will reach the crest of his campaign too soon. "Peaking" and the Nov. 8 polling day are supposed to coincide.

Mr. Pearson continued this week with his deliberately-slow start, sandwiching an old-fashioned political rally in St. John's, Nfld., Thursday between two non-political appearances in Toronto Wednesday and Ottawa Friday.

But the non-political stuff now is pretty well behind him. With five weeks of campaigning left, he ventures into Northern Ontario and Manitoba next week. He has said he will campaign in every province.

On Tuesday he goes to Kirkland Lake and Timmins, returning here that evening. He flies to Winnipeg and Dauphin, Man., Thursday. Plans beyond that have not been announced.

Another Forward Step

THE OFFICIAL OPENING OF the municipal court house yesterday leaves only one major unit of the Centennial Square complex still to be put into service. When completed, with its adjacent shopping arcade, the parking building will add the final northern segment to the square, with only the theatre restaurant still to open its doors.

The city is to be congratulated on the handsome building which will accommodate the magistrate's court and the smaller traffic court. We have long lacked quarters of suitable dignity and scope for the administration of justice on the magisterial level. Now these have been provided in a building and rooms which while stressing simplicity, have been designed and decorated in a manner that should win full public approval.

Thus the square approaches its final realization, and despite some remaining difficulty with details, there can be no doubt that in conception and implementation it is one of the finest projects ever to be undertaken in the city.

It would be a shameful denial of the imaginative competence which planned the square and of the public approval which made it possible if Victoria's forward march were to halt at this point. There still remains Bastion Square to be rehabilitated and made a part of the downtown renaissance. There still remains the pedestrian mall plan for Broad Street—a necessary part of the Centennial Square concept since it will provide an appropriate southern approach to the new City Hall annex. There still remain other projects for the beautification and rejuvenation of the downtown area—and the fear of a flight of customers and tenants from the city's centre, which sparked much of the rehabilitation project, has not yet been entirely eradicated.

There is still much to be done before Victoria can look upon itself as having overcome the 50 years of doldrums which seriously hampered our life as a community and threatened the core of the city with decay. We now have renewed impetus and encouragement as we see these fine new buildings brought into use. Let us not lose that impetus in premature self-satisfaction.

Hewers and Drawers

A POLITICIAN AS ASTUTE AS Senator Albert Gore, the Democrat from Tennessee, knows well that unrestricted free trade between Canada and the United States is not a practical proposition at the present time.

So his suggestion, made during Senate debate on the Canada-U.S. auto trade agreement, was no more than a handful of sand thrown into the political gears in an attempt to stall off passage of the measure. The pact was passed by the Senate by a narrow margin and now goes back to the House of Representatives for further consideration.

It is to be wondered, however, if Senator Gore realized just how abrasive that sand was and how aggravating his comments could be in the midst of a Canadian general election campaign in which Canadian-American economic relations are, to some extent at least, an issue.

The suggestion that Canada should stick to the role of being a "hewer of wood and drawer of water," which was the implication in the arguments made by Mr. Gore and several other senators against the auto agreement, will not be joyfully received by most Canadians who realize that this would forever condemn them to be a mere appendage of American industrial might.

Even less pleasant was the senator's curt dismissal of the U.S. administration's position that the auto trade pact was necessary to avoid forcing Canada into slapping higher tariffs on American-made cars, in order to protect its balance-of-payments position. Mr. Gore tossed this off by saying that Canada's economic dependence on the United States, as well as the "delicate" Canadian political situation, precluded such a response.

Opinions such as this cannot help but stoke the fires of resentment in this country and sooner or later, if the Canadian election campaign gets hot enough, this could become a part of the issues put before the voters. There can be no doubt but that it was this feeling which contributed considerably to the Diefenbaker victory at the polls in 1957 and remained as a raw wound in Canadian - American relations for several years following.

Senator Gore, by and large, is not an irresponsible legislator and his remarks must be considered in the light of the fact that he is fighting desperately to avoid the economic dislocation which could occur in his state if the auto agreement goes into effect. Nevertheless, his comments leave a bad taste.

The Fast-Growing Minority

MRS. GLORIA WEBSTER, head of the Vancouver Indian Centre Society, has pointed to a potential problem which should engage the concern of all British Columbia residents.

She says that the Indian birth rate is three times that of the rest of the population in Canada and that there are insufficient employment opportunities close to reservations to absorb the young people as they reach working ages. In consequence, Indians are moving increasingly to urban centres.

"Indians are the fastest growing minority in Canada," says Mrs. Webster. "Experience in Britain has shown that if large numbers of a minority group move into an area over a short time there can be real difficulty. So far there are not enough Indians in the cities to worry anyone."

The implication of that last sentence is clear: there are not enough Indians in the cities yet to cause worry. But if the population trend continues it could result in a situation similar to that which has created racial trouble in Britain. Because of this prospect, Mrs. Webster suggests that not only should white people concern themselves with the education of Indians but that they should educate themselves to understand Indians better.

The suggestion is sound. While efforts are made to provide more adequate schooling for the native youngsters, provision of a means of making the transition to satisfactory urban living has fallen below existing needs. The sad stories that emanate from Skid Road in Vancouver lend emphasis to that point, as do attempts in such places as Alberni and Vancouver to provide centres where the young men and women from the reserves can find shelter, sanctuary and assistance.

Theoretically most people in this province support the movement to give Indians equal opportunities with other citizens. Too often, however, theory outpaces practice and little is done either to fit Indians into urban society or to help them mingle on an equal footing with other citizens.

Mrs. Webster has pointed to the possibility of a serious problem developing in the years ahead unless it is forestalled by positive action now—the kind of action which will assure the native of social as well as economic equality of opportunity. It's a timely warning that deserves attention.

FROM WASHINGTON

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Punching Holes in Viet Nam Water

THE success of the American build-up in South Viet Nam has been very considerable when we measure it by what so many informed people feared last June. The Viet Cong has not been able to smash the Saigonese army, to cut the country in half, and in this military disaster to bring about the overthrow of the government in Siagon. There is reason to think that the size and power of the American forces has discouraged or prevented the Viet Cong from mounting big enough battles to win a victory over the Saigonese.

Lippmann

Yet, things have not come out as the administration spokesmen hoped they would. They allowed themselves to think that a demonstration of our ability to build up a great American force which could not be defeated would compel or persuade the Viet Cong and Hanoi to agree to a negotiated settlement. Quite the contrary has happened. The position of the Viet Cong and Hanoi today is even harder than it was last spring.

Why? Why, as we have put more and more of the best troops we have into South Viet Nam, as we have escalated the violence of our attacks, have our adversaries become ever more scornful of our proposals to negotiate?

Village Struggle

My own belief is that they are convinced that, while the Americans cannot be defeated, the Americans cannot win the war on the ground. This, however, is where the war has to be won, in the villages of South Viet Nam, and that is where the struggle will in the end be decided.

The essential fact, which is beginning to seep through the dispatches of some of the American correspondents, is that while the Americans can seize almost any place they choose to attack, the Viet Cong will almost surely come back once the Americans leave.

The war in Viet Nam is like punching a tub full of water. We can make a hole with our powerful fist wherever we punch the water. But once we pull back our hand, possibly to punch another hole in the water, the first hole disappears. In theory, the Saigonese army ought to fill the hole, ought to occupy and pacify the places we seize. But the Saigonese army is not able to do this because it is too small and too war-weary.

People Terrorized

It is too small because the villages, which are the reservoir of available manpower, are for the most part Viet Cong in their sympathies or are terrorized by the Viet Cong. The Saigonese army is too disillusioned and has too little morale to occupy territory which the Americans have seized.

There are some Republican politicians who think that this mess can be disentangled or ended by bombing the industrial, and therefore populated, centres of Hanoi and Haiphong. The President, fortunately, has resisted the temptation to make the war a total war and thus to make it a general Asian war.

Our adversaries, moreover, have time to wait, time to retreat, to hide and to live to fight another day. So we shall be forced to face the fact that in order to win the war in South Viet Nam we shall have to occupy South Viet Nam with American troops. A few months ago Mr. Hanson Baldwin, the military correspondent of the New York Times, called for a million men for Viet Nam. It sounded fantastic at the time in light of what President Johnson was saying about not wanting a wider war. But it is beginning to look very much as if Mr. Baldwin had made an informed and realistic estimate of what a military solution would require.

The situation has become so tangled that no clear and decisive solution is for the present conceivable. The President is no nearer the negotiated settlement which he has hoped to bring about. Nor, as a matter of fact, is the administration truly resolved to negotiate in a sense that it is prepared, even in its private thinking, to make the concessions that any successful negotiation is bound to call for.

Failing the prospect of a settlement, the President has managed to obtain the assent of most of the country to the kind of war we are fighting—a sporadic, low-grade war carried on chiefly by a professional American army. There is no immediate prospect of big battles with big casualties because the Viet Cong, so it would seem, has withdrawn into guerrilla war. Against the kind of force we have in Viet Nam, guerrilla warfare cannot win a victory. But neither can the guerrillas be defeated decisively and put out of business.

If we cannot or will not escalate the war until we have an enormous army which can occupy the country, our best course is to dig in along the coast and begin to discuss with the Vietnamese politicians the formation of a government in Saigon which can negotiate a truce in the civil war. This course will not please the majority of the President's current advisers. But with all due respect to them, how do they propose to win this war; specifically, what size of American army are they prepared to draft and put into Indo-China? For the war is not going to be won by punching the water.

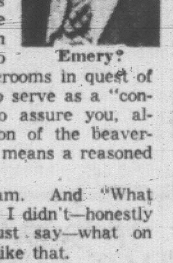
THE BEAVER'S FATE

By TONY EMERY

Haired and Hounded

WHEN I wake up in the mornings I do sometimes say to myself, like Bottom, "Methinks I am marvellous hairy about the face," but in my waking hours I have grown so used to The Beard that I forget it is there, until I am reminded by the strange noises uttered by friends who last saw me more or less clean-shaven. Their reactions certainly enliven the day. If you have grown a beard, there is no need to haunt the salerooms in quest of some strange object to serve as a "conversation piece," I do assure you, although the conversation of the beaver-spotters is not by any means a reasoned and coherent flow.



Emery?

"Aie!" they scream. And "What the . . .?" And "Well, I didn't—honestly—no, it really—I must say—what on earth . . ." And all like that.

I think perhaps it is not so much the beard that upsets them as the fact that by growing one I have forced them to think about my appearance, which they would rather have forgotten. There is a definite implication that I should have asked for permission before launching this fresh piece of impertinence on my long-suffering friends and acquaintances, or at the very least, that I should have issued a general warning to prepare them for the shock of non-recognition.

The most salutary effect of the whole episode—now extending over a little more than a month—is the revelation to me of a hitherto-unsuspected minority of whose persecution by our civilized society I had remained so far quite unaware. I refer to the beard growers, not the beard wearers. The crime is not, apparently, in the possession of the beard, but only in its cultivation. I notice that men who spring into our midst fully bearded, like a critical poet we all know, are accepted as they are; or at least if they are not accepted, it is not because of the beard . . . For them the crime would be to shave off the face furnishings to which the public has grown accustomed.

If you think I am exaggerating about the persecution to which the beard raiser is exposed, let me cite the sad case of the wealthy eccentric I have written about before, the yachtsman who owns our local service station. He allowed his beard to sprout while he was sailing down to Hawaii this summer, and when he came back with a modified Captain Kettle whisker he was the butt of some cruel and unusual punishment from his clientele. Being human—in many ways—the more he was railed at the more stubbornly he determined to hang on to it.

Hidin' Sikh

I have no plans for my own small landscaping project, but I must say I begin to grow a little mulish under the rain of fleers and gibes. The fierceness and irrationality of the attacks—after all, isn't it more natural to let the hair sprout than to shave it all off?—begins to make me suspect that psychologists have a fertile field here for research. I might even contribute a little to the literature myself.

I remember, for instance, an unfortunate Sikh I once shared a boxcar with on a marathon journey across Central Europe. He had been stricken in youth by some ailment which inhibited the growth of hair on his face and head, and so sensitive was he about this—a beardless Sikh has the same problems, mutatis mutandis, as a small Australian or a flatchested Italian movie actress—that he held his turban tail tightly over the lower part of his face the whole time.

Chins of the Fathers . . .

Come to think of it, this beard of mine may very well be the delayed-action effect of my boyhood hero, the Punjabi driver who wheeled our gleaming new 1925 Dodge between Malabar Hill and downtown Bombay. If I was lucky, somewhere on the journey we would pass the Governor's bodyguard, the jingling cavalry escort of big bronze men on satin-shiny black Walers. Their beards were always glistening with coconut-oil, and tightly rolled in a small, neat net. Proper men, you may say, all medals and fluttering lance-pennons. What do we give our small boys to look at, I ask you? No wonder there are juvenile delinquents.

I should like to deny, though, that the beard is the result of religious ambitions, even if Father Divine's recent death has left a vacancy in the field. The rumor probably started when one of my disciples pointd out a faint but perceptible radiance around my head as I was walking out to my mooring in Cadboro Bay, but I should like to assure you that there is absolutely nothing in it.

Nature Rambles

By FREEMAN KING

AN interesting ramble can be made along the shore at Island View Beach.

Here as you walk along the edge of the tide you will find many types of seaweed that have been cast up on the sands.

One of the most evident is the sea lettuce with its tissue-paper texture. As the plant grows older it will become a dark, brownish color. There is another species belonging to the same group—the green string lettuce with long, slender blades that are almost transparent.

If you look closely at the clay patches you can find a little spongy cushion that looks like a blob of jelly. It shows a dark green or even black half-moon shaped cushion.

There is the brown sieve which looks as if something has eaten many holes in it; it is very fragile and paper-thin.

The sea colander often is mingled with the sieve; it too has many holes along the edges. There often seem to be bubbles on one side and a depression on the other side, said to result from the multiplication of the cells.

There will certainly be strewn along the sand the bull or ribbon kelp with its long, hollow stem and its air bladder at the top. This keeps the long bladder or ribbons near the surface of the water. Perhaps you may find one that has a large net-like hold-fast still attached. This enables the plants to hold to rock or other solid surfaces so they are not washed away by the surging tide and high waves.

Look at many of these seaweeds and notice the tiny yellow or white doughnut-like rings on them. They will be the eggs of some snail-like creature.

CALGARY

A Multiple Ombudsman

By JAMES H. GRAY

A SMALL advertisement appeared in Alberta newspapers last week which, while it will evoke little action, was of considerable significance. It called on Albertans, if they had any complaints about unfair treatment at the hands of any Government board or commission, to come forward and lay the complaints on the line.

Gray

A committee of the Legislature has been set up to hear complaints. It is now out searching for people who will put their grievances in writinng and later come forward and testify before the committee.

The significance of the advertisement is double edged. It illustrates the Manning genius for grabbing the ball from the opposition and running it into a political touchdown. And it underlines the fact that Alberta is one of the most board-ridden provinces in Canada.

For 25 years, Premier E. C. Manning has stayed in power by keeping ahead of the opposition. He has done so by lifting the best planks out of opposition platforms and enacting them into law. When the Liberals proposed a long-range plan for investing the province's oil revenues, Manning came up with his own Five-Year-Plans. The Liberals demanded better care for the aged. Manning built two dozen retirement villages. The opposition demanded a University at Calgary. Manning provided one. The list is endless.

Last year the opposition got on the Ombudsman kick and demanded the appointment of an official to protect the people from the exercise of arbitrary power by government officials and public boards. Has the public been pushed around? Is there something here to complain about? Let's get it out in the opening! Thus the present inquiry.

That it will stir up much standing up to be counted is doubtful. Most Albertans now seem reconciled to life ordered by bureaucratic ukase. In Alberta, owners of private property are controlled in a manner that would outrage any castle-owning Englishman. Most of the settled province is rigidly controlled by regional planning boards, who sit atop local planning boards. The decisions of these boards can enrich some landowners and pauperize others.

Other Boards

There are other boards which control who gets the franchise to build fortune-making pipelines, other boards to give the pipeliners rights of access to private lands, still other boards to establish the compensation to be paid to landowners. From none of them is there an appeal to the courts.

As a result of steady political pressure from the farmers, compensation for use of farm land by oil, gas and pipeline companies has gone steadily upward. In the latter cases, the pipeline companies usually have to pay twice what the land is worth and then return it in cultivatable condition so the farmers can continue to use it.

If the farmers who appear before the complaints committee run true to form, they will argue only about money. If the oil industry runs true to form, it will duck under the barn and stay away from the committee.

The Oil and Gas Conservation Board of Alberta is one of the most powerful and autocratic boards in Canada. It exercises powers of life and death over the oil industry. It decides where wells must be drilled, how much the wells may produce if oil or gas is discovered, what share of the entire market each field will get, which company will be given the right to operate all the wells in a given field, which wells must be shut in and which may be produced. It awards exclusive pipeline franchises and permits to build gas processing plants.

No board exercising so much power can hope to escape criticism. The Conservation Board is fair game for the malcontents of the oil industry. In the old days, when the independent producers were numerous enough to be a factor in the industry, they were particularly vehement in their criticism of the board.

Brainwashed

They regarded the Board as a tool of the major oil companies and they documented their cases privately with chapter and verse. It was simply a matter, they said, of the Board being brainwashed by the big companies.

The independents in the business are now reduced to a mere corporal's guard so it is most unlikely that the criticism once so bitterly voiced in the Petroleum Club bar will be shouted from the housetops for the benefit of Mr. Manning's Grievance Committee.

Perhaps the most widespread source of general public annoyance are the zoning and planning boards. In Calgary alone, there must be several thousand people who have bought homes in residential areas only to have planning boards suddenly change the zoning rules and the character of the district. Other planners have blighted entire communities by arbitrarily changing highway routes.

Usually, Albertans howl with pain when the deed is being done, but subside quickly after the edict. This onset of apathy is undoubtedly fostered by lack of access to the courts, though fear of high legal costs, when recourse is possible, is a contributing factor. Mostly they fall back on the plea that "the government should do something."

Mr. Manning, with his eye as always on the next election, has sent out his grievance committee to see if there is anything that needs to be done.

LOGICAL SEQUENCE

High reliance on property taxes aggravates local problems. Placing too large a share of the municipal tax burden on real property weakens the tax base in older cities without any lessening of the need for public services. When the property tax reaches high levels, people stop making improvements, maintenance falls off and investors look to other communities for commercial and industrial development opportunities.

Build First; Think Later Won't Do for Our Cities

By CONSTANTINOS A. DOXIADIS

(An internationally famous architect and city planner, Mr. Doxiadis has offices in Washington and Athens.)

All my experience has shown that urban centres will attract more people than we are predicting.

We know that a century from now the average city will have 20 times more people, 100 times more income and 200 to 300 times more cars and machines. After that, we can expect the population of the earth to level off, probably at around 25 to 30 billion people as compared to three billion now.

These are rational, reasonable projections.

A philosopher can afford to say: "I will answer these problems in the 21st Century when things have settled down and I will have been able to think about them." But I am a mason. I say, let us start building tomorrow for something better, even with the small forces we have at hand.

The first step toward practical action is to decide what role we want our cities to play, remodel them for that role and then make sure that we don't allow new pressures to destroy them.

We must realize that every organism, be it a city, a factory or a man, can perform only up to a limit. If the best a jumper can do is 5½ feet, you cannot ask him to jump 14 feet. If you try to make him do it by injections or gland transfers, you will kill him.

A city is no different. To accommodate the growing pressures on an existing city, we try urban renewal. It will take us 10 to 20 years. In such a period there will be many more people all around the downtown area. That means more pressures, more economic investment, more cars. So we will have to have another urban renewal scheme to demolish what we did during the first 10 years and again change the structure of the inner city. This would mean we move in a vicious circle. This should not continue.

Five Elements

But it is a mistake to conceive of the challenge of new cities only in terms of buildings. These are only one of five essential elements.

The first and most basic one is nature, on which we build. The second is man, who builds the city. The third is society, formed by man who inhabits the city. The fourth is all the networks man builds; streets water supply, telecommunications, drainage, electricity, gas, etc.

And the fifth, and last is the buildings, the shells with which we cover man's society, facilities and our whole life.

Let us consider the five elements.

Nature never suffered from the city of the past. If anything, it became more beautiful. The Acropolis in Athens for instance, became a much more beautiful rock when man built on it and around it. The Italian hill towns have beautified the hills. But the modern city has spoiled nature.

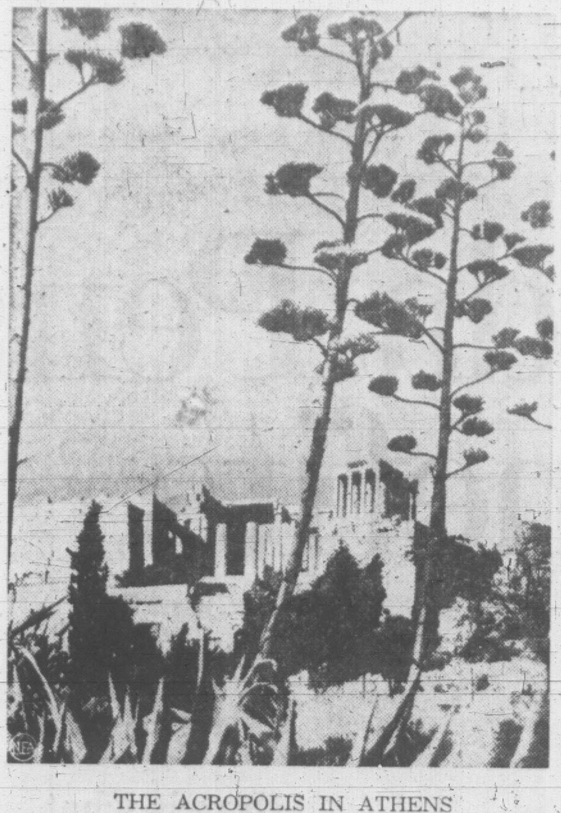
People cannot swim in the rivers, although they could have a hundred years ago. The air is contaminated. We throw our waste into the street.

In the past, too, man—the second element—has found in his cities as Aristotle described it, safety, security and happiness. Now they are the most dangerous places in the world. I cannot walk across the street because of automobile traffic. We don't know how many phobias are due to the fact that from his childhood, modern man moves in an unsafe environment.

The relationship between man and his art has become an illicit affair that takes place only in museums. There is no more art in the streets. They have been taken over by automobiles and machines.

Society—third on the list—operates well when the contact between its members is very close. In the modern city, we have decreased densities—yes, decreased, contrary to what people believe when they look at the new high buildings. And we have decreased them to a very dangerous degree. Because of the many highways we build, we don't allow easy contact between people.

Athens, for instance, always had the same density in the 3,000 years from its birth to the 19th century — 80 people per acre. This density dropped to half when Athens recently started to build higher. Because of heavy industry, highways and other things, it spread out much more. Athens now has 40 people per acre.



THE ACROPOLIS IN ATHENS

. . . A rare case of man's improvement on nature.

Family Restricted

Because of this decreased density, all the members of a family can no longer do what they want, even if the family has two cars. If the father goes to one place and the mother to another, the children cannot attend their Boy Scout meeting or their dancing lesson. Family mobility is weakened. So are other interconnections between people in the city.

Another blow that modern urban society has suffered is that we allow the city to grow inconsistently and create islands of depressions and islands of prosperity. This runs counter to all our policies for an integrated society. For economic, social and political reasons, the weaker group that exists in every society concentrate in the areas of depression. As a result, our society does not operate the way it should.

The networks are the newest elements in the city. The modern city is out of control because a haphazard pattern of highway, railway, airfield, water supply, sewerage and drainage, electric, gas and telecommunication networks preceded city expansion out into the countryside. The upper, visible part of the city was committed long before it was built.

Roads Dictate

The essential networks commit us to a confused pattern. We start building houses only when there is a road, and we follow the road.

Since there is no money to build another road which would be better for the houses we build along an existing one which was conceived not to serve the new houses but to supply an industrial plant. And because there is a water main, we find it cheaper to connect a new housing project to it instead of going another way which would be better from every point of view.

We build first and think later. Our buildings are therefore often close to industry, for instance, where we cannot have fresh air outside our windows. We have to rely on air conditioning. We build them along noisy highways and must keep our windows closed to shut out the noise. The view is ugly, so we close our curtains, too.

Thus our buildings have failed. That is why the best architecture we have today is interior decoration. This is the only field in which constant progress is made.

We should create a system of centres very well interconnected. Each would be delegated its peculiar function and its own facilities.

The interconnections between the centres should be one-way, high-speed tunnels. I believe modern technology would easily allow up 200 m.p.h. But even with present-day cars, we could have 100 m.p.h. speeds. If the centres were 20 miles apart, it would take only 12 minutes to get from one to another.

Later, with progressing technology, we will drive our vehicles to the tunnel entrance where a radar system will take over and speed them along on strips while the driver reads his newspaper. Such devices are already in the experimental stage. We also know that railroad systems are experimenting with speeds of hundreds of m.p.h.

Why is such a transportation network needed?

Less Service

In spite of faster vehicles, we have less service to man today than in the 18th century. Cars have to stop at every corner for traffic lights. You cross the city at 9 m.p.h., the speed of buggies of 100 years ago.

We must conceive of a technological system that makes use of the faster vehicles. First, let's take all traffic from the surface of the earth and put it under the skin, as nature does with our veins and arteries. The machine that moves fast cannot be in the same space as the man who walks.

We are beginning to understand this and separate freeways, permitting no access to them. But we have to develop a whole new system for motor traffic, and that system has gradually to go underground. This may seem expensive, but in the long run it would be economical. We now lose more than 50 per cent of the surface of cities to transportation and other networks. If they went underground, our cities could be much more compact. Furthermore, we would get rid of traffic noises and much air pollution.

Once the networks were laid out and the pattern set for the entire region, I would be in favor of complete freedom for every community to build as it liked—provided it respected the general rules about the common obligations.

Fewer Yards to Be Made By Riding on Coat-Tails

By GERALD WARING

OTTAWA — The personality appeal that won John Diefenbaker a landslide seven years ago has shown only flashes of its old form so far in this campaign, and Lester Pearson's leader projection has been mediocre.

Waring

What this may mean in terms of practical politics is that a lot of candidates of both parties will have to make it under their own steam if they make it at all. There are fewer yards to be made by coat-tail riding.

Or to look at it the other way around, whether Mike or Dief is prime minister after Nov. 8 depends to an unusual degree on the quality of the men and women running as Grit and Tory candidates.

Both parties are combing the cities and the boondocks for the strongest material they can find—former ministers and MPs, municipal officers, doctors; indeed, anyone who is well-known, respected, and personally popular in the riding.

This election is the first test of the new parliamentary pay scale of $18,000 a year as a factor in improving the quality of MPs. That was one of the arguments put forward when the MPs voted themselves their $8,000 raise two years ago.

The proof of this particular pudding will be in the performances of MPs in the next few parliamentary sessions, but right now there is an interim payoff for the parties. This is the probability that some of the more impressive names among the nominees would not be there without the assurance of remuneration adequate to meet family costs.

I don't mean George Hees, Davie Fulton, Robert Winters and Pierre Sevigny. These former ministers and other old pals too, are in the fray because politics is in their blood, and they are pursuing personal ambition. Rather, I mean relatively unknowns like the Liberals' Kent Lamont in Bruce, Ont., Martin O'Connell in Toronto-Greenwood, David Hunter in Athabasca, Alta., and Bud Orange in the Northwest Territories.

"We're very pleased at the kind of candidates we're getting," says Liberal National Chairman Walter Gordon. "They include people we tried to get to stand in 1962 and 1963 but who didn't do so."

That, of course, was before the parliamentary stipend was increased.

This may be the last election run under the old free-wheeling ways of election finance. Before the next one the government and Parliament will have the report and recommendations of the special committee probing election costs.

Meanwhile Grit and Tory bagmen are busy putting the bite on "friends of the party," while the NDP looks to its membership and CLC unions for its funds.

Two Liberal candidates tell me that they each have a budget of $15,000 for the election, and that their party's national headquarters is putting up one-third of the money, or $5,000. They are in "Class A" ridings—that is, ridings the Liberals think they can win from the opposition. Class B ridings and lower, where Grit prospects are poorer, don't get as much money from the top.

But at Grit HQ here they hotly deny that such discrimination is made.

"We get no money at all. It's all handled by the provincial organizations," says Gordon.

"Every riding is a Class A riding," says national organizer Keith Davey. "All 265 of them."

Hypochondria Now and Then Relished by the Best of Men

By ART STOTT

LIKE hundreds of other citizens, I'm grateful for the care with which the Victoria and Island Chest Clinic guards my health.

At periodic intervals, a personal friend who runs the clinic sends me a formal invitation to come down and have my picture taken. This is to nip in the bud any adverse developments which may have occurred since my last examination. I appreciate the service. Unfortunately I like it for the wrong reason.

Stott

When the invitation arrives, I immediately indulge in a small orgy of hypochondria. And a little hypochondria now and then is relished by the best of men.

My introduction to this expression of emotion dates back to boyhood. I had just tired of the dictionary habit, looking up some of the naughty words, when I came across the so-called doctor's book in our house. It contained descriptions of most of the known symptoms for the known diseases of the time.

With the exercise of very little imagination, I found that I had the symptoms of almost every complaint. Family practice prevented me exploiting the discovery to the full. Whenever we were sick as kids Mother had about three standard remedies.

If the ailment seemed to be centred in the stomach, we were treated with rancid castor oil from one of those old blue bottles. The physic was administered in a tablespoon of brandy. I was well into my twenties before I could drink brandy without seeming to find in it the nauseating taste of castor oil.

If the trouble was in the chest, we had an option. We could drink raw linseed tea, which, chilling, becomes a sort of glutinous slime. Or we could submit ourself to a mustard plaster. The technique of applying the plaster was learned, I believe, from the torture routines of the Mescalero Apaches. It may have done little for the chest condition, but it stimulated the growth of a new and tender epidermis.

The cures for our troubles, real or imaginary, discouraged hypochondria. In that respect it was an under-privileged child.

Things looked up when the mobile clinic began to circulate in Victoria. I had my picture taken as an act of citizenship—not because I needed it. So it was something of a surprise when one of the city nurses who had transferred to the public health service wrote me a note to say they'd like to have a larger photograph of me, She was a close acquaintance and flattered me with remarks about my chest —and this some years before publication of "Playboy."

I chuckled at her remarks—and then quit laughing. Big picture? What for? Say, you don't think I've got it, do you? She said no, but come on down anyhow.

Then I began to sweat, but not for long. I resigned myself bravely to the situation, building up the image of an individual growing more ethereal all the time, pale, wan but courageous. This is the proper attitude for the hypochondriac. If he's going to be one, he should see that he's the appealing type, the kind who elicits sympathy and special consideration from those about him. If he can't claim such concern from his loved ones, then there's only one recourse. He has to provide it for himself. I did and I do.

Not that I haven't reasons to expect to suffer, or enjoy, bad health. Among my various vices are several habits that invite physical trouble. I smoke too much. Until a recent flush of carbohydrate gram counting, I ate too much. I get my exercise by pulling the starting cord on an outboard engine. And I have been known to stay up after nine at night.

This week I received my regular invitation to visit the chest clinic. How do I feel? Splendid, really, splendid. I cough a little more. I'm always fatigued. I don't sleep as soundly as I used to. But it's nothing to worry about, really it isn't. My appetite? Failing a bit. Dull aches and pains? Oh, perhaps a little. But I'm fine, fine.

I think I'll have a little lie-down.

A Shift in U.S.S.R. Economy; More Trouble Abroad for Britain

By PETER MURRAY

Times Wire News Editor

The Soviet Union embarked this week on a new economic course that will bring about major changes in the Communist system.

While Premier Alexei Kosygin denied the country is turning toward capitalism, the reforms clearly borrow from the best management methods of the west.

Adopted by the ruling central committee of the Communist Party, they are designed to improve the Soviet living standards by boosting productivity, particularly in consumer goods.

Profit, bonuses and credit will be used as economic stimulants.

The top-heavy bureaucracy will be trimmed by dismantling Khrushchev's elaborate planning network in favor of a simpler, "line" administration for various areas of production.

Responsibility for day-to-day factory operations will rest with individual managers, who will be judged on how well their goods sell and the profit return, instead of merely on how much is turned out.

Workers will be given more incentive for higher production.

Steps will be taken to keep prices down.

Meanwhile, rumors persisted of pending changes in the Soviet leadership. It was felt that a single, stronger hand would be needed to carry out the new economic policies.

In foreign policy, Russia moved back to a harder line toward the war in Viet Nam.

Party chief Leonid Brezhnev, addressing the central committee, said Viet Nam threatens to undo the recent progress toward better relations between the two countries.

Viet Nam was also a crucial topic at the annual conference of the British Labor Party in Blackpool.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson's position was strengthened when he won support for the government's policy of backing the U.S. in Viet Nam.

Wilson and his cabinet colleagues firmly rejected the anti-Americanism implicit in resolutions critical of U.S. involvement in the war which were introduced by left-wing elements of the party.

The leaders had a more difficult time putting down a revolt by trade union delegates against the government's plan to control prices and wages.

The closeness of the vote showed the widespread dissatisfaction among party members over Labor's drift to the right since assuming office.

In addition to his troubles at home, Prime Minister Wilson was confronted by other ticklish problems abroad.

In Salisbury, Rhodesia, Prime Minister Ian Smith announced he will travel to London next week for a "final showdown" with Britain on demands by the Central African colony's white rulers for independence. Wilson is committed to upholding the rights of the Negro majority in Rhodesia.

Mounting terrorism in the Arabian peninsula colony of Aden forced Wilson's government to order suspension of the constitution. The British accuse Egypt of fomenting trouble in the strategic territory which had been slated for independence within three years.

The India-Pakistan struggle for Kashmir continued to simmer near the boil. After agreeing to a UN-requested ceasefire, the combatants refused to return to their corners.

The UN team charged with enforcing the truce, made up largely of Canadians, began its difficult task. Skirmishes continued at numerous points along the line as India and Pakistan accused each other of ceasefire violations.

Pakistan said it would not withdraw troops from Kashmir unless the UN sent a larger peace force to prevent India from moving in; India in turn declared she would not allow any UN troops on her territory.

India also firmly refused to accept a UN-supervised plebiscite in Kashmir to determine its political future.

The war in Viet Nam took an ugly new turn with executions and reprisals by both sides.

Two U.S. Army officers held prisoner by the Viet Cong were shot, and North Viet Nam announced that U.S. pilots downed in bombing raids and captured alive would be treated as war criminals, presumably to be executed.

This followed the firing squad execution by South Viet Nam of three alleged Viet Cong sympathizers who had publicly called for an end to the bombing of the north.

THE GALLUP POLL

Bi and Bi Inquiry Made Little Impact

By The Canadian Institute of Public Opinion

Over the past year and a half the Royal Commission on Bilingualism and Biculturism has made little progress in projecting itself into the public's ken. Rank and file knowledge of the commission's activities has remained static.

Just more than six-in-ten adults say they have heard of the royal commission's work and just more than three-in-ten are completely unaware of it.

In January, 1964, the same ratio was noted in a Gallup Poll survey. Sixty-six per cent had heard of the royal commission and its investigations on bilingualism and biculturism; 34 per cent had not heard of it.

Those who claim French as their mother tongue are slightly (2 per cent) better informed on the commission than those who speak English.

The question: "Do you happen to have heard or read anything about the Royal Commission on Bilingualism and Biculturism, set up by the federal gvernment?"

The Canada Pension Plan and its benefits

Here is what
will do for people like Robert Martin,
a 55-year-old skilled tradesman
who earns $100 a week ($5,200 a year).

If Robert works full time until age 65 he can look forward to a monthly retirement income of $104.17 from the Canada Pension Plan and $75 from Old Age Security—a total of $179.17 a month. When his wife, who is two years younger than Robert, receives her Old Age Security pension, the Martins' monthly income will rise to $254.17.

If Robert becomes disabled at age 60, having contributed for five years, he will get a disability pension of $103.13 a month until he reaches 65 when his retirement and Old Age Security pensions begin.

If Robert dies after contributing for three years, his wife will receive a widow's pension of $64.06 a month until age 65. From then on her widow's pension will become $62.50 and she will also receive the $75 Old Age Security pension—a total of $137.50 a month. At the time of Robert's death, Mrs. Martin will also be paid a lump sum of $500.

All benefits under the Plan will maintain their value. The actual benefits payable will probably be higher than those given here since benefits will be adjusted to meet changes in living costs and in wage levels before they are paid and changes in living costs after they become payable.

What will the Plan cost you?

If you, like Robert, are employed and have earnings of $5,200 spread evenly over the year, you will, commencing in January, pay at the rate of $1.59 a week until your contributions for the year amount to $79.20. Your employer will pay the same amount.

This advertisement is one of a series which relates some of the important benefits of the Canada Pension Plan to individual circumstances.

authority of the Minister of National Health and Welfare, Canada,
The Honourable Judy LaMarsh.

OPEN SHELF

By John Mika

Yes, John, there is a Blackwood's.

For years I've heard vague allusions to this enchanting English magazine from persons who have sworn they read it, and avidly, in their youth, which usually was spent in some distant corner of Empire. But they couldn't describe it exactly nor recall where they had last seen it.

At certain cocktail parties and soirees, the name of Blackwood's was almost bound to come up some time during the chatter, like a softly-spoken refrain wafting through the instalments of rye on the raucous. I regarded it as a sort of Kilroy of the magazine world.

So it was a bit of a surprise to find, as I was reaching for a recent Playboy, that at least one Government Street magazine stand figured Victoria qualified as a distant corner of Empire.

Yes, there it was. Blackwood's Magazine, Number 1796—Volume 297.

And having read it, avidly, find it a bit hard to describe exactly.

It looks more like a pocketbook than a magazine and it has no truck with illustrations, bent single-mindedly on presenting only reading matter for the famished bookworm caught between library visits.

Its articles appear to be written, for the most part, by semi-professionals controlled by excellent editors, and the subjects usually seem to be about out-of-the-way incidents in out-of-the-way places—"Excitement on the Whangpo," "Vaal River Diggings" and "Ascension" being among those in the copy I picked up.

They all make interesting reading, but unfortunately I don't go to cocktail parties much any more, so I'll have to keep it between you and me.

If, by the way, you like reading the "little magazines" as they're called, I don't think you can go wrong with Blackwood's, but you might go even less wrong with Tamarack Review.

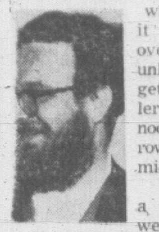
It's a Canadian quarterly, mainly with articles about distant people and corners of Confederation, which currently is trying to hit the big time with its first full-time editor and an effort to increase its publishing frequency as well as erculation. It, too, makes good reading and it could use more readers.

LOOKING AROUND AT ART

By ROBIN SKELTON

Style for Own Sake Technician's Risk

I didn't have space to comment upon the exhibition of prints by Helen V. Piddington at the Victoria Art Gallery when I wrote earlier in the week and now it is almost over. In fact, unless you can get to the Gallery this afternoon or tomorrow, you've missed it.



Skelton

It would be a pity if this were to be the case for Miss Piddington, like all Hayter's better pupils, has enormous technical ability, and her prints are full of rich and exciting textures.

There is a great increase in the number of print-makers in Canada (and indeed elsewhere), these days, and many of these artists have certain qualities in common.

The majority are fascinated by problems of texture. Many are making extremely elaborate relief prints. Dozens of them appear to be exploring entirely new techniques, and bringing recent technological discoveries to bear upon their craft.

This excitement about the craft of print-making, however, appears to have led some artists to forget about such old-fashioned notions as the importance of composition.

Miss Piddington has, in one or two of her works, suffered this lapse of memory, and the result is a pleasingly decorative area of richly textured colors that lacks both decisiveness and direction.

Plomberie de Poitiers is one of these; it delights by its sensual elegance but dismays by its lack of point.

Mere sensuality is not enough. There must be, as Robert Frost said somewhere or other, a "touch of mind" about it for us not to feel, finally, a little cheated.

In most of Miss Piddington's prints there is that needed air of a controlling intelligence. Aristazal organizes its sombre beauty into gently sweeping rhythms that satisfy our desire for design as well as sensation. It is a moving, moody, tone poem with real structural strength.

When Miss Piddington turns to more obviously dramatic structures she sometimes fails. Nestor with its cunningly organized swirls of red, manages to be more than merely decorative, but Gogag, Nee-Gamks (where does she get those titles?), and The Thing, appear to me to be pure style, which is to say style without content.

This is always the risk that the technician faces; obsessed with how effects may be created he is liable to forget to wonder why they are worth creating. I've a nasty reactionary suspicion that this applies to a good deal of Op Art, and perhaps even to some Pop Art as well.

It doesn't, as I have said, apply to all Miss Piddington's work by any means.

Look at Tout Est Possible, for example. Here the colors, the textures, and the composition all work beautifully together to create that dynamic balance of sensations which it is the aim of every artist to achieve.

Or almost every artist; a qualification is needed here. There are some artists whose intention is primarily to make a picture which is a source of personal satisfaction to some individual. I am, of course, referring to the general run of portrait painters.

Elizabeth Goward is one of these artists, and, as long as she sticks to pastel and doesn't meddle with oils, she is pretty good as a personality-trapper.

Though there are many cases of second-rate drawing in her collection of portraits, I get the feeling that there are probably very few cases of dissatisfied customers.

She can, as they say, "get a likeness," and she doesn't sentimentalize to more than a perfectly justifiable degree.

Her work, however, does present us with a puzzle which I confess to being unable to solve. When is a bad painting a good picture?

The answer, often given, is "when it's a portrait," but the real puzzle is why this cynical and superficial answer should, somehow, have a speck of truth in it.

Can it be that, in judging art, we ever so occasionally have mixed criteria?

AN AGE OF GRANDEUR CREATED MARTYRS

Reviewed by Grant McOrmond

In his latest novel, Century in Scarlet, Mr. Zilahy tells the story of the struggle for Hungarian independence from the years 1814 to 1914.

It is also the story of the Dukay twins, Count Antal and Count Adalbert. At their christening in 1814, Prince Metternich, the Austrian Chancellor and evil genius presiding over the reactionary forces of nineteenth century Europe, states that "this century will be the happiest, the merriest century . . . It will be a gala century, a century in scarlet, not only in dress and uniform, but in human thoughts and human effort."

The irony of Metternich's statement becomes apparent when the "scarlet" of the century is shown to be the blood of the martyrs for liberty.

In their struggle against Austria for Hungarian independence, the Dukay twins represent two different traditions among Hungarian freedom fighters. Count Antal, the elder, was of the moderates such as Deak and Count Batthyany who sought reform through constitutional means. Count Adalbert, the younger and more radical twin, fought with Louis Kossuth, and with him went into exile in Turkey, subsequently travelling with him to the United States, Britain and France.

Century in Scarlet creates a colorful, detailed picture of a way of life that, like the Habsburg monarchy, has disappeared. It was an age of dignity, tradition and grandeur. It was also an age brutal, treacherous, and ignoble. It was the Vienna of Strauss, but it was also the Vienna of Metternich and Freud.

Lajos Ziliahy here follows the tradition he established in his other works such as The Dukays and Two Prisoners. At times his readers may have difficulty managing the large cast of characters and the broad sweep of events related in such intimate, fascinating detail. But the effort is rewarding. The novel will add much to the reader's understanding of the nineteenth century; it gives many interesting details of Hungary and its history of a thousand years. Certainly it will give added insight into the motivation that creates heroes and martyrs for the cause of liberty.

War History Made Graphic

Reviewed by R. H. Roy

Last year was the 50th anniversary of the outbreak of the Great War. Owing partly to that anniversary, there has appeared a minor flood of war books dealing with various aspects of the fighting. Flanders Fields, Verdun, The Somme, The Guns of August and 1918, The Last Act are but a few titles which come to mind.

If there is any one thing which is common to all these, it is the combination of horror, self-sacrifice and heroism experienced by soldiers of all armies on the battlefield.

In The Great War, John Terraine has brought together an amazing selection of photographs which point up visualy all that other authors attempt to describe. His photos cover all fronts and all the major armies involved, and few collections carry with them such an impact as these.

If anyone wishes to gain some idea of what the war was like from the beginning to the end, whether on land, sea or in the air, and whether the battle was in France, Africa, the Balkans or the Russian front, then this book should satisfy him.

Accompanying the excellent array of photographs is a text which describes the main events of the massive struggle between the Alliance and the Entente.

For anyone interested in military history, this book is a must.

Turbulence Big Hazard For Aircraft

Reviewed by A. F. GREENWOOD

Anvil of the Gods is one of a series of books edited by Martin Cardin. This series is called Airmen and Aircraft and is intended to eventually cover the whole history of flight.

The Anvil referred to is the characteristic flat top formation of the thunderhead or cumulo-nimbus cloud, and the book is a discussion of the violent effects of storms on aircraft.

Mr. McClement who was Air Canada's (then T.C.A.) photographer for more than ten years and has many air hours, has done an exhaustive job of research on a good number of airline crashes and has come up with some frightening facts.

Of interest mainly to the pilot, this book, written in easy-to-read, reportorial style, is enlightening and instructive.

Anvil of the Gods is also profusely illustrated with some of the best photographs of aircraft and cloud formations this ex-pilot has ever seen.

Characters Hurt Novel

CEDARHAVEN, by Patricia Campbell. The Macmillan Co., 1965. 343 pp. $5.95.

Reviewed by R. G. Lawrence

Cedarhaven is an undistinguished novel set in a familiar place, Port Townsend, Washington. It will have some interest for readers in that area, its events reaching as far west as Neah Bay. (There are three casual allusions to Victoria.))

The story begins in 1859, when Port Townsend was rough and primitive, and the book conveys a good deal of period flavor, with many allusions to dress and customs of the times, muddy streets, housekeeping difficulties, and standards of morality.

What makes Cedarhaven a less memorable novel than it might be is the obviousness of characterization.

One learns that Darrie grows sharply towards spinsterhood, coping with family and domestic problems with a will of iron, whilst the principal boarder at Cedarhaven, a handsome Irishman, hovers patiently in the background for about 20 years.

The outcome of this situation can be predicted, but many other events in the book are entirely unpredictable and implausible. The lack of depth in character drawing contributes to this difficulty.

In these present enlightened days one can hardly object to various persons of opposite sexes moving in and out of each other's beds, but the unvirtuous liaisons described in this book have an unnecessary coarseness of tone that hints as a catering to a low level of taste.

Canadian Players Set to Launch Toronto Season

For the first time since its inception in 1954, Canadian Players is presenting a season of plays in Toronto.

Under the guidance of Marigold Charlesworth, Artistic Director, and Jean Roberts, Administrator, Canadian Players will have a nine-month season in the intimate (209 seats) and charming Central Library Theatre.

Two English-speaking companies will be operated by Canadian Players. Before Christmas one will cover the eastern provinces in a production of Oscar Wilde's The Importance of Being Earnest, while the Toronto based company presents three productions, The Playboy of the Western World by J. M. Synge, Murder in the Cathedral by T. S. Eliot and the Firebugs by Swiss playwright Max Frisch.

There will be a Christmas show for children.

Early in the New Year the pre-Christmas Toronto based company will go out on tour presenting Murder in the Cathedral. The other company will take over its occupancy of the Central Library Theatre.

BACK-TO-NATURE TALE ABSORBING

"PLACE OF QUIET WATERS" by Margaret McIntyre. Longman's Canada Ltd. 1965. 282 pages. $5.

Reviewed by M. Schierbeck

Two young career women, feeling completely frustrated in a life which is: "simply a matter of digging the ditch to get the money to buy the bread to give you the strength to dig the ditch," decided to break the viscious circle and go back to Nature.

After a number of trips up along the coast of British Columbia they find the place of their heart's desire.

It is a deep inlet, accessible only through a canal where the tides run high and turbulent, but inside the water is quiet and the wooded shores and mountains are beautiful.

Here they acquire a piece of land and one of them tells the story of their victories and failures in their struggle to build a house and live "off the land." It is charmingly and amusingly told and leaves the reader with a vivid impression of the beautiful nature and the few inhabitants who have chosen to live in this isolated spot.

One gets deeply involved in the small events of life lived the hard way and you feel quite let down when the tale comes to an end and you come back to ordinary "civilized" life.

Symphony Students Find Careers Open

By JOAN MASON HURLEY

An opportunity almost unique in Canada is given our young people in being able to play with the Victoria Symphony Orchestra.

Ours is a community orchestra, which means that most of its members make their livings at other jobs. A professional symphony rehearses in the daytime, which precludes students from being members.

Victoria had the largest per capita representation in National Youth Orchestra of any place in Canada. This was very largely due to the training and experience our boys and girls obtain with the Victoria Symphony.

The opportunity is far-reaching in its consequences, possibly affecting the whole future life of the students involved.

Take the case of Vivienne Abbott, aged 18.

Vivienne received her initial training with Dorothy Evans and the Victoria Schools Symphony Orchestra. Next she was invited to join the adult symphony where she has been in the violin section for three years.

This summer she was accepted by the National Youth Orchestra.

Franz-Paul Dekker, conductor, was so impressed with Vivienne's playing that he offered her a contract with his own orchestra, the Rotterdam Philarmonic, starting in the fall of 1966.

Thus, for Vivienne the goal of ultimate professionalism has been accomplished by treading every step up the ladder.

This season she will remain with the Victoria Symphony. She will assist Jean Angers, concertmaster, in teaching pupils at the Victoria School of Music, and study German for the exciting year that lies ahead of her.

It was Hans Gruber who first started students in the orchestra. He arranged through Canada Council that their lessons should be paid for and so they were reimbursed without having to join the union.

Nowadays the students are directly paid, and one boy spoke of the great thrill it gave him to be able to finance his own studies after years of his parents doing so.

Students this year include Mark Butler, 15, violin, Merlin Naduriak, 18, 'cello, both National Youth Orchestra members; Barbara Ann Court, 18, violin, who won a scholarship to attend the Congress of Strings at Lansing, Mich., this year; Janice Lee, 15, 'cello, Anne Valdal, cello, and Ian Franklin, 15, oboe.

Most of these young people have come up through the excellent Victoria public schools system of music. Once they have proved their ability in the Victoria Schools Symphony Orchestra, they are given a chance to join the adult symphony.

VIVIENNE ABBOTT . . . to Europe

Although rewarding and naturally a great honor, the work is onerous indeed for a youngster. Concerts are every three weeks and involve several evening rehearsals beforehand.

Naturally many hours of home practice are necessary too. One mother told me her child came back from rehearsals at 10:30 p.m. and started right in practising until begged to desist.

School authorities tell me that often marks fall off; but not unnaturally a musical youngster feels that the symphony is the most important thing in his young life.

Students who were with the orchestra last year, and who have gone on to win scholarships in other places are: Norman Abbott, 'cello, winner of the Kathleen Parr Scholarship in performance at the University of Toronto; Donna De Long, violin, scholarship to the New England Conservacry of Music; Velma Ko, violin, scholarship to University of Brandon where she will study under Albert Pratz.

These successes are largely due to the excellent training these young people have received with the Victoria Symphony.

One feels the future of music in Canada is in good hands.

The Sounding Board

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

With a tag-end of my holiday time available, I decided last month to take off for a complete change—to really "get away from it all."

So I travelled about 1,000 miles and what did I do? I paid a visit backstage. A long visit backstage of one of the world's mammoth show biz industries.

It was completely unpremeditated on my part.

If I had an ambition at all it was to see a show—any show—in Los Angeles' multi-million-dollar, 3,000-seat pavilion, maybe attend a concert in Hollywood Bowl and take a quick trip to San Francisco for a glimpse of the new opera season.

But Carol Channing in Hello Dolly had sold out in the pavilion weeks before I got into town. Season's end had emptied the Bowl and the San Francisco trip was financially out of reach.

So instead I settled for an introduction to the many multi-million-dollar inner workings of the poor man's panacea—a major movie-TV complex.

My young friends are impressed when I tell them I dabbled my fingers in McHale's ocean and watched his pint-size battleships popping away and throwing up pigmy plumes of water about their target.

Eyes pop when I mention that I walked up the porch steps of the Munster's house and stood in their front hall.

"Did I meet any stars?"

"Well, no. I thought I saw . . . . oh, you know, he plays in The Virginian . . . but I'm not sure."

That does it. I've lost face. And not even mentioning that I attended the Danny Kaye Show in a CBS studio restores my fallen image.

Then it suddenly occurs to me that I would never even have recognized a star if one had stepped on my toes at the commissariat.

I found the things—the great warehouses filled with the most fabulous furniture, segments of interiors, every imaginable property, the acres of cars of every kind and vintage—and the technical how, why and what fascinating far beyond any chance meeting with a screen personality.

There was, for instance, the "green department." Here are hundreds of preserved trees and shrubs for instant landscaping, creating tree-lined streets, parks and mansion gardens at the snap of a directorial finger.

Preserved trees, I said and that is exactly what they are. The genuine, living subjects are kept alive for four or five years by what was described to me as "a sort of embalming process."

"After a while when they get a bit shabby and faded-looking we just spray 'em with green and it's spring again!"

Well, that's Hollywood for you.

Somehow it seemed to me to sum up life in this strangely artificial world.

In view of all the pros and cons that have been flung around concerning the McPherson Playhouse, it is rather cheering to note the comments made recently by two authorities.

Reporting to the Canadian Federation of Music Festivals, the British adjudicators who visited Victoria last spring each praised the theatre.

Said vocal adjudicator Philip Hattey: "The highlights concert on the final evening was well attended and the festival was fortunate to be able to hold it in the new McPherson with its splendid acoustics."

Pianist Angus Morrison commented: "Victoria is now lucky to have the attractive setting and excellent acoustics of the McPherson Playhouse in which to present their final concert—a setting worthy of the high musical standards that the festival has done much to encourage."

Incidentally, I think it is an excellent move on the part of the Musical Art Society to change venue to the McPherson for their concerts and day and time to Sunday afternoon.

I'm sure this will be a popular change and will encourage Victorians to support one of the most worthwhile organizations in the city.

Peruvian Songbird Ends Long Silence

By DAVE SMITH

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Yma Sumac, the five-octave songbird from the mountains of Peru, is making more like a hummingbird these days, flitting around North America in a new spurt of career activity.

Last spring the exotic beauty announced she intended to recapture her popularity in the United States, after a virtual silence in the country for nearly a decade.

Much of her hope was pinned on an August concert in the Hollywood Bowl—her first there since August of 1950. And she was scared to death, she admitted—afterward.

"My first number went fine," she says, "but in the second, my legs were shaking so much I was afraid I might fall. Thank heaven for floor - length gowns. Nobody saw.

"And when I sang Clair de Lune—did you see the moon that night? — well, I just stared at it while I was singing and thought, 'Help me, help me. Just let me get through tonight.' "

DREW RAVES

The legendary Sumac voice revealed itself as a still unique instrument—ranging easily from baritone crooning to stratospheric warbling in the coloratura range.

Miss Sumac at 43 has developed more power and more control over her immense voice, without seeming to have sacrificed any of the flexibility and liquid ease for which it was noted when she first made headlines in the late 1940s.

Her performance did just what she hoped it would, she says today: It got her bookings all over the continent.

NEW YORK—Tennessee Williams will be heard from again with a new work entitled "Slapstick Tragedy," which is slated to appear on Broadway late in November. This is described as a "two-part lyric comedy," which means that it consists of two plays with a related theme.

Canadian star Kate Reid has been signed to appear in it. This is the show that was to have been done this past season, but there was difficulty in raising the money.

Director's Workshops Planned

The University of Victoria is offering a splendid opportunity for local thespians to acquire technical knowledge in the production of plays.

Two Directors' Workshops are to be held on Saturday, Oct. 9, and Saturday, Nov. 21, from 9:30 to 3:30. The fee is $5 for each session and the place is the Phoenix Theatre.

Carl Hare and Robert Hedley will instruct the first Saturday, and will lecture on how to choose a play, analyze a script and set about directing it. The second session taught by Mrs. Clara Hare will show the relationship of costume to the director and the play.

Mr. Hare says that this winter the university is planning many avante garde productions which will be free to the public.

These shows will probably be given in lunch hour and will include radical experimentation and improvizations involving the theatre classes.

It is hoped that a wide scope will be possible and that the audience will have the chance to discuss and evaluate this unusual aspect of theatre.

NEW YORK—Screen star Lee Remick will take time off from Hollywood late this year to rehearse in "Wait Until Dark," a new play by Frederick Knott, who wrote that successful thriller, "Dial M for Murder." To make the switch possible, Miss Remick agreed to a year's extension of her film commitments to Columbia Pictures and 20th Century-Fox.

THE SONS OF KATIE ELDER

Full-Scale Western
Royal Theatre

As Westerns go, this Paramount production is well above average, with first-rate acting, good color photography and imaginative direction. And there are times when it hits the screen with the impact of a flying bomb.

The sons of Katie Elder (John Wayne, Dean Martin and Earl Holliman) are three black sheep who return home to a small Texas town to attend the funeral of their mother. They find the town reluctant to talk of how Katie lost her ranch or of how their father died some while before.

Even the sheriff and his deputy seem mysterious and withdrawn.

The Elder ranch now belongs to a firearms manufacturer (James Gregory) and he imports a gunfighter (George Kennedy) to protect him from Katie Elder's sons.

The three bad lads (now much better than they were) are obviously headed for lots of trouble and the story explodes into action with the murder of the sheriff by Gregory.

But, as the sheriff was just about to arrest the brothers on a trumped-up charge, nobody sheds any tears over him.

It all builds up to a slam-bang finish with the brothers making a last-ditch stand in the local blacksmith's shop.

John Wayne shoots it out with Gregory and (as we expected from the begining) succeeds in blowing up his firearms store.

Martha Hyer, the only girl in the film, has little to do but does it well. She is the proprietor of the local rooming house and a distinct asset to the local scenery.

If you like Westerns, you will find this better than most.

Pianist Inherits Tradition

Four continents have acclaimed Malcuzynski, the Polish pianist, on many separate occasions.

The greatest concert halls in the world—London's Royal Festival Hall, Warsaw's Philharmonic, Buenos Aires' Teatro Colon—have overflowed their capacity in homage.

For Malcuzynski is widely regarded as the most thrilling exponent today of the grand pianistic styles of Liszt and Chopin.

Last pupil of the great Paderewski, he has inherited the master's peerless ability to interpret the music of Chopin although his versatile gifts encompass the classic and the contemporary within a wide repertoire.

The artist comes to Canada and the United States this fall from a triumphant tour of the European festivals.

He will appear in Victoria at the McPherson Playhouse Tuesday evening, Oct. 12. His program will include works by Caesar Franck, Liszt, Debussy and Chopin.

PLAN YOUR ESCAPE . . . . . . FOR WINTER PLEASURE

Different Worlds of the Pacific

By HARRY E. MERCER
Special to The Times

With winter on the way it's time for planning an escape to the sunny side of the equator and the place that's definitely "in", the South Pacific.

There are really three quite different worlds of the South Pacific — the tropical islands, Australia and New Zealand.

The islands, in certain basics, are of much the same mold. With them all the climate is marvelously mild, the tropical vegetation luxuriant. Coconut palms grow tall and graceful along every sandy beach and pale green lagoon.

Everywhere there are flowers and the sweet lingering perfume of flowers. Glamor sunsets blaze in unbelieveable orange and red, and the moon seems to shine brighter than anywhere else.

CERTAIN MOOD

And there is a certain mood, an attitude toward life, that varies but little from island to island. All the native peoples seem born to music and dancing and underlying everything is their uniform desire to have a wonderful time every day and let tomorrow take care of itself.

It was largely the influence of this attitude that tempted Fletcher Christian to lead a mutiny, Paul Gauguin to desert Paris and his family, and it rarely fails to make itself felt with visitors today.

But that's an end to the similarities. From one island group to the next native customs vary. Towns and villages differ completely in atmosphere. You never could mistake Tahiti for Fiji, Samoa for New Caledonia.

BARE FEET

Tahiti's Papeete is a scene of bare feet and straw hats, French Legionaires and handsome long-haired women, sidewalk cafes and luxury yachts tied up alongside the main thoroughfare.

Cosmopolitan Suva, Fiji's capital, is the South Pacific's biggest port. Fijians in skirt-like sulus mingle on the streets with Hindu women in multi-colored saris, Chinese in high-necked gowns, government officials in white shirts and shorts. The cafes are Chinese and East Indian.

In Samoa the pace is slower and the centre of activity is in the picturesque villages, where the houses have no walls and family life is exposed to neighbors and to all who pass by on the roads.

Noumea in New Caledonia is French colonial in atmosphere. Louvered shutters and lacy ironwork decorate double-storey homes. Restaurants offer French cuisine by candlelight, stores the perfumes of Paris and wines from the provinces. The natives are Melanesian and their songs and dances differ greatly from those of Polynesian Tahiti and Samoa.

Australia has little in common with the islands, with New Zealand and, for that matter, with any other landmass on earth.

UNIQUE LIFE

Australia's animal and plant life is largely unique to it. The landscapes, a product of extreme geological antiquity, are distinctively Australian in their time-worn and eerie beauty.

Australia is also a continent of many contrasts. It has tropical jungle and extensive snowfields, sophisticated cities and vast inland pasturelands, lush coastal valleys and the craggily beautiful deserts of the Center.

A tour of Australia is not complete unless it includes a visit to at least one island of the Great Barrier Reef, a fascinating natural wonder if ever there was one.

The coral ramparts, islands and shoals of the Great Barrier Reef sweep in an irregular arc for 1,250 miles off the northeast coast. About 20 of the islands now have hotels and facilities for viewing an underwater world of sheer enchantment.

WORLD OF COLOR

It is a world of color, exquisitely muted in the fantastically shaped coral, gaudily brilliant in the gliding and darting fish. Underwater, it is a world of sluggish and dramatic movement, of waving tentacles, of creeping grotesques, of the sudden attack and the flurry of escape.

To many visitors, however, Australia today is above all a land of socio-economic excitement. You can feel the excitement of great promise in the cities, where boldly-designed skyscrapers rise higher and higher above street level, and in the outback, far to the north and to the west, where new mineral discoveries and new agricultural projects are proving an already rich Australia to be a meagerly-exploited economic treasurehouse.

New Zealand could be across the world from the rest of the South Pacific. Scenically, this two-island country is breath-taking in the manner of several Northern Hemisphere countries combined.

The unbelievably green fields and pasturelands are often bordered with hedgerows of gorse and hawthorn and rarely do mountains fail to provide for them a splendid backdrop.

IMPRESSIVE MOUNTAINS

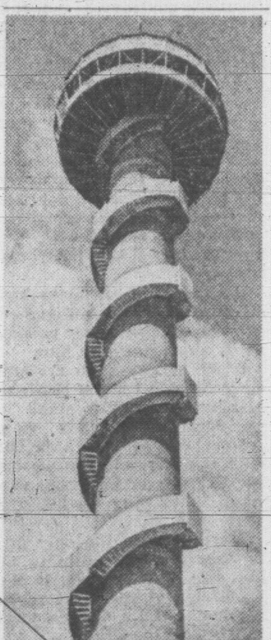
Tmong the most impressive on the North Island are Mt. Egmont (8,260 feet), rising cone-shaped and alone from lush pastures, and the trio of volcanic peaks; Tongariro (6,517), Ngauruhoe (7,515) and Ruapehu (7,175).

North Island's natural wonders include the Rotorua thermal area, with geysers hurling pillars of scalding water high into the air, and the Waitomo Caves, where the glowing taillights of countless glow-worms eerily illuminate the ceiling of the otherwise pitch-black Glowworm Grotto.

Dramatic grandeur marks the mountain scenery of the South Island, where the Southern Alps, spiked with 27 peaks over 10,000 feet, run the island's entire 500-mile length. The Alps' icy sentinel is Mt. Cook at 12,347 feet, New Zealand's tallest peak, with the mighty Tasman Glacier grinding down its eastern flank.

In the central-south of the South Island, serenely beautiful lakes, glassy and strangely dark in their blueness, reflect with sharp clarity shoreline forests and distant snow-capped peaks.

Southwest of there deep fiords gash the mountainous coastline for 100 miles. Milford Sound, most famous and accessible of the fiords, penetrates 10 miles into mountains that soar sheer from its waters to 6,000 feet.



SKYDECK. Soaring 400 feet above the St. Lawrence River and measuring 350 feet from base to flagpole tip, a new concrete and steel tower opened this year offers a spectacular view of the 1000 Islands area on the border between New York State and the province of Ontario.

SEA GULLS' WINGS CLIPPED BY GREEDY ITALIAN PARROTS

DUBROVNIK (AP) — The Sea Gull organization of young Yugoslavs, formed to squire pretty foreign tourist women about this Adriatic resort with points for the most success, has gone on the rocks.

Most of the 30 young charter members were sad to see it go. For a time the wearers of the sea gull lapel pin had hoped they were going to raise standards in the profitable business of tourist dating.

For one thing, there was the distinctive pin. It helped point out a willing and suave escort to any tourist. And it served as a handy free pass to night clubs and the like.

The rules were stiff, aimed at encouraging high-class patronage.

Sea Gulls were required to; Speak at least two foreign languages, talk smoothly about the history and points of interest of Dubrovnik, have a cultured knowledge of Chopin and Tchaikowsky, be able to quote from Byron and Shakespeare—and know the best time and place to do so.

Of course, good looks were required, and an art of dancing. Nifty dressing also was a requisite—no cowboy pants or T-shirts in the evening.

Sea Gulls also had to know where to take their dates—to those cosy restaurants and bars with a romantic atmosphere and soft music.

The directorate of the organization, which laid down the rules, was elected by the Sea Gull members, each of whom had a number of votes depending on his personal point standing. The points were accumulated on the basis of his conquests. Dating a visiting student earned the least points. Married women counted more. Professional women and the like counted most.

How did it all end?

The membership simply broke up. Some of the Sea Gulls complained that a few of their number had made a deal with their Italian cousins—the so-called Beachfront Pappagalli, or Parrots—from across the border.

This deal was considered unfair to the trade. The Italians were supplying the favored few with fancy shirts and other equipment useful in tourist dating and taking a split on profits from gifts that escorted foreign tourist women bestowed upon the Sea Gulls.

Westours Buys Luxury Liner

A third steamship has been added to the Alaska Cruise Lines' fleet when the company purchased the luxurious cruise ship, Ss. Stella Maris.

Announcement of the purchase was made by Charles B. West, president of Westours, Inc., Seattle. Westours is the parent company of Alaska Cruise Lines Ltd., whose two ships, Ss. Yukon Star and Ss. Glacier Queen, ply the Inside Passage route to Alaska.

The Stella Maris is now in service in the Mediterranean. She will be renamed Ss. Westar when brought to North America later this year, and will go into Alaska service in May, 1966. Delivery will take place at Piraeus, Greece.

West said the new vessel is one of the most popular ships cruising the Greek Islands. She is a little less than 300 feet in length, and carries 150 passengers. Every cabin is beautifully furnished, and most have private baths. The ship is air-conditioned throughout, has a spacious swimming pool and stabilizers.

According to West the ship was purchased to meet the increased demand for cruise service to Alaska.

"Our ships are carrying capacity loads," he said, "and this year we had to turn down many people who wanted to enjoy the Inside Passage cruise. We think that this third vessel will help relieve that situation."

Next year, when the Ss. Westar joins her sister ships, the company will schedule 55 departures from Vancouver to Skagway, Alaska, between early May and October. As an indication of how large an increase in traffic is expected, only 38 departures were scheduled for 1965. Bookings for 1966 are being accepted now.

Underwater Tour

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (UPI) — No trip to this island republic would be complete without an underwater sight-seeing trip at Sand Cay, a reef in the Gulf of Gonave. The three-hour tour permits the spectator to see the reef in its natural underwater state by means of face mask and snorkel. No swimming experience is necessary because the viewers float on rubber tubes which are towed by native swimmers.

The trip starts from the International Casino Pier in Port au Prince with the tourists first taken over the area in a glass-bottomed boat.

Week in Yugoslavia for $25

Yugoslavia must surely be one of the cheapest places in which to spend a holiday, particularly if you stay in a private home. British European Airways reports that a married couple recently returned to London from a holiday in Dubrovnik where they stayed in a comfortable private home at a cost of $25 for the two of them for bed and breakfast for a full seven days.

The exchange rate of close to 1,200 Yugoslav dinars to the dollar is a big factor in helping to make rates like this possible.

BEA, which flies direct from London to this Yugoslav resort on the Adriatic Sea, also reports that a half-mile extension to the second runway at Athens, Greece, was made possible by projecting the runway about a third of a mile into the sea—like a man-made peninsula, so to speak.

BEGINNING OF THE END?

Welcomed at plate after first-inning, three-run homer got Cincinnati off on right foot is Redleg outfielder Frank Robinson. Clout, which also scored Vada Pinson (28) and Pete Ross (left), could have been beginning of the end of San Francisco Giants' hopes for National League pennant. Gordy Coleman (18) followed with another homer and Redlegs went out to rout Giants 17-2 at San Francisco Friday night. Loss left Giants with chance only to tie Los Angeles. (AP Wirephoto.)

Fiasco in 'Frisco; Reds Nip Dodgers

Los Angeles Sure Of at Least Tie For NL Pennant

By UP International

Assured of at least a tie for the National League pennant, the Los Angeles Dodgers were planning to call on 25-game winner Sandy Koufax today and 23-game winner Don Drysdale Sunday to notch the one victory that will kill the San Francisco Giants' forlorn hopes for a playoff.

The Dodgers missed a chance to clinch the flag outright Friday night when they bowed to the Milwaukee Braves 2-0. But their magic pennant-clinching number was reduced to one when the Cincinnati Reds smeared the Giants 17-2 under a barrage of 21 hits.

One Dodger victory or one Giant defeat would officially clinch the flag for Los Angeles. And the Giants, living on borrowed time, are a stumbling, demoralized team as the end of the race nears. They have lost seven of their last nine games and Friday night tossed eight pitchers into the game in a vain effort to stop the Reds' bombardment.

WIN STREAK SNAPPED

Denny Lemaster, a fireballing lefthander who has been bothered with a sore arm most of the season, snapped the Dodgers' 13-game winning streak with a five-hitter.

Claude Osteen matched zeros with Lemaster until the sixth when two walks, and errors by John Roseboro and Jim Gilliam enabled the Braves to take a 1-0 lead. They added their second run in the seventh on Woody Woodward's single, a sacrifice, an infield out and Felipe Alou's infield hit.

A crowd of 29,220 at San Francisco watched in horror as the Reds demolished the Giants. It looked like Cincinnati batting practice as the Reds teed off on the eight Giant pitchers for 21 hits, including homers by Frank Robinson, Pete Rose, Gordie Coleman and Deron Johnson and doubles by Vada Pinson and Tony Perez.

BIFF, BAM!

Successive homers by Robinson and Coleman sent the Reds off to a 4-0 lead in the first inning and Rose's homer made it 6-0 in the second. The Reds' lead was 7-1 after three innings, 11-2 after seven and 15-2 after eight.

Koufax, whose 26th victory of the season would tie the N.L. record for lefthanders held by Carl Hubbell, was to be faced today by 24-game winner Tony Cloninger. Koufax shut out the Cardinals and Reds in his last two starts. Drysdale, slated to pitch Sunday if Koufax failed to apply the clincher today, has shut out the Braves and Cardinals in his last two starts.

Houston Astros beat the Cardinals 4-2 and the Pittsburgh Pirates nipped the Chicago Cubs 2-1 in other NL games.

In the American League, Cleveland shaded Baltimore 3-2 after a 2-0 setback and Chicago downed Kansas City 6-1.

Robin Roberts pitched four-hit ball for seven innings to win his fifth game for the Astros and the 281st of his career. Doubles by Roberts, Chuck Harrison and Rusty Staub were the big blows of a three-run second-inning rally.

CANADA CUP

Ailing Player Fires Hot 68

MADRID (CP-AP)—Gary Player, despite suffering from a severely strained muscle in his neck, shot a four-under-par 68 today as South Africa continued its hot pace in the Canada Cup golf tournament.

Teammate Harold Henning had a one-under-par 36-35—71 to give the South African team a 419 total and a firm hold on first place. Player, U.S. Open champion, had a 35-33.

Spain held on to second place in the tournament, which ends Sunday over the 7,096-yard, par-72 Club de Campo course. Remon Sota shot a 35-35—70 and his partner Angel Miguel had a 37-37—74 for a three-round team total of 432.

CANADA FOURTH

The Canadian team of George Knudson, 28, of Toronto, and Wilf Homenuik, 29, of Winnipeg, still was out on the course. Canada held fourth place before today's play.

Jack Nicklaus, defending individual champion and a member of the U.S. team shot a 39-32—71 while teammate Tony Lema shot a 35-36—71, leaving the U.S. team with a total of 437.

Knudson, a 150-pounder, fired a 73 Friday to tie three others, including pre-tournament favorite Jack Nicklaus, for fourth position in the individual standings at 143.

Homenuik, razor thin at 140 pounds, shot 71 to jump into 16th place with a two-round 147.

The favored U.S. team stood sixth at 295 despite steady scores of 71-72 by defending champion Nicklaus. Ailing Tony Lema shot his second consecutive 76 to drag down the U.S. score. Lema is receiving pain-killing injections to relieve arthritic pain in his right elbow.

The team and individual championship ends Sunday.

Tough Season For Pro Pivots

By Canadian Press

The Canadian Football League's campaign may be paying off at the box office but it's been murder on quarterbacks.

Signal callers Bill Redell of Edmonton Eskimos, Kenny Ploen of Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Eagle Day of Calgary Stampeders are all hoping to shake off the effects of injuries and return to action in weekend games.

In interlocking contests, Ottawa Rough Riders have taken what is considered the country's most dangerous offence into Calgary to meet the Stampeders today and Hamilton Tiger-Cats will take the country's most grudging defence into Winnipeg for a game against the Blue Bombers Sunday.

The Hamilton-Winnipeg contest will be televised nationally by CTV at 12:30 p.m., PDT, Sunday.

PLAY LIONS

In the only other weekend game, an all-western conference affair, the revitalized Edmonton Eskimos visit the defending Grey Cup champion British Columbia Lions tonight.

Not one of the six teams can afford a loss.

Hamilton and Ottawa are engaged in a neck-and-neck run for the Eastern Football Conference lead.

All five teams in the WFC are scrambling just to make sure they reach one of the three playoff positions. Only six points separate last-place Edmonton from first-place Calgary.

Stampeder quarterback Day, out since Sept. 11 with stretched knee ligaments, has been declared ready to return to action.

Whether he will dress depends on coach Jerry Williams.

Ploen, out almost four full games with a sprained wrist, will make his own decision if he is ready to play against Hamilton.

Edmonton's Redell, out since Sept. 20 with a dislocated collar bone, will be ready for full-time duty against Lions tonight.

Racing Room Reserved For 'Wizards of Odds'

By HAL MALONE

In the calculating room at Sandown Park Friday, six men and a woman watched on closed circuit television as the winning numbers—6—7—3—were posted after the third race.

In unison seven pencils went to work, adding, dividing, checking.

The "objection" sign flashed on an electronic board, indicating the stewards would be examining the flims of the race for a possible foul.

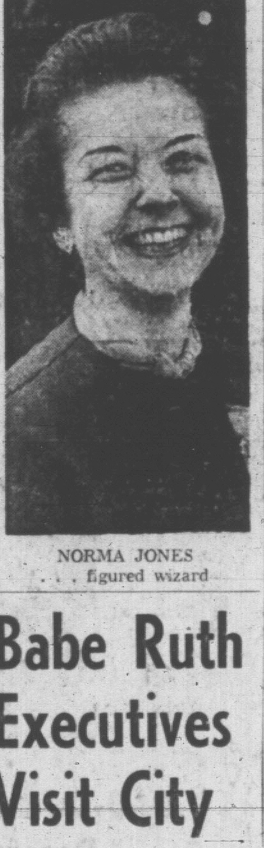
Long before their decision was announced (the numbers were changed to 6-3-1) Len Heaslip turned to Mrs. Nora Jones and said, "3,396.70."

"Right," checked Mrs. Jones.

Heaslip and Mrs. Jones are two of seven calculators whose mental agility and fast pencils determine odds and mutuel prices of every race.

There is no sign in the room advising its occupants to "Be Quick and Be Right" but it's a pressure spot nonetheless.

Heaslip's figures represented the net win betting pool, corroborated by Mrs. Jones. The total win betting pool on the race was $4,327. He arrived at the net figure by taking 78 per cent of the total. Mrs. Jones had come to the identical conclusion by deducting from the total ($4,327) 12 per cent Provincial tax, nine per cent commission (the track's take) and one-half of one per cent federal levy.



NORMA JONES
. . . figured wizard

Of Interest to a Fortunate 142 . . .

As soon as the stewards posted the official sign, declaring No. 6 Mill B the winner, Mrs. Jones and Heaslip divided the net pool ($3,396.70) by 142, representing the amount bet on the horse. This gave them the dollar odds, 23.90 to one which, doubled, induced a handful of bettors to neigh happily over a $47.80 win payoff.

Then Mrs. Jones reached for the "Long Tom," a nickname of unknown origin given to a sheet on which she listed the correct figures for the track commission, breakage (pennies involved), provincial tax and federal levy.

Before the next race, Mrs. Jones also visited the $5 and $10 cash wickets (Heaslip does the $2 windows) to check the tickets cashed in the previous race against tickets sold.

Mrs. Jones is a pleasant, dark-haired woman, the wife of a bank inspector. She is something else.

She is the first woman to gain a place in the calculating room in the history of B.C. racing. Or at least in the memory of mutuels manager Walter Geoghegan.

Mr. Geoghegan has a good memory and a long one. He's been in the mutuels department of B.C. tracks since 1920.

The calculating room is the "holy of holies" in the mutuels department, a silent but intense office hithertofore reserved for math specialists who do not have trouble making two and two arrive at four. Up until last Monday it was the sacred preserve of seven males.

Satisfaction In Accomplishment . . .

"Because of illness," Walter Geoghegan was saying, "we lost one of our win calculators. Mrs. Jones has always impressed, first as a money counter, later as a money room accountant. She's quick and accurate. We're very pleased."

Added Mrs. Jones, a woman who has been "going to the races" for 20 years yet never sees the horses run: "I'm honored and fascinated. I've always liked figures—I worked in a bank—and while the pressure is great the satisfaction of accomplishment makes it all worthwhile."

While Geoghan's "wizard of odds" was flexing her pencil, other things were happening outside.

Things like the first objection (by the stewards) and reversal of the order of finish. They ruled that Totem Miss drifted out and interfered with Baby Joe. Totem Miss was dropped from second to fifth.

Things like the numbers four and five prevailing in that precise order in both quinellas and the exacto. And a gleeful punter saying: "I got them all. This was my 45th wedding anniversary and I had to bet those numbers."

Things like Gene Salas protecting his lead in the jockey derby with two winners (Actella and Royal Fair). And Sandy Shields duplicating the feat with Irish Jubilee and Access.

And, surprsingly things like the mutual handle soaring to $93,823, a gain (for the eighth straight day) of approximately 23 per cent.

Babe Ruth Executives Visit City

Richard W. Case, executive vice-president; J. Jervey Gantt and Alfred Stanton, members of the international board of directors, will arrive Wednesday.

They will tour Victoria to check on facilities available for the 1967 Babe Ruth "world series."

Island director Wilf Sadler said the three, who will arrive from Trenton, N.J., will be guests of honor at a sportmen's dinner Thursday.

On Friday, the baseball trio is to meet Laurie Wallace, chairman of the centennial celebrations committee, and Mayor Dick Wilson.

BLAME THE LIGHTS

Life Is Brighter For Leaf Goalie

It has to be something special to get Al Millar enthused.

Millar, the veteran goalie who is back for another Western Hockey League season with Victoria Maple Leafs, isn't noted as a man who is quick with praise for hockey facilities.

He believes they should always be top grade for the pro sport.

But this week at Memorial Arena the slicker with a stick has been looking up and smiling during training-camp sessions. The reason is the lighting, long a source of despair and complaint from fellows who stop pucks for a living.

The new lighting system at the arena has given a new look to local hockey. Visibility along the boards is now better than it was last season directly under the lights.

"This is a big improvement," Millar said Friday. "Now you can actually see the puck at the other end.

"Before, it wasn't bad for the other goalies. They only had to play six times in this arena. But the Victoria goalie had to worry about seeing the puck for 36 games."

GAME AT NANAIMO

Al won't have the local lights to help him when the Leafs play their first pre-season game tonight. They'll be at Nanaimo tackling Vancouver Canucks, who were nipped 5-4 by Seattle Totems Friday night at Chilli- [illegible] may see action in only o[illegible] tonight's three periods. Rookies Mike Berridge and Gary Holland, who are battling for the No. 2 spot behind Millar, may also be given a period in the nets by coach Frank Mario.

Mario will work Bill Shvetz, Fred Hucul, Sandy Hucul, Aut Erickson and Claude Labrosse on defence and plans to give rookie forwards Mike Laughton and Fred Purvis turns with his three attacking units.

Centre John Sleaver is expected to work with Lou Jankowski and Gordie Redahl on one forward line. Milan Marcetta will centre Bob Barlow and Mike Labadie, and Dick Lamoureux is due to skate between wingers Steve Witiuk and Ed Ehrenverth.

Out-of-Court Settlement For Lindmoser

VANCOUVER (CP) — Lindy Lindmoser, a former Canadian lightheavyweight boxing champion, will receive $16,200 in an out-of-court settlement for injuries received in a traffic accident Nov. 8, 1961, his lawyer said Friday.

Lawyer Thomas Braidwood said Lindmoser's ring career was ended when he was struck by a car driven by George Whittaker as he walked in Nanaimo. The boxer received multiple injuries.

Dillabough Could Be Dilly as a Bruin

Bob Dillabough came to Boston Bruins this season with a reputation as a penalty-killer, earned in four years with Detroit Red Wings' farm system.

Reg Fleming came to the Bruins with a similar tag from Chicago Black Hawks a year ago and proceeded to score 18 goals for them. Today the Boston management has modest hopes Dillabough will follow his example.

The 24-year-old left winger made his debut in a Boston uniform Friday night and scored twice as the National Hockey League's chronic tail-enders defeated Oklahoma City Blazers, their Central Professional League farm club, 4-2 in their opening exhibition game of the season.

The Bruins could use the goals. In last place for the last five years and out of the playoffs for six, they had only two 20-goal men in their lineup last season as they trailed the NHL in scoring.

Murray Oliver, who bagged an even 20 last year, also scored against Oklahoma City Friday night as did Ron Stewart, another defensive expert whom the Bruins acquired from Toronto Maple Leafs in an off-season trade.

Another Toronto recruit, goaltender Gerry Cheevers, played the last two periods and yielded goals by Dallas Smith and Wayne Maxner after Ed Johnston had blanked the Blazers in the opening 20 minutes.

Montreal Canadiens signed Jim Roberts, their penalty-killing right winger, and lopped 29 players off the bulky 80-man roster that attended their training camp. The Stanley Cup champions play their first exhibition game in Montreal tonight against Cleveland Barons of the AHL.

MOUNT VIEW WINS

Oaks Stretch Victory Skein

Mount Douglas booters failed to stop the unbeaten march of Oak Bay through the Inter-High School Senior Soccer League Friday night but they did manage to chalk up a "first" for the season.

The mountain boys became the first team to score against the reigning B.C. champions although they went down to a 3-1 defeat on the Oak Bay pitch.

Doug Hill gave Mount Douglas an early lead but the Oaks, who had posted shutout victories in their first two league starts, evened the count before the intermission on a goal by Ike McKay.

In the feature tussle Friday night at Royal Athletic Park, Mount View and Claremont waged an exciting battle before the Views finally squeezed out a 4-3 triumph.

Steen Philstein paced the winners with two goals and Jerry Knowles and Bob Sommer each added a single tally. Jerry Punt fired two goals and Brian Brossard counted once for Claremont.

In the other afternoon match, Victoria High chalked up its second straight win by romping past Esquimalt 7-0. Cliff Ridley, Bob Stevenson and Palle Poulsen each scored twice and Rick Couch accounted for the other marker.

SALARY HIKE FOR PLAYOFFS

NEW YORK (NEA) — In his book, The $400,000 Quarterback, Bob Curran reveals that storied Johnny Unitas of the Baltimore Colts never really got $7 a game as a sandlot semi-pro football player.

The $7 was for championships. Regular pay was $3 a game.

Soccer Heads Get Tough

VANCOUVER (CP) — Six players have received suspensions for opening-games infractions in a get-tough move by the B.C. Soccer Commission's new disciplinary committee.

Al Hardy and Joe Arden of Firefighters of the Mainland League each drew two-game suspensions. One-game suspensions were meted out to Bill Nicol of Burnaby, Charles Glover of Glenavon and Byron Williams of Coach House. Fritz Laven of Dutch Lions was suspended indefinitely for failing to file a defence.

Players or officials who are ejected from games will have to appear before the committee. Failure to appear without submitting a legitimate excuse will draw an automatic suspension.

Blades Outclassed By National Team

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canada's national hockey team methodically wore down the Los Angeles Blades of the Western Hockey League for a 5-2 victory Friday in an exhibition game watched by 5,664 fans.

The Canadian team, making its first appearance under rookie coach Jackie McLeod, rained 52 shots on the Blades' goal while letting the Blades collect 16 in return. The teams were tied 1-1 after the first period and the nationals moved ahead 3-1 in the second.

Collecting the goals for the nationals were Morris Mott, Ray Cadieux, John Russell, Fran Huck and Jean Cusson. Gordie Vejprava and Brian Smith replied for the Blades.

Mott, a recruit from the Weyburn Red Wings of the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League, opened scoring at 13:58 in the first period while Blades were a man short. Five minutes later, Vejprava replied, also on a power play.

In the lop-sided second period, when Canada outshot the Blades, 24-4, Cadieux connected while Los Angeles was shorthanded again. Russell then collected the prettiest goal of the night at 15:23.

Chuck Lumsden carried the puck across the Blades' blue line and saw Russell coming in. He slid the puck across and Russell drove a blistering 35-foot slapshot into the top corner of the net without missing a stride.

The frustrated Blades, who couldn't keep pace with the well-conditioned Canadians, took 15 of the 19 penalties in the contest played under international rules.

Irish Shock Scots; Welsh Jolt English

LONDON (Reuters)—Ireland and Wales shocked Scotland and England in British home international soccer championship matches today.

In Belfast, Ireland, which finished pointless in last year's championship, scored a 3-2 victory over Scotland, considered the best of this season's four home teams.

Wales, consisting mainly of second- and third-division players and virtually managerless, held England, host for next year's World Cup, to a goalless draw at Cardiff.

Both England and Scotland, considered Britain's best World Cup prospects, had been expected to score easy victories today.

But Ireland, after holding Scotland to a 1-1 draw at half-time, snatched a winner, and Wales fought doggedly throughout to check England.

LONDON (AP)—Superb goal-keeping by Alan Hodgkinson helped Sheffield United to a scoreless draw against Blackburn Rovers at Blackburn today—and the Sheffield team went into a one-point lead in the English First Division soccer standings.

Two of Sheffield's closest rivals, Burnley and Leeds, were without matches because their stars were playing in international games.

Sheffield United moved on top with 15 points from 11 games.

In second place are Liverpool, Burnley, Leeds and Arsenal, all with 14 points. But Arsenal has played 11 games and the other three only ten.

Liverpool and Arsenal both won—Liverpool 3-1 against Aston Villa and Arsenal 1-0 at Newcastle.

JUVENILE FOOTBALL

Limping Farmers Not So Confident

Oak Bay's Farmer Construction team didn't plan to expect too much trouble on Sunday.

They're limping in with a revision today.

Winners of their last three Vancouver Island Juvenile Football League starts, Farmers are due to tackle the luckless Campbell River Raiders at Carnarvon Park.

Injuries are expected to deprive Farmer coach Ralph Sinden of five first-stringers. On the limp are quarterback Bob Wicks, kicker Lloyd Murphy and backfielders Terry Ryan, Dave Young and Jim Forward.

FEATURED MATCH

Big game of the weekend will be at Nanaimo, where Redmen will play the front-running JBAA Mustangs. Cowichan Timbermen will visit Victoria Hornets in a third game, scheduled to be played at Macdonald Park.

Nanaimo, Oak Bay and Hornets all share second, two points behind Mustangs.

Should the Bays, Hornets and Nanaimo all win their Sunday games, the league will have a four-way tie for first place.

All games start at 2 p.m.

VANCOUVER (CP)—An Edmonton horse won the $1,000 Conformation Hunter Stakes at the third annual Northwest International horse show Friday night.

Marilyn Hoover, 21, of Edmonton led her mount, Son of Oregon, over 18 perfect jumps to win the event over 22 other riders.

Maroi Legand, owned and ridden by Jean Dunbar of Haney, placed second.

WEEK IN MARKETS

Confused Signals Flying

NEW YORK (AP)—The final quarter of 1965 began this week with some economic signals "go" and others sounding a warning.

U.S. business has been good all through this year and some elements give every indication of staying that way. But some economists detect prospects of at least a levelling-off.

The U.S. automobile industry, which has been booming for three years, is optimistic that there will be no let-down in the balance of 1965 and in 1966. The steel industry can hardly escape a slowdown. Its customers have been building up stocks of steel all year as a hedge against a strike that didn't occur.

On the optimistic side, a poll of members of the National Association of Purchasing Agents shows that 35 per cent look for better business in the fourth quarter, 52 per cent expect things to be about the same and 13 per cent see a braking trend.

SEE NO DROP

Also, a poll of members of the National Association of Business Economists indicated that the current economic advance will continue briskly through 1966.

Dr. George W. McKinney Jr., an economist for the Irving Trust Co. of New York and a vice-president of the association, said "an overwhelming majority expect most of the important business indicators to be significantly higher next year than in 1965."

However, the trend of business statistics which are recognized as leading—or forecasting for the longer trend—is not all rosy.

Only one of 12 relevant statistics—quarterly corporate profits, which reached a high in the second quarter—is in a continuation of the favorable trend.

Consumers received some good news about the cost of living. A drop in food prices cut living costs two-tenths of one per cent in August, the biggest decline in nearly three years.

Slight declines also were shown in housing and transportation costs. However, clothing and medical care went up.

PICKETING HALTED AT ROYALITE

VANCOUVER (CP)—A provincial Supreme Court injunction was granted to Royalite Oil Company Friday to prevent picketing of its installations in British Columbia by members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union (CLC).

The union is on strike against British American Oil Company, of which Royalite is a subsidiary. A number of other oil companies have been affected by the dispute involving a new contract the union demands include job security provisions as well as salary increases.

Beef Cattle Make History At Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — Cattle lowed, cowboys cursed, the smell of hay was thick in the air.

Typical ranch scene?

Quite, except that this was on Ballentine Pier in Vancouver harbor.

For the first time since the Yukon Gold Rush in 1898 beef cattle were being shipped through the port.

A herd of Herefords from the interior of British Columbia were loaded on board the Danish cattle carrier Clara Clausen for shipment to Chile.

The cattle — 110 registered bulls, 183 registered heifers and 600 commercial yearlings—are bound for a state-owned Chilean agricultural corporation.

They were chosen by a representative of the corporation in 1964 after a visit to B.C. and the Prairie provinces.

New Site Proposed For CBC Building

VANCOUVER (CP)—A report to city council revealed Friday that the Canadian Broadcasting Company has agreed to build its new multi-million-dollar regional headquarters on Georgia Street in downtown Vancouver.

The CBC will buy the land, opposite the Queen Elizabeth Theatre, at market price rather than obtain it free or through a lease arrangement, the report said.

The downtown site had originally been reserved for a proposed Coliseum which now will be built on the Pacific National Exhibition grounds in East Vancouver.

The CBC had originally sought the Kitsilano RCAF site for its development.

New Syndicate Forms To Glean Leftovers

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Vancouver syndicate of three has formed a private company to recover precious and other metals from 42 million tons of copper ore tailings at interior Princeton, B.C., the residue of 45 years of mining at Copper Mountain. The mine closed in 1957.

Kenneth McKenzie, a member of the syndicate, said Friday the company, Chemco Metals Ltd., plans to set up a battery of seven liquid centrifuges in about six weeks, each capable of processing 400 tons a day. A bacterial leaching process will also be used.

The centrifuges were designed by Allen Wiseman of Portland. McKenzie said they are capable of removing gold, silver particles and heavy sulphides from the tailings, leaving the rest of the metal to be scanvenged by the bacteria process.

He said a pilot model of the centrifuge has been operated satisfactorily at the site and a bacterial process has been worked out and tested by Douglas H. Rae, consulting engineer.

John Stinson, field manager of the new company, said Rae's test runs of tailings with an average of .185 per cent copper content, yielded 5.265 pounds of copper per ton in a 30-hour cycle of the bacterial process.

G. H. Kenricks is Chemco president.

The company has an agreement to mine with the village of Princeton which acquired rights to part of the tailings pond from Granby Mining Company 10 years ago.

Grain Flows Too Slowly Say Shippers

CALGARY (CP) — The Alberta Wheat Pool Friday expressed growing concern over the movement of prairie grain to coast terminals for overseas shipment.

Nelson Malm, wheat pool vice-president and president of the Alberta Federation of Agriculture, said in a statement that he is vitally concerned with the present grain transportation tie-up which threatens not only the welfare of the farmers but the entire economy of Canada.

He said that with a view to speeding up grain movement the pool initiated second shifts at its large Vancouver terminal two weeks ago.

"In all this time, we were only able to operate to full capacity for one day.

"Lack of boxcars, switching delays and slowdowns by train crews resulted in a mediocre performance. In fact, the stream of boxcars to our plant, the largest single terminal on the west coast, has all but dried up in the past few days and other Vancouver terminal operators have had a similar experience.

"With no sign of improvement in the week ahead we are faced with the necessity of making large lay-offs at our terminal.

"If anything prevents us from reaching export goals this year, the entire country will suffer.

"We are already behind schedule and further delays will be serious."

Ford of Canada Plans New Jobs

WASHINGTON (CP)—Ford of Canada plans to invest $125 million more in Canadian production facilities, creating 2,200 more jobs, the Senate has been informed.

R. B. H. Ralfs, 5024 Echo Drive, was elected president of the Prospect Lake Community Association on Friday.

Other officers elected were J. Whithead, vice president; G. Roberts, treasurer; and Mrs. L. Hornsey, secretary.

Directors: Brian Hoole, Mrs. J. Rice, S. Gibson, D. Johnson, Mrs. E. Lane, E. Travers, D. Sanford, Mrs. E. G. Perry H. G. Robinson.

Oil Firm Must Pay

CALGARY (CP) — The Supreme Court of Alberta has awarded $18,000 to A. Alfred Franks in the Boston financier's suit against a Calgary oil company.

In an oral judgment, Mr. Justice W. J. C. Kirby granted the award with costs against Pamoil Ltd. but dismissed proceedings against the Royal Bank of Canada which has also been named in the suit.

An $18,000 counterclaim by Pamoil was dismissed.

Nationalize CP Railway Hearing Told

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Board of Transport Commissioners was told Friday that the CPR should be nationalized to ensure that it doesn't abandon its rail passenger services.

The suggestion was made by Kenora and neighboring northwestern Ontario communities at a public hearing into the CPR's application to discontinue its Montreal-Toronto to Vancouver Dominion passenger service.

The board's Winnipeg hearings, which began Monday, were completed Friday. The inquiry now will move to Vancouver Oct. 5-8.

The nationalization brief was signed jointly by the towns of Kenora and Keewatin and the townships of Jaffray and Melick.

It was presented by J. A. Sherrett, Kenora's industrial commissioner, who said:

"The grave consequences of curtailment and abandonment of such services, especially as they affect communities such as our own and others across the Dominion, leads us to feel that nationalization of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company will be the only answer to ensure continued service."

Russians Set To Take Flour At Saint John

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — George Urquhart, chairman of the Saint John port and industrial commission, said today a delegation of Russian government officials will arrive here next week to discuss shipment of Canadian flour to Russia through the port.

Flour shipments would be in addition to cargoes of grain which already are moving through this port as a result of Canada's recent wheat sale to the Soviet Union.

Mr. Urquhart said shipment of flour through Saint John was being held up by demands of shippers for assurance of year-round space for flour storage. He said the shippers had asked for a minimum accommodation of 3,000 tons.

Mr. Urquhart said valuable shed space would be tied up unless storage space for the flour is provided. Flour shipments are handled on a year-round basis.

Nickel Future Brighter 'Demand Should Double'

By GORDON GRANT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Use of nickel is growing rapidly and Canadian producers, now turning out about 86 per cent of non-Communist world demand, are determined to remain the No. 1 factor in international markets.

W. G. Dahl, vice-president of Falconbridge Nickel, said last week demand should double in the next 11 years as consumption is growing at a rate of 6½ per cent compounded annually.

He said this means nickel enjoys one of the fastest growing markets of all metals in general use today.

However, one prominent Toronto analyst who specializes in nickel and nickel stocks, said he thinks Mr. Dahl is conservative in his estimates.

"I think demand will double in about seven years and Canadian companies, particularly Falconbridge and International Nickel, will strengthen their grips on world markets."

Inco, the world's largest producer, a week ago announced a $78,000,000 expansion program slated for the next three years in the Sudbury, Ont., area which will increase its production by 20,000,000 pounds of nickel a year. Inco delivered about 440,000,000 pounds in 1964.

B-A GIVES NO FIGURES

TORONTO (CP) — British American Oil Co. Ltd. net earnings in the nine months ended Sept. 30 will be about the same as in the comparable 1964 period, president Charles Hay says in an interim report to shareholders.

He gave no figures.

"Subject to any adverse effect of the current strike, it is anticipated that there will be a further improvement in earnings in the fourth quarter," he says. "These gains will be offset to some degree by higher income tax."

One of the most important scientific series ever presented on North American television—Animals and Man—begins Sunday at 5 p.m. on Channel 2.

Animals and Man, consisting of 13 half-hour programs, looks at the animal kingdom and man's place in it, through comparisons of anatomy, function and behavior. In its study of the relationships of creatures in the evolutionary scheme, the series lays strong emphasis on animal behavior, which has recently shed much light on the origins of species.

CBC science programs organizer John Livingston, who conceived the series, developed it in consultation with Dr. John Napier, of the Unit of Primatology and Human Evolution, Royal Free Hospital School of Medicine, London, England. Dr. Napier is one of the world's leading authorities on the evolution of the higher mammals.

The general trend of evolution is in the direction of increasing complexity, increasing diversity, and the existence of many well-defined groups. But even an evolutionary break-through like the appearance of animals with backbones did not eliminate the older creatures. The earth still contains many comparatively unchanged living descendents of practically every evolutionary stage, from one-celled amoebas up to the primates and man himself.

At the top of the evolutionary ladder, man with his huge brain and broad range of learned behavior dominates his environment. But in spite of his past accomplishments, his great potential and his sophistication man is still part of the animal world, involved in its processes of natural selection.

The first program of the new Nature of Things series introduces the aspects of animal anatomy, physiology and behavior to be examined in subsequent programs.

In following weeks, the series describes the nature of locomotion—walking, swimming, flying; animal adaptation to specific environments; the use of hands and tools; the function of vision and smell; animal territory and aggression; reproduction; learning; and social behavior.

Animals and Man should be of particular interest to Canadian high school students. For instance, the series covers some of the same ground as the new Grade 13 biology course.

Pope's UN Visit

The significance of the historic visit of Pope Paul VI to the United Nations will be explored in a one-hour special broadcast Sunday at 8 a.m. on Channel 7.

Pope Paul VI is due to arrive in New York the next morning on the first visit by a Roman Catholic Pontiff to the United States.

The special broadcast will include film reports and interviews on the background of the Pope's precedent-making trip.

Three Roman Catholic cardinals will be among the participants commenting on the significance of Pope Paul VI's visit to the United Nations.

They are Joseph Cardinal Ritter of St. Louis, Lawrence Cardinal Shehan of Baltimore and James Cardinal McIntyre of Los Angeles.

The Rev. Robert McAfee Brown, professor of religion at Stanford University, and Philip Scharper, editor-in-chief of Sheed and Ward, Inc., publishers, have also been added as participants.

Others appearing on the special broadcast will be Archbishop Iakovos of the Greek Orthodox Church of North and South America, novelist Morris L. West and The Most Reverend John J. Dougherty, auxiliary bishop of Newark, N.J., and spokesman for the American Catholic bishops. CBS News United Nations correspondent Richard C. Hottelet will be the reporter..

NBC News' "Sunday" program, with correspondent Frank McGee reporting, will devote its major news story to Pope Paul VI and his influence on the Roman Catholic Church, Sunday at 6 p.m.

"Sunday" will show films of highlights of Paul's life, such as his visit to the United States as a cardinal in 1960, his coronation in 1963, and his visit to the Holy Land as Pope. Eminent Catholic, Protestant and Jewish theologians will discuss Paul's impact on both the Second Vatican Council and on modern religion.

Believe and Hear

A graphic portrayal of deaf youngsters being carried into the mainstream of life as North American children live it, will be presented Sunday at 10:30 a.m. on Channel 5.

The program, "I Believe," originates at Mill Neck Manor Lutheran School for the Deaf. Mill Neck Manor, Long Island, N.Y.

When the children first arrive at Mill Neck Manor, they very often are dangerously shut into themselves. With all the good intentions in the world, their families have often been unable to teach them much. At Mill Neck Manor the specialized training begins at the earliest age possible, usually at three.

"Perhaps the school's greatest achievement," says Karl Weber, the program's narrator, "is that these children do not feel handicapped. Anyone who watches them for a few minutes at play is struck with how utterly and delightfully normal they are."

The program will show the children both learning and playing. In addition to the students and their teachers, the participants will include headmaster Melvin Leubke and several parents.

Should You Marry?

The three Seattle clergymen who comprise the panel on "Challenge" will discuss "Premarital Counseling," Sunday at 6 p.m., over Channel 4.

Rabbi Raphael Levine, senior rabbi at the Temple de Hirsch, Dr. Lynn Corson, senior minister at the University Methodist Temple, and Father William Treacy, administrator of Saint Patrick's Church, will undertake to solve the problem of how to overcome the resistance of the people who seem to need pre-marriage instructions the most and want it the least.

With Father Treacy moderating, the panel members will explore what can be done to make young people aware of the pitfalls of marriage and the personal responsibilities thereof; what leadership is or can be given by the church.

DOROTHY LAMOUR

Sarong Girl Wants Switch To New Image

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK (UPI)—Dorothy Lamour has a renewed interest in show business these days, but she has a problem in making people forget that indelible movie image as "The Sarong Girl."

The right sort of television work would suit the slim, pretty and vivacious star just fine, and it was in a video studio that she disclosed her hopes after the taping of a recent "To Tell The Truth" program.

Miss Lamour has been busy with personal interests aside from show business in recent years. There was the raising of two sons—Ridge Howard, now 19 and in the marines, and 15-year-old Tom, in prep school—and operation of Dorothy Lamour Enterprises, Ltd.

The latter built up with her husband, William Ross Howard III, deals in foods, condiments and a jewelry cleaner, and she now would like to let him take over most of that load and get back seriously into the entertainment swim.

BIKINI JOBS

"All I seem to get are scripts with bikinis and undulations," Miss Lamour said. "I even accepted a part in a 'clean' little picture, 'Pajama Party,' in which I played the manager of a dress shop just to prove that I won't go along with what people think Lamour ought to be.

"What they don't realize is that the sarong covered me more than most dresses do today. They also don't realize that, while I'm no prude, I won't allow myself to look or act cheaply.

"The films I did with Hope and Crosby were fun. The other pictures I did had scope. I worked hard in them, and at no time was I the kind of character I'd have hated my children to see."

The star is quite frank about herself. She likes people to know that she's been married for 22 years; that she got tired of paying fantastic prices for hats and makes her own; that she still weighs between 120 and 123 pounds; that she helps with the housework in their Towson, Md., home.

WOMAN'S SHOW

"I look at television today," Miss Lamour continued, "and I know there's one sort of show I could do well. That is a 'woman's show' on which I'd do an interview, sing a little and give opinions on things of interest to women. I think I understand women well,, and I know they like me, too.

"But all I get from the big brains in television is that I ought to appeal to male audiences. They want to put me in skits where I'm wriggling up to the male star to prove my—and his—sex appeal.

"I recently finished three months of summerstock, playing in the musical comedy, 'Dubarry Was a Lady,' and that proved to me that I have audience appeal for both sexes, and not just for the obvious reasons.

"That's why I keep turning down guest-star offers on television shows. I don't want to repeat the sarong image. I'd rather have small spots on some half-hour dramas than be Dorothy Lamour curving in and out of a script."

Pope Paul Visits New York

Network TV Pool Provides Coverage Of Monday's Events

Complete television coverage of Pope Paul VI's unprecedented one-day visit to New York Monday will be provided by the multi-network television pool.

During his visit, the Pope will address the United Nations General Assembly and meet with President Johnson.

Approximately 65 television cameras will be used for the coverage including a camera in a helicopter that will fly over the motorcade from Kennedy Airport to Manhattan, and others in mobile "flash" units that will accompany the motorcade in which the Pope will travel through the city. Several hand-held "creepie-peepie" cameras also will be utilized.

Of the total number of cameras, seven will be color cameras located in Yankee Stadium for color-casting the night-time mass to be celebrated by the Pope.

According to present plans, Pope Paul will arrive at Kennedy Airport at 6:30 a.m.

After welcoming ceremonies at the airport, the Pope will motor through Queens and Uptown Manhattan to St. Patrick's Cathedral, where he will arrive at noon. He will give a blessing to those gathered inside and then go to Cardinal Spellman's residence. The meeting between the Pope and President Johnson early in the afternoon will take place at the Waldorf-Astoria.

The Pope will then motor to the United Nations, where he will make a plea for peace before the General Assembly, and then meet with Secretary-General U Thant in private conference. Before and after the speech the Pope will greet UN delegates and other dignitaries. The Pope is expected to leave the UN at 3 p.m.

Before returning to his temporary residence, the Pontiff will visit briefly at Holy Family Church with Catholic, Protestant and Jewish groups maintaining contacts with the UN.

The outdoor mass at Yankee Stadium is expected to start at 5:30 p.m. and last for about one hour. After the mass, the Pope will leave for Kennedy Airport, stopping briefly en route at the Vatican Pavilion in the New York World's Fair. The Pope's plane will depart by 8 p.m.

To present continuous television coverage of the motorcade from the airport, cameras will be placed at 27 locations along the route of the motorcade in buildings and other vantage points overlooking the route.

The second-largest concentration of cameras, a total of 15, will be used at the United Nations for coverage of the Pope's three-hour visit there.

In addition, the pool also will have access to television pictures of the Pope's departure from Rome at 9:30 a.m. transmitted to this country via Early Bird satellite. Coverage of the Pope's visit in New York will be made available also to the Eurovision Television facilities in Europe via Early Bird satellite.

Public Eye Open

Beginning Tuesday at 10:30 p.m., Channels 2 and 6 will present a new public affairs series which will subject public policies to a searching critical analysis. Entitled The Public Eye, the series has as host former newspaper man and diplomat, Philip Deane.

Some of the subjects The Public Eye will be analyzing in the weeks ahead include: Labor in Canada and the proliferation of unions; a satirical expose of Expo '67; a confrontation between an official of the South Vietnamese government and a member of the Viet Cong; a study of the Cuban missile crisis; and an examination of the tragic, and some say unnecessary, bombing of Dresden during the Second World War.

Each program in the series will feature guests who are authorities on the subject under discussion. The first program, for instance, will discuss the responsibilities of television with NBC newsman David Brinkley and Canadian newspaper man and broadcaster Charles Lynch.

The executive-producer for the series, Richard Nielsen, says he was greatly influenced in his planning by the writings of Walter Lippmann, in his book The Public Philosophy. In this book, Lippmann derides the modern media of mass communications for not promoting more debate on matters of public policy.

Man of Form

The story of a world-famous sculptor and of one of his major works is fused in "Henry Moore: Man of Form," a CBS News Special to be broadcast Tuesday, at 10 p.m., on Channel 7.

NEW 13-WEEK SERIES—Animals and Man—begins on The Nature of Things Sunday at 5 p.m. on Channel 2. Series deals with the animal kingdom and man's place in it.

CBS News chief European correspondent Charles Collingwood is the reporter.

The 67-year-old Moore, believed by many to be the greatest living sculptor, recently completed his largest work, a two-piece Reclining Figure, for the Plaza at New York City's Lincoln Centre for the Performing Arts. Under the English sculptor's personal supervision, the masive bronze—16 feet high and 30 feet across—has been placed into position there and will be dedicated in late September.

It is this sculpture and Moore's own life, works and sources of inspiration that the special broadcast considers.

'I WON'T DO IT AGAIN'

Laing Apologizes to Stock Market

By JOYCE FAIRBURN
(Times Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — Resources Minister Arthur Laing has apologized to the stock market and will welcome any inquiry into statements which touched off a trading boom in oil shares Friday.

"I won't do it again," he said in an airport interview on his return to Ottawa from the west.

But he expressed no reservations about predictions of a potential seven billion barrel oil future for the large sedimentary basin in northern Alberta and the Mackenzie district of the Northwest Territories.

Laing will see Prime Minister Pearson at the "earliest possible occasion" to discuss the reports that threw the Toronto Stock Exchange into Bay Street a-go-go yesterday.

But he has no intention of resigning his cabinet post over the incident.

'THAT'S OLD STUFF'

"That's old stuff," he said. "They have tried the resignation idea with my national parks policy. They will have to come up with something different and more novel."

Yesterday his reported statements in Saskatoon that there was a seven billion barrel bonanza in the Rainbow Lake region 400 miles north of Edmonton hit stock exchanges with a wallop.

The market opening of Banff Oil Co., which discovered Rainbow last February, was delayed by more than two hours by the reaction.

Banff Oil officials issued statements that preliminary probing did not justify Laing's estimate.

The company's shares which closed at $5.95 Thursday, opened finally at a top of $8.00. They closed at $7.20.

STANDS UNCOWED

The doughty Laing, who has undergone a lengthy political blistering for his parks policy, was chastened but uncowed.

He had made a mistake in talking "barrels" but the reference had been to the whole large northern Alberta and Mackenzie area of exploration and not just Rainbow Lake, he said.

If political opponents so desired he would welcome an inquiry into the matter.

"I don't hold a Canadian equity today and I never intend to in my present position," Laing added. "I think I know the score on that."

In his view the whole frenzy arose out of an interview he gave on the frontier resource potential of Western Canada. In Saskatchewan it was potash; in British Columbia it was pulp and paper mills; in Alberta as usual it was oil.

A GENERAL AREA

"I was taken out of context," he said. "I mentioned a field but I was talking about a general area."

"The reporter asked me if the field was Rainbow Lake. I told him, you said it—not me!"

(Geological estimates indicate Rainbow Lake might be worth 1.8 billion barrels of oil).

"I made a mistake in quoting volumes at all—barrels or whatever. "I had no suspicion that what I was saying would cause this embarrassment to the stock exchange. One should avoid talking in volumes and I will from now on."

When asked if he felt there would be any political repercussions to the incident, particularly in the midst of an election campaign, he said it was "very bad policy" to have one's name or statements involved on the stock market in this type of situation.

He noted that the Toronto Telegram had greeted him during his flight stop with "Oil spurted and blew up in my face."

'WE'LL SEE'

"Well, we'll see about that as time goes on," he said.

The theme of Laing's now-controversial interview in Saskatoon was that it was regrettable that so little Canadian money was being used to develop the vast resource potential of Western Canada.

He respected the companies such as Banff Oil which were ready to invest high risk capital in these areas, but he felt that people from other nations had a better idea of the value of Canadian resources than most native businessmen.

His optimism was based on the reports and research of geologists within and outside his department.

"I am hopeful and enthusiastic and I think there is substantial backing for my enthusiasm," Laing said.

"I want to be an optimist at all times," he added. "But because of private interests and the stock exchange I should be more careful."

STRIKE ON AT CRAIGMONT

MERRITT (CP) — Miners struck the Craigmont Mines Ltd. operation here early Friday only hours after union negotiators said no definite date for a walkout had been set.

The move closed down the copper mining operation, a mainstay in this town.

Pen Baskin, representative of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC), said union members had decided during the day to set up picket lines at the end of the afternoon shift.

Where Are New Jobs? Asks Labor

NORTH BATTLEFORD, Sask. (CP)—The Saskatchewan Federation of Labor asked the provincial government Friday to fulfill its promise to create 20,000 new jobs annually or admit that the promise was an election gimmick.

Delegates to the federation's annual convention approved a Regina resolution, which said the Liberal government had promised to create 80,000 new jobs in a four-year period, but that only 4,000 new jobs had been created since the government took office 16 months ago.

Another resolution urged sharp budget increases for the labor department for the coming year.

The resolution said the 1965-66 labor budget was cut by more than $100,000 and had staff reduced in the main branches.

A third resolution passed Friday restated the federation's unqualified support for the principles and safeguards of the Saskatchewan Trade Union's Act.

Donald Macdonald, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Labor Council, said the Saskatchewan act is an exclusive example of what should be in the Federal Union Act.

Farm Income Up 5 Per Cent

OTTAWA (CP) — Total farm income for the first half of 1965 was a record $1,730,200,000, the bureau of statistics reported today.

This is a five-pre-cent gain from the previous first-half high of $1,648,900,000 established in 1964.

The federal agency said the big jump is largely due to substantial payments to farmers by the Canadian wheat board early in 1965.

The board payments were for grain sold by the Crown marketing agency in the 1963-64 crop year in which a record 595,000,000 bushels of wheat was exported.

GOLD CAPITAL of the WORLD

In the 1860's Barkerville was known as "THE GOLD CAPITAL of the WORLD."

In the heart of the Barkerville area near Grouse Creek the Heron Channel PAY ZONE was just 2 inches thick and 4 feet wide — yet produced an average of 10 lbs. of gold to the running foot. From the 400 feet of buried channel, mined in 1867, almost 2 tons of gold was recovered.

This Company has located, and is presently exploring, the unmined continuation of this famous channel.

HARRY HUBACH

Jet Dynamiter To Be Hanged For Shooting

EDMONTON (CP) — Harry Hubach, 36, was sentenced Friday night to be hanged Dec. 8 after a jury found him guilty of capital murder in the death Jan. 28 of a security guard.

The victim was Trenton Richardson, 48, who was shot in the gatekeeper's house at the Northwest Industries Limited plant. Three United States Air Force jets were damaged by dynamite the same night.

The jury recommended clemency and Mr. Justice Hugh C. Farthing of Calgary said he would include the recommendation in a report to the Minister of Justice.

Defence counsel Vern Schwab said he would await instructions before deciding whether to appeal.

"I thank you, your lordship," was Hubach's only comment when asked if he had anything to say.

Evidence admitted at the trial included the testimony of a police constable who quoted Hubach as saying he did not wish to kill Richardson, "but these were American planes and were being used in Viet Nam and I sympathize with the people of Viet Nam."

The constable also quoted Hubach as saying he is not a Communist party member "but I would be honored to join if I were asked to."

In a formal confession to police, also admitted as evidence, he told how he had strapped dynamite to three planes and detonated it.

BUSIEST MAN IN TOWN

His Vote Is Mighty Important

Roger Stonebanks Talks
To ROY BRYANT

Raymond Bryant is one man who won't have a vote in the Nov. 8 federal election.

Unless, that is, two candidates in the Victoria constituency tie in votes.

"I'm not upset," the 28-year-old reutrning officer said when I finally caught up with him earlier this week.

"If I have a vote, then it is a pretty important one"

Neutral

Just as the chairman of a meeting must remain neutral, so under the Canada Elections Act returning officers cannot vote — unless there is a tie.

Ray is probably the busiest man in town, with the exception of Esquimalt-Saanich returning officer John Davies.

It is his responsibility to set up the machinery to allow more than 53,000 eligible voters in the constituency to cast ballots in the election.

"The biggest burden of the job is the weight of responsibility," he said while grabbing lunch in-between work that sometimes run to 18 hours a day.

53,000 Voters

"The last time there were 53,000 voters in Victoria and I'm the only one responsible for getting them on the voters' list.

"I have to arrange for them to vote and tabulate the votes. I had to hire 562 enumerators and 281 deputy returning officers and some 281 deputy returning officers and some 281 polling stations.

"If they make a mistake it's my responsibility. Sometimes this is difficult because of the number of people involved.

"Whlie we do the best we can, these people are just human."

Ray, who was reluctant at first to be interviewed because of his professional position as a practising lawyer, is the youngest returning officer ever appointed in Victoria.

During a two-day refresher course for ROs across the country, he was told he is probably the youngest ever appointed in the country since Confederation.

BRYANT
. . . returning officer

Born and raised in Victoria his father is Esquimalt Coun. James Bryant—he graduated from the University of B.C. in 1962 with a double degree in commerce and business administration, and law.

Misspellings

Among the most frequent calls are those from people whose names have been inadvertently misspelled by enumerators.

"Somehow people think enumerators are perfect but because it is done by human beings it's not."

That's why there is a court of revision Oct. 21-23 to straighten out such matters.

Some pepole are confused because the federal voters list changes from election to election, while in provincial and municipal elections there is a permanent voters list.

Another frequent inquiry is about absentee voting, which is not possible in federal elections. Ballots must be cast by persons in their own ridings, either at the advance poll or on voting day.

Unusual Request

"This is most unusual when some people cherish these rights," he remarked.

These persons were in addition to various groups who refuse to go on the voters list for religious reasons.

He also found it "fantastic" that at least 25 persons didn't even know an election is going to be held.

Ray's territory for the election includes the city, Esquimalt, Oak Bay and the Saanich Panhandle from Lansdowne Road to the Veterans' Hospital.

His staff of four — which sometimes goes up to nine or 10—now is checking in detail the preliminary lists before they go to the printers.

At the same time, he has to arrange for the polling stations—the places where voters actually cast their ballots.

One question that is often asked is how much an election costs, apart from the money spent by the political parties.

NO WONDER WHALES BLUBBER

LONDON (AP)—Blue whales and fin whales are in danger of being wiped out by cutthroat hunters, naturalist Peter Scott said Friday. He said they have dwindled in the last 30 years to 35,000 from 400,000.

Scott, 56, author, painter, yachtsman and head of three international conservation groups, is a son of explorer Robert Scott, who died in the Antarctic in 1912.

He made his remarks on whaling at a press conference at the Zoological Society of London.

Negroes Step Up Peace March After Bus Blocks Prove Futile

CRAWFORDVILLE, Ga. (AP)—Negroes stepped up the pace of their demonstrations in the rural Georgia town of Crawfordville with two street marches Friday after futile attempts to block school buses and enrol in a white school.

More demonstrations were planned today. Elsewhere, a Supreme Court justice refused to halt court proceedings in Hayneville, Ala. The U.S. attorney - general said an investigation would continue into a civil rights worker's death in the Alabama city and federal voting registrars were ordered into Alabama's capital.

In Georgia, more than 150 Negroes marched from a church to the old red-brick Taliaferro County courthouse where they sang and prayed.

There were only a few white spectators during the night demonstration which followed a similar march at noon Friday and a rally at the courthouse.

In Washington, Justice Hugo L. Black refused to halt court proceedings in Lowndes County, Ala. Black's decision on a petition by the American Civil Liberties Union came a day after special deputy sheriff Thomas L. Coleman was acquitted in state court in the Alabama county in the killing of a civil rights worker.

U.S. Attorney-General Nicholas Katzenbach said in Midland, Tex., that the investigation into the slaying will continue. The victim, Jonathan Daniels, was gunned down in front of a small store at Hayneville, Ala.

Katzenbach said it was difficult for a law enforcement official to comment on jury actions. "With the jury system, miscarriages of justice can occur and sometimes do occur," he said. "Many of us have strong feelings about this, as I have, but I won't comment."

CALDWELL

CTV Appoints New President

TORONTO (CP)—The CTV Television network Friday announced the resignation as president of Spencer W. Caldwell, 55, founder and architect of Canada's first privately-owned TV network.

He will be succeeded by Gordon F. Keeble, executive vice-president and a director of CTV since its formation in April, 1961.

The board announced the resignation following two days of meetings with its 11 network station affiliates.

Mr. Caldwell, who said he turned in his resignation a week ago after pondering it for more than three months, said he leaves voluntarily because after 40 years in broadcasting he wants to relax.

"I've been working very hard—we've been working very hard—day and night for a very long time," he said. "I've decided I'd better stop and live a little. I can afford it. If I couldn't, it might be different. But you can say I'm a millionaire. There's no doubt of it."

Mr. Coldwell says he plans to hold on to his 37 per cent stock interest in the network. "If it were important to the success of the network—my baby—I'd part with some of it," he said.

He said there can be no change in the network without a two-thirds vote. "And without me, they can't get a two-thirds vote," he said.

New Court Facilities Praised

Provincial, civic and bar officials Friday said farewell to years of inadequate courtroom facilities in Greater Victoria.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner officially opened the new municipal courthouse on Fisgard St.

Magistrate William Ostler praised the facilities because it will be the first time municipal court will sit as magisterial benches in two divisions—traffic and criminal.

He said the new courtrooms were long overdue.

Mayor R. B. Wilson said a municipal court had to no place in the confines of a police station as was the case in past years.

Uvic Student Wins Award

Second year B.Sc. student Paul Young, 18, of 636 Fernhill Road, was awarded a $100 scholarship Friday by the Lions Club of Victoria.

The University of Victoria student received the annual award for highest marks in chemistry and zoology obtained in the first year of university studies.

The Lions have made the award for 20 years.

Arthur Mayse

Our big neighbor below the border, a noisy fellow with heart of gold, easily-bruised feelings and a dismaying penchant for skidding on such scatter-rugs as Cuba and the Dominican Republic, now seems to be discovering modest little us.

I suppose he had to sooner or later, and in one way, it's nice to be more than just the place where America (and, by the way, who gave him exclusive rights to the name?) comes to catch our fish and shoot our larger fauna.

But there are times, and they grow more frequent, when I wish we could go back to being the Great North Woods, populated almost exclusively by McGregors and Jean-Baptistes, with Rose Marie carolling here, and a redcoat tall in the saddle yonder.

I'm afraid though, that those days are over. The United States, in recent weeks, has shown disturbing signs of taking us seriously.

You're familiar with 'Viewpoint,' the 10-minute slice of opinion which the CBC sandwiches between national and regional news?

Just a couple of nights ago, Viewpoint's zoo-keeper herded from the pen where they keep the pundits a more than usually impressive specimen.

This man, identified as an American, felt his people should know much more about Canada and Canadians than they now do. He advocated an exchange of students, and deprecated the fact that few U.S. universities offer courses on Canada.

That kind of attention is at worst harmless, and at best may finally clarify for the Californians our relationship with Britain and the Crown.

More dubious, however, are certain other manifestations of awakened interest observed in recent months.

One was the Heeney-Merchant report, an international effort styled 'a dialogue between friends,' and aimed at promoting a better understanding between Canadians and Americans.

It was suggested therein that we refrain from criticizing U.S. foreign policy in matters that didn't directly concern us.

Telling us to mind our own business, huh? And in matters that must inevitably involve us, whether we will or not? We reacted, coast-to-coast, with a yowl like a stepped-on cat.

Then again this week, our neighbor took notice of us, with a couple of jabs that rankle.

Our respective countries, as you know, are working on a plan to integrate the North American automobile industry. This venture has brought us hard words from a pair of United States senators.

One accused us of trying to grab jobs away from Americans. Another reproached us on the grounds that we take the United States' protective military might for granted.

Personally, I worry quite a bit about America's protective military might, especially since the Dominican episode.

As for the job-snitching charge, as long as U.S. industry manages to preserve a $500 million trade surplus in cars and parts, a figure guaranteed by the automotive pact, such inroads as we might make shouldn't be unduly damaging.

One mustn't be reactionary; but I can't help remembering how much easier life was before neighbor Sam interpreted our struggle to stand on our own feet as an affront . . . when he came up here to collect a set of moose horns or to see the Dionne quints . . . and between-times forgot all about us.

C. Saanich Adds to Park

Central Saanich council has agreed to purchase 7.63 acres of property to add to its Centennial Park on Wallace Drive.

Purchase price is $7,500.

The proposed new parkland lies west of the park. Part of the property is separated by Holm Road.

With a view to joining the two areas, council will investigate the possible closure of Holm Road from Hovey to White Roads.

OTTAWA TO SHARE BREAKWATER COST

The federal government today announced it will pay 60 per cent of a new breakwater at Kinver Beach, Esquimalt.

The $50,000 breakwater is due for completion in the next month.

Said Victoria Liberal MP in the last Parliament, David Groos, today:

"This is something we (himself and Esquimalt municipality) have been working on together for more than a year.

"But we could get no decision until the federal government decided its new policy covering marinas, breakwaters and dredging of harbors which was announced last month."

The new policy makes federal aid available in cases where the work will promote tourism or otherwise prove economically worthwhile.

Mr. Groos said he believed there were other sites in Victoria which may qualify for federal support.

In particular, the new launching ramps near Victoria Machinery Depot which were recently built by James Bay Anglers' Association.

The remaining cost would have to be paid by the city.

At present the ramps are exposed to the open water, making them virtually inaccessible during bad weather.

In addition, deadheads and other debris washed up by the tide, hamper launching operations.

OFF TO MANITOBA Oct. 15 is B.C.'s assistant deputy minister of finance, William F. Veitch. Mr. Veitch will assume duties as Manitoba's deputy provincial treasurer. For the second time in his life he will be stepping into a spot vacated by Ron Burns, who left Mr. Veitch's present post for the deputy minister's job in Manitoba and is now leaving to accept an appointment at Queen's University

'Civil Service Must Have Strike Rights'

Federal Staff Head Outlines Legislation

Federal civil servants must have the right to strike when collective bargaining is introduced, one of their leaders told provincial government workers here.

Claude Edwards, president of the 80,000-member Civil Service Federation of Canada, said legislation being prepared by the federal government must not rule out strikes.

He was addressing more than 80 delegates to the B.C. Government Employees Association annual convention at the Empress Hotel Friday.

Mr. Edwards said the preparatory committee looking into bargaining rights for federal civil servants made no recommendation for a "no strike" clause in the proposed legislation.

Although the proposed process hinged on compulsory arbitration "the process did not specifically outlaw strikes by legislation nor did it propose any penalties for strike action."

But, he added, it may well be that the recent postal strike will cause changes.

"We hope not," he said.

Although the federation was prepared to accept compulsory arbitration, it did not believe legislation should specifically deprive employees from rights applicable to almost everyone else.

ULTIMATE WEAPON

"To specifically legislate against strike action could effectively rule out the ultimate weapon an employee organization has in dealing with irresponsible management," he said.

Such management could, through Parliamentary process, effectively deny awards granted by impartial arbitration.

Mr. Edwards said "without a doubt" the transition from consultation to collective bargaining will impose strains on both sides.

While the proposed legislation was obviously not satisfactory to everyone, it was "a very great step forward" in the public service.

B.C. Workers Re-Elect Dave Lyttle

Dave Lyttle of Victoria was re-elected unanimously this morning for a second term as president of the 8,000-member B.C. Government Employees Association.

Also re-elected at the association's convention in the Empress Hotel were first vice-president Alex McEwen of Oakalla branch, second vice-president Norman Richards of Victoria and treasurer G. F. Boyd of Vancouver-New Westminster.

The post of secretary, held by E. P. O'Connor every year since 1944, is not elected but appointed by the executive.

RETRAINING

The two-day convention drew to a close with consideration of the last resolutions before the more than 80 delegates.

One of the resolutions approved called on the provincial and federal governments to set up job retraining programs for workers displaced by automation in offices and factories.

The resolution said men and women who have spent most of their life in this same kind of work are being replaced by the ever increasing use of automated equipment.

The convention also agreed that the cost of retraining programs be at the expense of employers "as they stand to gain in every phase of this type of progress."

The association, affiliated with the Canadian Labour Congress, has 1,500 members in Greater Victoria.

LATE, LATE WESTERN STAGED IN SAANICH

Somebody was shooting up Saanich Friday night.

Police first received a call from a resident near the Tillicum Outdoor Theatre who heard four or five shots around 8:30 p.m.

At 1:45 a.m. today, Mrs. P. E. Griffiths, 3942 Cedar Hill Cross Road, reported someone was firing shots in the area.

Five minutes later, Ken Toby, 1551 Mount Douglas Cross Road, reported 14 or 15 shots from what he believed to be an automatic rifle.

And still 10 minutes later a resident at 726 Canterbury reported shots from the vicinity of Rainbow Park.

Police searched all areas without results.

'Canned Food Tastes the Same . . . I Like It,' Says Tokyo Miss

By BOB DONAHUE

Being a student in a foreign country is not without its problems — or rewards, as six students at the University of Victoria this year have discovered.

There is Maria Luisa Sottovia, a 29-year-old law graduate from Santiago, Chile, whose clothing was lost en route to Victoria.

Her reward came when Uvic students rallied in a clothing drive to outfit her from top to bottom. The luggage has still not arrived.

TASTES SAME

"I like it," she says, "because it tastes the same every day."

And there is Eudorah Alice Bodo, a 23-year-old arts and science student from Kenya whose face and stature mirrors the pride of her race.

She hasn't had time to get used to Canada yet, but she likes what she has seen so far.

"The Canadian people are are so friendly," says Richard Ochillo, 22, also of Kenya. "They are always smiling, perhaps because they are different. I don't know."

Richard feels Canadian students are very fortunate because of the easy access to higher education. "There is only one university in Kenya, at Nairobi and it is defficult to get in."

Paul Pius Atalee, from Mutanda, Kenya, is a scholarly 21-year-old who is anxious to get his education so he can return to Africa to teach in a secondary school.

Another foreign student who will be at the University of Victoria for this term is Yutaka Shinoda, 23, who previously attended Keio University, Tokyo.

The African students were brought here through Uvic's African Student Fund and an unusual aspect of the program is that funds for their support will be raised during the four-year course of studies.

Many Canadian universities are interested in this unique approach.

All fees have been waived by the university and living expenses, about $1,200 each year are covered by funds raised through the Alma Mater Society in the case of the non-African students.

Controversial Road Bylaw Goes to Voters On Monday

Sidney residents Monday will vote on a controversial $185,000 road improvement program.

The poll at the village hall will be open between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m.

The program calls for improvements and reconstruction of:

Resthaven Drive, from Malaview to Mills; Pleasant, from Amelia to Calvin; Melissa, from Amelia to Malaview; Bradford, from Resthaven to Pleasant; Amherts, from Resthaven to Pleasant; Almond, from Amelia to Calvin; Amelia, from Resthaven to Bevan; Weiler; Seventh, from Beacon to Henry; Sixth, from Beacon to Henry; Malaview, from Third to Melissa; Henry, from Third to West Side School; Mills, from Resthaven to Melissa; Third, from Ocean to Roberts Bay; Eighth, from Ocean to Oakville.

Property-owners will vote on a bylaw authorizing council to borrow $85,000, payable over 10 years.

Council also plans to borrow an additional $47,000 and to use $53,000 from its budget for the program.

Douglas Only Leader City-Bound

Prime Minister Pearson likely won't visit Victoria in the election campaign, a party spokesman said this morning.

The Liberal leader is expected to make a major speech in Vancouver and "if he comes to Victoria it will be a very quick trip."

The party spokesman pointed out Mr. Pearson was here recently on a private visit. The time he can spend on an election campaign is limited because he still is prime minister, he said.

DOUGLAS ON OCT. 28

The only party leader who at this moment has lined up a Victoria meeting is T. C. Douglas of the New Democratic Party.

He will speak at 8 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 28, in the Royal Theatre.

And coming to Victoria Monday to arrange details of the rally is George Home, the director of political education for the Canadian Labour Congress.

A spokesman for the Progressive Conservative party said leader John Diefenbaker is expected to speak here in mid-October but plans have not been discussed.

Oak Bay Official Named Vice-President

Ralph Futcher, Oak Bay municipal works superintendent, has been named vice-president of the Public Works Association of B.C.

He and municipal works engineer Geoffrey White attended a meeting of the group in Penticton last month.

Day Early For Tricks

Trick-or-Treat night's going to be a day early this year.

Instead of being held on the traditional Oct. 31—a Sunday—Halloween will be celebrated the day before.

Although there is no law against trick-or-treating on Sunday, in the past it has always been brought forward a day.

Last time this happened was 1954.

In 1960 the problem was solved by leap year, which jumped Oct. 31 from Saturday to Monday.

BUS TOURS FULL

Historic Buildings Draw Large Crowds

Victorians are ready and anxious to view their historic buildings.

Bus tours of these buildings, started last Saturday, have proved so successful, there is still a long waiting list, it was revealed at a meeting of Greater Victoria Historic Buildings Trust Friday.

The trust organized two tours last Saturday. Two were in operation today—and two more will take place Sunday.

BUSES CROWDED

Double-decker buses, with a seating capacity of 54 up and down, are used. They were crowded to capacity last Saturday and all seats are booked for today and Sunday.

"There is still a long waiting list but we cannot take any more this year," president Dr. Hugh Borsman reported, "as the double-decker buses are going out of service for this season."

Victoria historians James K. Nesbitt and Peter Cotton gave commentaries on the buildings visited and, at the conclusion of each tour, viewers were entertained to tea at Greater Victoria Art Gallery.

It is hoped that the tours will be resumed next summer, but no definite decision was reached at Friday's meeting.

'WILFUL DISREGARD FOR LAW'

Driver Suspended for Three Years

David Paul, 7306 West Saanich Rd., today in city police court was fined $500 for driving under suspension and leaving an accident scene.

Paul pleaded guilty at an earlier court appearance.

Evidence was he hit a car parked in the Ingraham Hotel lot and his vehicle was later found by police in the parking lot of the Tally-Ho.

His "wilful disobedience and disregard for the law" also prompted Magistrate William Ostler to suspend him from driving in Canada for three years.

"The astonishing thing is you are a good family man; employed and occupy a good position in your band," he told him.

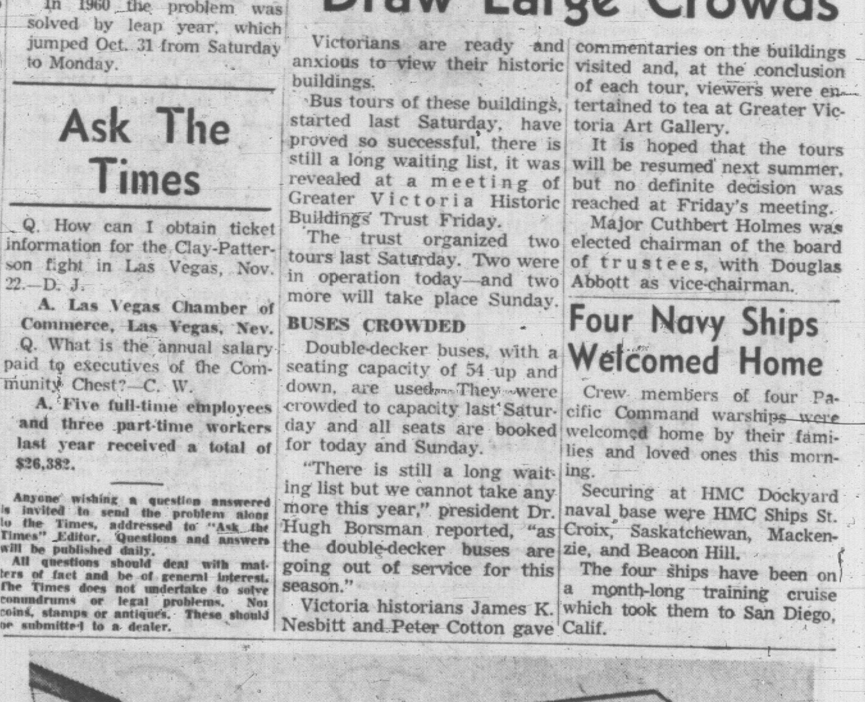
Foster was remanded to Oct. 8 for sentence.



NOT EXACTLY a stairway to paradise, but entrance to restaurant on stilts will lead to gastronomic delights and mezzanine view across Centennial Square and fountain. Unusual set of steps is positioned to least detract from view into the civic square. Critics suggest stairs will discourage patrons and should be supplemented by easy ramp.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Kitchen Organizers Save Time, Utensils

By Penny Saver

In a magazine I was reading the other day, there was a small cartoon about a woman who, on opening her hall closet, had every bit of accumulated junk in the house that had been piled up in the cupboard come crashing down on her. To me this was hilariously funny—what a ridiculous situation to get into! I mentally reviewed all my neat-as-a-pin closets and laughed as I walked into the kitchen to begin supper. I bent down to pick up several saucepans for cooking and when I opened the cupboard—smash! Every pan I own crashed to the floor. After shedding a few not-too-quiet tears, I marched downtown to search for a solution to this embarrassing situation.

Guess what I found? The perfect answer to my problem—a saucepan organizer. This can be attached to your cupboard interior and it will hold all your pots and stove utensils to prevent such an accident as I had from happening. Made of tough steel wire, these are constructed to hold eight pans. Price of this is $2.98.

You can even organize your china cupboards with a new type of cup-rack I discovered, selling for $1.19. This is compact and is made of sturdy vinyl-covered wire, designed with eight arms to hold cups. It revolves, too! Now you can really enjoy life with these efficient articles protecting your kitchenware.

While relaxing, have a cup of coffee—made in the new automatic percolator I discovered, selling at $12.95. Made of sturdy yellow and white plastic, these make five cups—a wonderful item for those mid-morning coffee "klatches" where you don't want too much coffee with your conversation.

Another thing, these are absolutely guaranteed for one full year.

By the way, have you ever had the problem of company coming and you just don't have the time to clean and wax the floor? Now you do!

Simply use a one-step type of floor cleaner and waxer which eliminates time and work by incorporating the two jobs in one. Apply and, in an easy operation, old wax and dirt come off and a brand-new, shiny clean finish is revealed. Price of this liquid is $2.40 and it is wonderful for both tile and wood floors.

Remember, you can give Penny a call at 382-3131 and find out where to shop.

Doing The Town

with DOROTHY FRASER

Date-dazzling style at Madam and Eve . . .

Too bad if you missed that smart little fashion show put on by Madam and Eve Shop just recently . . . their new Anthony Allan line . . . but you can remedy the situation by dropping in to the shop and seeing some of the clothes that were then shown . . . plus many more Anthony Allan outfits . . . which are designed primarily for sophisticated juniors . . . but some of which are just as appropriate for the more mature gal . . . like the black or white cotton brocade theatre suits . . . V-neck, A-line sheath with tailored jacket . . . or the black wool jacket ensemble with scoop neck sheath . . . In younger mood, there's a darling black crepe cocktail dress with bolero-like top, fronted with big satin bow . . . a real swing skirt . . . Same model in jade green . . . A camel hair Courreges-inspired 2-piece dress has vanilla colored trim . . . skirt mounted on camisole top . . . Leaving dresses aside, there are some beautiful-colored ceramic beads hand-made in B.C. . . . matinee length . . . and those textured white stockings which all the gals are clamoring for . . . in three different weights . . . Madam and Eve Shop, Trounce Alley, 383-7177.

We like Jack Smith's explanation of the word "junque" . . . things old enough to have some value to eccentric collectors but not old enough to be called antiques.

Superbly tailored clothes for our menfolk . . .

All right, let's say it's true that women dress for men . . . the question then arises, whom do men dress for? . . . We can think of several good answers, and likely you can too . . . but one thing we are sure of is that our menfolk have a flattering respect for our opinion when they're about to buy a suit or topcoat . . . hence, we're briefing you today on the very fine quality, smart new fall clothing in Wilson's men's department . . . Those meticulously tailored Warren K. Cook suits, in the newest cloths and patterns . . . pure virgin wool . . . manly shades of blues, grey, brown . . . which this fall are popular, in that order . . . Even more exclusive, Chester Barrie suits, hand-tailored in England by the world's finest firm of tailorers of men's clothing . . . truly distinguished! . . . Rodex topcoats in lambswool, or pure wool Venetian . . . the latter, dressy models in black or grey . . . And creme de la creme, Chester Barrie coats . . . hand-loomed, hand-tailored . . . grey, blue, olive and a rich dark brown . . . these coats are famous for their good looks, comfort, and long-wearing qualities . . . If you'd like your man to do you proud, suggest that he look at the new fall clothes for men at . . . W. & J. Wilson Limited, 1221 Government St., 383-7177.

The president of the American Cigar Institute claims that 600,000 women now smoke those new small cigars. No figures available on Canada, to our knowledge.

Curio cabinets to show off your treasures . . .

From where we sat at the recent fashion show at McPherson Playhouse, the stage setting shared equal honors with the show itself . . . and as you know, if you were there, all that beautiful furniture was loaned by the Gallery at Home Furniture . . . where you can see it any time you care to drop in . . . We were there the other day, and spotted quite a number of newly-arrived curio cabinets which we considered quite enchanting . . . You'll find them in walnut, mahogany, fruitwood, gold, antique white, maple . . . One we especially like is of oak . . . very slender and pretty . . . looks antique though it's actually a very fine reproduction . . . Many of these cabinets have hand-carved ornamentation . . . mirror or velvet backs . . . and of course they all light up inside . . . Various sizes and shapes . . . some to fit into a corner of the room . . . Since most of us collect small treasures of one kind or another, such a cabinet is the perfect place to house them . . . free from dust, and showing to advantage . . . Also at the Gallery, more of those small Victorian chairs we've often told you about . . . delightful in a traditionally furnished room . . . and right now there's a good choice of colors and finishes . . . Home Furniture Company, 825 Fort St., 382-5138.

Short, wavy-edged gloves barely touching the wrists are just the thing with the new long skinny sleeves.

Gorgeous gowns for important evenings . . .

Ever since the fall fashion showings in Paris, Rome and New York, we've been reading about the new trend of opulence in evening wear . . . now we've seen it with our own eyes . . . exemplified in the truly magnificent new evening gowns just arrived at Miss Frith's . . . Rich fabrics, lavish trimming of bugle beads, pearls and other glittering "jewels"! . . . There are several gowns by Ruth Dukas . . . only one model of each being available in B.C. . . . (which means once you buy it, that's it . . . there isn't a duplicate available even in Vancouver, . . . There's a heavy bronze satin with cream top . . . pearl, bugle bead and topaz trim . . . A gorgeous peacock satin with black lace top encrusted with bead trim . . . A dramatic gown of American Beauty cloque, artfully draped in front, lavishly bejewelled . . . has its own long wide stole . . . white, banded with American Beauty and jewelled trim . . . A delightful model in blue and green with long floating panels in back . . . Space prevents us describing more . . . but we just want to point out that while these gowns are on the expensive side . . . Miss Frith's also have some very lovely moderately priced evening dresses . . . like a blue and green iridescent brocade tagged at a mere $39.98 . . . Miss Frith Millinery & Fashions, 1617 Douglas St., EV 3-4912.

This season there is a wide variety of silhouettes, fabrics and so on . . . as well as femininity vs. youthful exuberance.

Cruising down to Mexico . . .

No longer is there any need to hesitate between a holiday in Mexico or going off on a cruise . . . because now you can do both at once . . . in the pleasantest possible way . . . by booking on one of the 10 forthcoming Mexican cruises aboard the "Princess Patricia" . . . sailing from Los Angeles for two glorious weeks of cruising along the scenic west coast of Mexico . . . You visit four famous vacation areas . . . Puerto Vallarta, which rose to fame with the filming there of "Night of the Iguana" (and advent of the Burtons) . . . Next stop, Manzanillo . . . famous for its marlin fishing . . . Acapulco, world-renowned luxury resort (3 days stopover here, so you can fly north to Mexico City for a quick visit, if you like) . . . Finally, Mazaltan, one of Mexico's major coastal cities . . . and back to L.A. . . . It's a luxurious tropical cruise which can be just as relaxing . . . or exciting . . . as you care to make it . . . At the four ports visited, your ship is your hotel . . . Ashore you can sightsee, fish, swim, shop for all manner of fascinating things . . . Aboard ship, all outside staterooms, in this newly-outfitted, air-conditioned liner . . . Price of cruise starts at $430 . . . Why not drop in to Paulin's for illustrated brochure, plus all details of these new Mexican cruises? . . . George Paulin Travel Service, 1006 Government St., EV 2-9168.

Many of Dior's cocktail dresses have skirts so full they are almost dirndls. Fullness is cinched in at the waist with satin belts or sashes.

Another bonanza from Northwestern! . . .

During these next couple of weeks, your Northwestern Creamery Home Salesman will be taking orders for something we consider a real honey . . . a set of 8 Spectra/tone Stemware sherbets, each one in a different delightful color . . . glamorous and festive-looking, yet so sturdy you can use them for everyday without a qualm . . . Here's how it works: each week for eight weeks, with the purchase of that week's featured Northwestern product . . . (apple juice . . . cottage cheese, Breakfast Orange, Creamee, etc.) . . . you get one of these glamorous sherbets for just 59c . . . (retail value is $1) . . . Take our word for it, they're really good-looking and will blend beautifully with your dinnerware . . . moreover, they're safe in the dishwasher . . . can be put right in the freezer for frozen desserts . . . are stain resistant and practically unbreakable . . . so you needn't be too concerned about childish accidents! . . . Keep on saving your expensive crystal for company meals, if you must . . . but do set a pretty table for the family with these elegant sherbets . . . 8-oz. capacity, with clean tapered stems . . . Order from your milkman . . . he'll bring them right to your door, along with those good Northwestern products . . . Northwestern Creamery Ltd., 1015 Yates St., 383-7147.

In Step With Style

Low Reading Could Mean High Style

By Nona Damaske

It's inevitable, like death and taxes, the rain will come. For the next few months, a raincoat will be the mainstay of your wardrobe . . . a low barometer can mean high fashion.

Weather has a great influence on our state of mind . . . you naturally feel bright and cheerful on a sunny day. On drizzly days a little help is sometimes needed to lift the spirits and a smart rain outfit could very well be the answer.

This is the time to think about breaking through the weather barrier with a smart new rainshedder.

Rainwear is now the designers' darling and has acquired all manner of new names, "all-weather," "multi-purpose," "season spanner," "what-ever-the-weather," and "globe trotter" coats.

The choice in our stores is quite varied . . . there are raincoats that look exactly like raincoats and are proud of it, and there are those that invariably raise the query "This is a raincoat?"

Every manufacturer has included a version of the foreign intrigue coat. The late Ian Fleming and his fictional agent, James Bond, are responsible for the great revival of this cinched-in coat, highlighted with all its dramatic flaps, tabs and leather buttons.

For the wearer who wants to switch identity in an instant, there is a completely reversible style. Natural tan twill on one side and authentic Black Watch tartan on the reverse . . . a flip of the hat brim and agent 007 changes from a casual correspondent to a canny Scot.

Snow-white combed cotton may not be to easy to hide in but who would want to . . . a Belgian import, this rain-treated coat is a stunner. That beautiful rich shade of brown which makes you feel warm just to look at it, is chosen for a double-breasted wide-wale corduroy. The collarless neckline rises slightly to give the appearance of a turtle neck. The coat is completely pile-lined.

A black pure silk dressy coat has all-over elastisized stitching which gives a puckered quilting effect. A simple rounded collar, turned-back cuffs and a slight A-line flare make this a coat for all sizes. This elegant style is also available in black.

Capes capture a spot in today's rainwear. You would dote on a downpour in a reversible cape of cherry red poplin and a treated wool in the Prince Charles tartan . . . a slender tartan skirt goes along for the ride.

Don't mutter and grumble . . . sing in the rain . . . in an attractive rainshedder.

Brighten the scene on a grey day in a slender shaft of golden poplin. The crisply tailored coat has a tabbed funnel collar, back yoke and pleat. The button-in pile lining gives a cosy comfort when the day is chilly as well as damp. The matching rainproofed head cover is fashioned in the manner of a kerchief.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Live It Down!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband's brother put an ad in our local paper asking for information on his wife's running around with other men. I understand he got a lot of answers and is using them to prove his wife is an unfit mother. As far as I am concerned our family's name in this town is mud. I told my husband that if he didn't move the kids and me away from here, I was going to leave him. He says that just because his brother is a jackass doesn't mean that HE is one too. And besides, he says that he has too much invested in his business here just to pick up and move because of the talk.

What should I do?

OUR NAME IS MUD

DEAR MUD: It takes only one jackass to make a laughingstock of an entire family. The talk will die down eventually, so stay with your husband. Moving away is no solution. "Talk" has a way of moving, too.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a man who asks his wife to dig into her purse to settle up a bill in a restaurant? That's my husband. Although everyone knows I work, I would just as soon preserve the illusion that my husband is the breadwinner of the family. It's not the money. I wouldn't mind giving him the money at home if he's "short" or forgot to cash a cheque, but I think it looks terrible for outsiders to see a woman paying for things when she's with a man. How do I put a stop to this? He laughingly call me his—

"CASH REGISTER"

DEAR CASH: Get the finances straightened out at home and tell hubby that from now on the "Cash Register" is ringing up NO SALE in public.

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine tells everyone she weighs exactly the same now as she did when she was married 15 years ago. That was 110 pounds which is what I weigh. She is at least 15 pounds heavier than I am. The next time she makes that statement at my house, should I bring out the bathroom scale and dare her to stand on it?

HATES LIARS

DEAR HATES: No. It's bad enough for a woman to lose her figure without having to lose face, too.

Born and brought up in Scotland, Mrs. William Reith found her knowledge of Broad Scots invaluable during her stay in Sweden. "I felt really at home, people would say, 'Why, you're really like one of us,' when we discovered that many of our words were similar."

Swedes Understood Her Scottish Tongue

BEATS LANGUAGE BARRIER

By PAT DUFOUR

When Mrs. William Reith found herself looking forward to a five-week stay in Sweden this summer, she determined not to be caught behind a language barrier. Fortunately, she has a friend, Mrs. Gerda Fielding, who'd lived in Sweden for 15 years. Encouraged by her mentor, Mrs. Reith combined home chores for her husband and two children with her lessons in language.

"I'd tackle the ironing and my Swedish vocabulary at the same time."

A dedicated Guider, Mrs. Reith was one of the Canadian contingent at an international camp, held this summer in Stegeborgslagren. Altogether, 5,000 Guides from 15 countries joined in the mammoth rally.

Mrs. Reith needn't have been too concerned about her lack of foreign languages.

"I found that English is the second language in Sweden. It used to be German and some middle-aged Guiders found themselves thinking in German and translating into English.

"Actually, the only time I came up against the language barrier was in a London hotel. The Chambermaids seemed to either Spanish or Italian and communication was impossible."

Mrs. Reith was supposed to be in Sweden for five weeks but her stay was prolonged because one of the Canadian Guides came down with an infection and Mrs. Reith stayed behind to travel back with her when she came out of hospital.

Her prolonged stay gave Mrs. Reith a chance to know Sweden better. She describes it as, "Very ambitious and well-organized. Towns and cities just don't happen in Sweden. They have planned their cities for centuries and each one is green with parks and beautiful with well-designed buildings."

Mrs. Reith found that there is no such thing as a poor person in Sweden.

"The Swedes say this is because there has been no war for them for centuries. They explain their neutrality as being the best way in which they can contribute to the world's well-being."

The mammoth guide camp was located near the sea on ground belonging to a huge estate. Mrs. Reith describes the camp as "One of the best ways in which young people can learn to appreciate the other person's point of view and their differences."

At the same time the guides were under canvas, 4,000 Boy Scouts were camped on an island across the bay.

With a smile Mrs. Reith confides, "The charter boats did a roaring business with commuters!"

After the camp, each guide and guider was entertained for a week in the homes of the kindly Swedes who, reports Mrs. Reith, "went out of their way to make our stay a happy one.

"They're the cleanest people I've ever seen. As an example, they use quilts instead of blankets on their beds. Each day, they're aired in long dressing rooms. The Swedish housewife doesn't spend so much time cooking as we do . . . their meals are much lighter . . . so they spend more time cleaning and polishing."

The Swedes love to eat raw fish and Mrs. Reith when she tried found, much to her surprise, that it was delicious.

Mrs. Reith also reports that the young people in Sweden are well-dressed, wearing neat tailored clothes.

One odd note, though, is the hair styles. Many of the boys wear exceptionally long hair while the girls keep theirs cropped short.

The explanation given to Mrs. Reith is typical of Swedish thinking:

"We are a democracy and hair is a personal thing."

And, although the country remains neutral, the influence of other countries, especially the United States, makes itself felt. American television shows are mainly responsible.

A prime example of this is one of the little vignettes Mrs. Reith saw.

"Next door to where I was staying was a little five-year-old boy. I'll never forget the sight of him . . . magnificent in cowboy hat, boots and spurs . . . playing with a little girl and telling her in Swedish, 'You're an Indian'".

New Program Would See Province Combining Forces With Japan

British Columbia and Japan are considering combining in a joint venture which promises to swell the monetary and economic conditions and provide new foreign markets for both areas.

This was the message stressed by Hon. Robert W. Bonner, attorney-general of British Columbia, when he spoke to the Women's Canadian Club Friday afternoon in the Empress Hotel ballroom.

He was speaking on the recent trip to Japan which he and other members of the provincial government made with Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

Japan, he said, would provide the skill and technique necessary to produce items for exports and also contribute a small part of the money needed. B.C. would supply the bulk of capital and the management.

"British Columbia," continued Mr. Bonner, "has a vast number of resources. It is the biggest revenue-producing province in Canada, so far as resources are concerned. Our standard of living is almost twice as high as the maritime provinces.

"Japan, on the other hand," he added, "is a small country with no real assets other than its people. What they lack in resources, they make up for in skill and they mainly subsist on the products they have imported from other countries, and developed into export items.

"After 1945," noted the attorney-general, "Japan slowly began to recover from the destruction of war and occupation, mainly from the foreign aid program provided by the United States. Industries grew, operating on credit, finding new markets overseas."

But when there were no more foreign markets, there was extreme danger of bankruptcy. Japan has, over the last few years, had to live under a form of martial law.

"It's also become very western in its outlook — even more western than the U.S. or Great Britain because of the way they have adapted western ways to their own culture," he said.

Although many things traditionally Japanese still prevail among the older people, the majority of the young have become western in dress and idea.

"Though we here in B.C. exist," he said, "on an average wage of $98 a week, the average Japanese brings home the equivalent of $102 to $150 a month. Of course the yen (Japanese money) has a totally different buying power, but the wage is still far less than the average Canadian's. About nine out of every 10 Japanese have television sets, 75 per cent have washing machines, 61 per cent have refrigerators.

"They also manage to save about 20 per cent of their income per month. Canadians save approximately 8 per cent."

Most of Japan's industries are small-converting the resources they import.

"But," said Mr. Bonner, "the speed at which they work—still managing to obtain fine workmanship and quality—is amazing. I went through a factory making iron products—the ingots were coming along the chute at 10 to 15 m.p.h. A few minutes they were travelling about 85 and they'd all been made into some iron article. One reason is the Japanese will to work. In the industries, it's not a case of 'too many chiefs and too few Indians.' The head of the Sony factory, whom I met, works with his employees—he never lets anyone do any job he hasn't worked out himself."

"He gets results too. They have now put on the market a new type of visual tape recorder—a really intricate and involved machine—which will enable organizations to record sound and picture at one time—in one easy operation. This will save money and time."

President of the club, Miss Elizabeth Forbes, introduced the guest speaker and he was thanked by Mrs. H. H. Youson, first vice-president.

The course has been arranged by Victoria Council of Churches under the chairmanship of Canon C. Hilary Butler.

First Baptist Church

Church choirs, big and small, have been called the backbone of a nation's music. They raise the morale of the service and keep up the tempo of the music. Now the summer holidays are over, The Times is resuming its popular picture series of Victoria choirs.

THERE HAVE BEEN many choirs at First Baptist Church since it was founded 86 years ago. The present ensemble is directed by organist John Tunstall, who has been associated with church choirs in Ontario and B.C. for 35 years. Before he took over in 1959, the choir was directed for 30 years by the late Oliver R. Stout, leading city organist and music teacher. This Sunday, the choir will sing the anthem, Jesu, Lamb of God, with Helena Williams as soloist. The morning worship will be broadcast over CKDA.

Salt Spring Family Called to St. Helena

Clifford and Catherine Huxtable and their three-year-old son, Gavin, are leaving their Salt Spring Island home Monday for the island of St. Helena in the South Atlantic, where they will be missionaries for the world-wide Baha'i Faith.

St. Helena is famous in history as the exile of Napoleon, the vanquished conqueror. It is also the choice of the Baha'i Faith as part of a nine-year plan to spread its doctrine throughout the world.

The Huxtables are excited at the prospect of taking their faith to St. Helena.

Mr. Huxtable, 33, is giving up his position as assistant principal at Salt Spring Island High School.

"I hope there will be a teaching position for me at St. Helena," he said, "but there are no prospects at present."

Catherine is a muscular dystrophy victim. She developed the malady in childhood and has lived in a wheel chair since she was 16.

One year ago the Huxtables realized a long-cherished dream—a home of their own. Now the furniture has been sold and the attractive waterfront home is up for sale.

"We have been followers of Bahai'i for 13 years," Mr. Huxtable said. "Now we are answering a call for pioneers to serve in isolated parts of the world.

"We have learned in the past that possessions do not guarantee contentment. The things we have acquired here have taken much time and care and have kept us from worthwhile things.

"We had no time to develop friendships or give much thought to other people."

They believe the Baha'i Faith is the answer to most human problems.

It was founded 120 years ago by a Persian merchant, Bab (the Gate), who foretold the coming of a teacher who would establish a new cycle in the age-old dialogue between God and man.

Baha'a'llah, a Persian nobleman's son, proclaimed himself as the promised teacher, with the same authority as Moses, Mohammed and Christ.

NEW associate minister at Oak Bay United Church is Rev. D. B. Sparling, DD. Born at Roland, Man., he served the United Church in Manitoba until 1959 when he came to Belmont United in Victoria. Since his retirement last year, he has travelled widely in the southern United States. He is a past-president of the Manitoba Conference and received his doctor of divinity degree from United College, Winnipeg.

DEAD LEADER TO LECTURE

A man who died last year will give a lecture in the Sussex Hotel, 1001 Douglas, Sunday at 11 a.m.

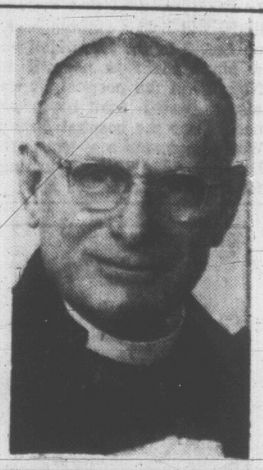
The man was Joel S. Goldsmith, founder of a religious movement known as The Infinite Way. He died in London, England, in May, 1964.

Before his death, he recorded a series of lectures expounding his religious philosophies.

They will be played by Victoria members of The Infinite Way movement every Sunday at 11 a.m. in Room 220 at the Sussex Hotel.

"We are a Christian order," one of the members said. "Our faith and philosophy are based entirely on Christ's teachings."

Mr. Goldsmith established the headquarters of the movement in Hawaii, but had followers in many countries. He was on a lecture tour when he died in England.



PREACHER at the harvest festival service in St. Mary's Anglican Church, Metchosin, Sunday at 11 a.m., will be Canon George Biddle, who retired recently as rector of St. John the Divine, Victoria. Rev. Cyril Venables, vicar of St. Mary's, will conduct the service.

Matter of Numbers; Swiss Ranks Thin

VATICAN CITY (AP) — They've changed the guard in the Vatican's Courtyard of the Sentinel—and the sentinels are less colorful.

The Vatican gendarmerie, with its plain blue uniforms, has taken over there from the historic Swiss Guard, whose uniforms with red, yellow and blue stripes were designed by Michelangelo.

The Courtyard of the Sentinel is a well travelled passage between the Courtyard of the Belvedere and the Courtyard of San Damaso. Important visitors enter the apostolic palace there, and tourists use film by the mile.

The change is no reflection upon the honor or diligence of the Swiss Guard, sworn since the Middle Ages to defend the Vatican and the popes with their life's blood.

It's just a matter of statistics. The ranks of the fabled Swiss Guard are thinning slowly. There are hardly enough of them to go around any more.

The original strength of the guard was 150. The late Pope John XXIII whittled that down to a more economical 100. Under Pope Paul the ranks have thinned to a little over 80 without replacement.

The less spectacular but equally diligent Vatican gendarmerie, an all-Italian recruited outfit, is up to its normal strength of 150.

WORKMEN PREPARE Yankee Stadium for the visit Monday of Pope Paul. More than 100,000 are expected to attend mass after the Pope has made a peace plea before the United Nations General Assembly. Stay-At-Home Popes Forced To Travel

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Some of Pope Paul's predecessors have been well travelled — but not by choice.

In mileage covered, the reigning Pontiff probably will have more territory behind him than all 262 of his predecessors when he returns from his visit to the United Nations.

Popes have been noted stay-at-homes and a number of those who took voyages made them unwillingly. Up until Pope Paul went to the Holy Land in January, 1964, it had been 152 years since a pontiff left the confines of what is now Italy.

Although history is sketchy on a number of points, best estimates are that only about 38 of the 263 popes beginning with St. Peter have ventured beyond the Italian borders. This includes the seven French popes who reigned during the 65 years of the "Babylonian captivity" beginning in 1309 when the papacy was moved to Avignon, France.

ST. PETER FIRST

St. Peter was the first pope to travel. Although he was born in the Holy Land and spent most of his life there, the Catholic Church holds that he came to Rome during the last years of his life and was crucified in the eternal city.

After a jump of some 200 years, the next known pope to have travelled outside Italy was Liberius, who was banished to Thrace in 353 by the Emperor Constantius.

John I (523-26), Agapetus I (535-36), and Vigilius (535-55), all were forced to go Constantinople by various temporal rulers.

In 753 Stephen II went to France to ask the protection of Pippin against the Langbards who were threatening to depose him.

In the 15th and 16th centuries four popes made trips abroad, but there was a lapse of two centuries before Pius VI was taken prisoner by Napoleon on Feb. 20, 1798, and "persuaded" to go abroad. He died shortly afterward at Valencia, Spain.

From 1870 when Rome was invaded by the troops of King Victor Emmanuel II and Italy was unified, until the Latern Pact was signed in 1929, the popes were self-styled "prisoners of the Vatican."

But even after the Lateran Pact they didn't go in for travelling.

Pope Pius XII confined his trips to the Rome area, and the longest jaunt John XXIII made was 400 miles by train to the shrines of Assisi and Loreto.

Man of Many Faces Sits in Peter's Chair

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

During the 27 months he has occupied the Chair of Peter Pope Paul VI has successfully eluded all attempts to pin a label on him.

Every time Vaticanologists think they have him figured out, he does something to confound their expectations.

Is he a progressive, or is he a conservative? Is he pushing the reform movement launched by Pope John XXIII, or is he trying to apply the brakes to it? Is he a "Hamlet Pope" who wavers indecisively between one viewpoint and another? Or is he an astute leader who uses papal powers with great skill to placate the disaffected, minimize factionalism and preserve the unity of the Roman Catholic Church?

Choose any description you like, and you will find a clutch of "experts" to quote in support of your opinion.

When he was elected pope on June 21, 1963, Giovanni Battista Montini was hailed by Catholic progressives and ecumenical-minded protestants as the chosen heir of John XXIII. It was widely predicted that the new pope would be even more receptive to new ideas, and even more dedicated to Christian unity, than his beloved predecessor.

This appraisal was based on his record as Archbishop of Milan, and his role as a leader of the progressive wing at the first session of the Vatican council.

It was corroborated by the first acts of Paul VI — his prompt call for resumption of the council, his promise of major reforms in the Roman curia, his gestures of good will toward non-Catholics.

The first doubts cropped up during the fall of 1963, at the second session of the Vatican Council, when he declined to support progressive bishops in their attempts to get an immediate vote on a declaration of religious liberty and a statement exculpating the Jewish people of the crucifixion of Christ.

Progressive misgivings about Paul VI were heightened at the 1964 session of the council, when he again permitted a small group of conservatives to forestall a promised vote on the religious liberty declaration and the statement about the Jews. In the closing days of the 1964 session, he also asserted papal authority by conferring upon the Virgin Mary the title "Mother of the Church" after the council had decided against doing so.

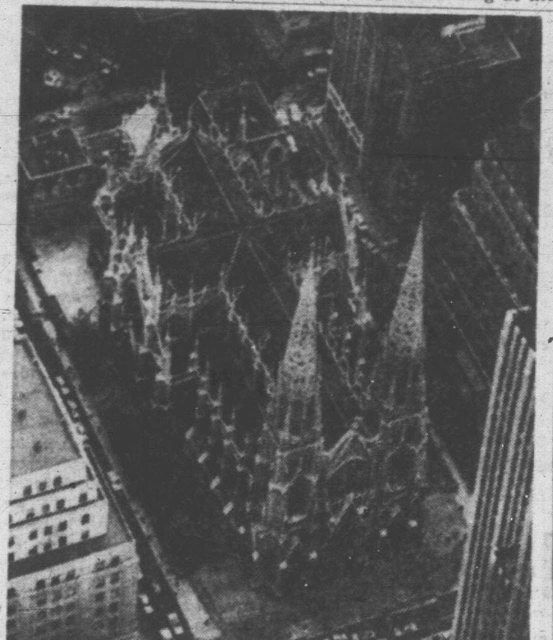
From December, 1964, through early September, 1965, the Pope did little to alter the growing impression that he was eager to bottle up the surging forces of reform which John XXIII had released in the church. His public statements, almost without exception, were cautionary and conservative in tone. He repeatedly emphasized the supremacy of the papal office, called on Catholics to show more respect for authority, warned against "innovating trends" in theology.

SPRANG SURPRISE

Then, in his opening address to the council on Sept. 14, Paul VI sprang one of the surprises that have become the hallmark of his papacy. He announced the creation of a new top level senate of bishops, chosen by national hierachies all over the world, to consult with the Pope on major decisions involving the whole church. Establishment of this body, which will outrank the Curia, is one of the most momentous steps ever taken to decentralize authority in the Catholic Church.

Although leaders of the council's progressive wing are delighted with the new senate, they are keeping their fingers crossed to see what compensating bone the Pope may feel required to throw to the small but tenacious conservative bloc. They are waiting, particularly, for final action on the often sidetracked documents on religious liberty and the Jews.

Which picture is the true one? Only God and Paul VI know.



HIGH SPOT of Pope Paul's visit Monday to New York will be the spired St. Patrick's Cathedral where he will pray and speak to assembled crowds. (AP Wirephoto.)

Special Mass Set For Pope's Mission

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Bishops at the Vatican Ecumenical Council Friday put the weight of the entire Roman Catholic church behind Pope Paul's unprecedented peace pilgrimage to the United Nations in New York.

The council, representing the hierarchy of 500,000,000 Catholics, announced the church fathers will pray at a special mass in St. Peter's Basilica for the pope's mission as the pontiff flies to New York Monday morning.

The mass was arranged as a dramatic demonstration of solidarity behind the pope's plea for peace to the 117-country General Assembly.

The bond between the pope and his bishops on this question will be underlined further when the pope returns to Rome Tuesday. The pontiff will drive directly from the airport to St. Peter's, where the council will hear his first-hand report on the mission.

A member of the American bishops press panel, Rev. Francis McCool, said of the papal address to the UN:

"He is going to call to their attention again the problems they are only too well aware of—world peace, nuclear war. He will be showing that in being there he is, in a sense, pledging the solidarity of the church — laity, clergy, all — with this effort."

Pontiff Responds To Crowds

By EUGENE LEVIN

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Pope Paul North Americans will see may appear to be a vastly different man from the Pope Paul Romans see.

Travel does things to him.

In the Holy Land and India, he seemed to be a warmer man, responding to the crowds around him and evoking a response.

At home, in his own diocese of Rome, he is often taken for granted. The crowds are used to seeing Popes.

Those who know Pope Paul say he is a warm but basically shy person who finds it difficult to stir a crowd without some help from the crowd itself.

When he travels, things are different. He is swept up in meeting new people and seeing new things. The crowds are livelier than Rome's. They haven't seen a Pope before.

THEY INSPIRE HIM

"They inspire him, and he inspires them," said a Vatican prelate who travelled with Pope Paul to India and the Holy Land.

Of the 45 years since he became a priest, he has spent 35 in Rome. He was a prominent aide to Popes Pius XI and Pius XII.

But his background is north Italian.

Giovanni Battista Montini was ordained a priest in 1920. After three years of graduate studies in Rome and a year in Warsaw as secretary to the apostolic nuncio (envoy), he entered the Vatican secretariat of state. He rose steadily. Pius XI made him substitute secretary of state in 1937, and Pius XII promoted him to prosecretary of state in 1952.

The career in the secretariat ended after 31 years, when Pius XII sent him north to Milan as archbishop of the most important diocese in Italy outside Rome. He was proclaimed cardinal Dec. 15, 1958.

Eight years later, in June, 1963, Giovanni Battista Montini returned to Rome for the conclave of cardinals that elected him successor to Pope John XXII.

In going before the UN General Assembly, he is undertaking a mission to a secular world that often has not heeded his appeals for peace, and might ignore him again.

"This is a risk that must be taken," John Cardinal Heenan of England said.

"People don't come to us now. We have to go to them."

Canada's Buildings Going Up, Up, Up . . .

On the eve of National Home Week, being observed Sept. 25 to Oct. 3, the Hon. John R. Nicholson, federal minister responsible for housing, issued the following statement:

"The annual celebration of National Home Week has assumed even greater significance this year considering the tremendous accomplishments of the house-building industry.

"In the first eight months of 1965 housing production surpassed by 11% even the record levels of construction set in 1964.

"Here is proof of a vibrant forward-thinking aspect of our economy in which all Canadians can take pride.

"National Home Week this year will not only be the evidence of these accomplishments but it will demonstrate the preparation to meet the increased demands that will be placed on the industry to meet the needs of our expanding population.

"This year the federal government will again make direct loans to merchant builders participating in the winter house-building program to encourage and foster the expansion and development of the industry.

"Loans of this nature in the past have played a major role in the evolution of the building industry from a seasonal basis to a year-round business, thus offering employment to thousands of Canadians who would otherwise be unemployed during the winter months.

"At the same time, it affords the industry the opportunity to build up a stable work force.

"The members of the National House Builders' Association are to be commended for their influential leadership to assure the continuing success of this program.

"It is of the utmost importance that industry and government work closely together in the task of improving the living and working conditions of every Canadian.

"In the past our combined efforts have been successful in producing a steady improvement in the quality of new housing accommodation, the development of building materials and the refinement of production techniques.

"For these reasons I am confident the house builders of Canada will meet the challenges of the future and continue to lead in the growth and development of living conditions in our country.

"In this great task I wish the industry every success."

National Home Week is sponsored annually by the National House Builders' Association.

NHBA president, Charles B. Campbell, of Hamilton, Ont., issued an invitation to all Canadians to take this opportunity to see the latest trends and values available in today's homes during this period when builders display their finest wares for public inspection.

THE WEEK'S WORK

By JACK BEASTALL

If narcissus bulbs and wallflowers are waiting to be planted, be ruthless with the summer bedding annuals.

Work over the area, incorporating more rotted compost and bonemeal before re-planting with bulbs.

Lift all frost tender plants from the open, putting them into a cool greenhouse under the benches, or a coldframe, according to their need for protection during winter.

Sloping beds and dry walls are best planted in fall, since the roots will spread in the well-drained soil during winter.

Take under cover a supply of screened compost, sand and peat moss for use during winter.

Soil should not be dust dry at any time or bacteria will be inactive, resulting in slow establishing of plants.

Rooted cuttings of hardy plants such as dianthus, iberis and other rock plants should be planted out at once.

Fork over between fruit bushes after picking fruit, except raspberries which have very shallow roots.

Daughter Will Love This Room

By PAULINE GRAVES

Your daughter will want her room to be gay, attractive and grown-up. You will want her to have all of that, so that she will love her room, be proud of it and keep it neat.

Here is a room that meets all requirements.

From both daughter's and mother's viewpoint, the bed is ideal.

It is "Grown-up" in that during the day it is a studio couch, good for loafing or reading.

Most young girls love canopy beds, but they do fill up a room.

The framework here gives the effect of a canopy, with two three-inch dowels on each side supporting a long box, or cornice, made of the same washable printed mattress ticking that covers the couch and bolster.

Whimsical pictures and colorful plaques fill the wallspace between bolster and cornice.

Built-in shelves and cupboards provide open and concealed storage along the end wall, with shelves above and below the windows.

Note that the lower shelf is dropped several inches below the sill so that most objects displayed there will be under the shutter's edge.

Base cabinets open into the room with doors that have molding for decoration.

The exception is the end space which needed a solid front panel next to the bed.

The storage is still there, however, accessible through a top opening.

GROWN-UP ROOM for a growing girl. Your daughter may still be a schoolgirl, but chances are she'll want a sophisticated room to herself. Here's an idea that provides just the right amount of sophistication while retaining the necessary young atmosphere.

NE'R THE TWAIN SHALL MEET

East Is East West Is West

By JACK BEASTALL

In an area such as the southern end of Vancouver Island where it's claimed more species and varieties of plants can be grown than anywhere else on the North American continent, there should be no difficulty finding suitable plants for any aspect and for practically all soils.

Jack

As a matter of fact, the difficulty is not in finding suitable plants, but rather in finding the gardener who will accept the plants most suited to the conditions that exist.

GARDENERS DIFFER

Invariably the gardener with a bare sun-drenched lot desires plants which will thrive only in partial shade, while the owner of a well-treed piece of property wants sunloving flowering plants to relieve the gloom.

It is useless to insist that trees and shrubs be planted in a garden that is mainly solid rock, especially when nature has never succeeded in producing anything more permanent than moss and annual grasses.

Often a gardener will see a planting in front of a friend's house that is so pleasing he wishes to duplicate it at home.

Providing both houses have the same aspect and the same architectural features the idea should be successful.

FACE EAST

Should the original planting face east and the projected duplicate be on a south facing lot, the same plants may not suit the aspect.

Many ornamental shrubs enjoy morning sun but are unable to withstand the greater heat of the afternoon sun plus the heat reflected from the wall that is behind them.

Another factor which needs consideration is the soil moisture required by the plants.

A bed which receives only morning sun never reaches the same soil temperature found in a bed exposed to full afternoon sun, and it is often impractical, if not impossible, to maintain enough soil moisture in the latter to suit plants that thrive in an easterly exposure.

There are plants which will stand the shade and wind-tunnel conditions that exist between the taller houses in the older districts, but these are not the spectacular types.

More often than not they are the tougher broad-leaved evergreens from which many gardeners recoil as soon as their names are mentioned, but a well-grown despised plant always looks better than a bedraggled specimen of a more choice type that clearly shows its disapproval of the conditions it is expected to tolerate.

A massive outcrop of rock is no proof that so-called rock plants can be grown to perfection.

COOL ROOT-RUN

Most plants in this class have ten times as much root as top growth and need a cool root-run that cannot be found in a pocket of soil two or three inches deep.

Only mosses and licorice-fern will survive in shallow soil.

Pockets 14 to 16 inches deep can be constructed with built-up rock, but adequate drainage must be included otherwise a pool of mud and water will result in winter.

Many of the plants listed for damp, shady places may be grown alone without boggy soil conditions as long as adequate watering is provided.

When grass fails to thrive beneath a well established tree it is quite likely that very few of the choicer plants will do any better.

Such areas are best devoted to one or more of the many ground covers which delight in such a location.

SET OUT BY HUNDREDS

Choice plants by the hundreds are set out every year in positions and conditions entirely foreign to their requirements, and rarely does the blame for failure fall in the right place.

When selecting plants there is wisdom in asking what can be grown in the given conditions rather than dogmatically stating that certain plants shall be grown regardless.

The man who grows plants and makes his living supplying them to gardeners has a priceless fund of information accumulated over the years which he is willing to share with those who seek his advice, and the gardener's pleasure and satisfaction will be greater when his advice is followed.

BRIDGE LESSON

By JACOBY and SON

Both Italy and America reached a difficult six-diamond contract on board 43 of the International Match. That is, it was difficult to bid, but the contract was sound and would have made with reasonable breaks.

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
4 N.T.	Pass	5 ♥	Pass
6 ♦	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead—♠ 2.

The American bidding is shown in the box. North's jump to three diamonds was a force to game. South took control and, after North showed one ace, South contracted for the slam.

West opened the deuce of spades. Had South been sure that this was a singleton lead he could have made six diamonds in spite of the bad spade break, but South decided to play West for at least one more spade. So he ruffed a low spade with the eight of diamonds at trick two. West overruffed and led out his ace of hearts to collect a 50-point penalty.

At the other table the Italian bidding was extremely complicated but the team did get to the six-diamond contract and might well have made it because the American West opened the ace of hearts and continued the suit.

After that lead it would have been fairly easy for South to make the contract, but he only drew one round of trumps before going after spades and West also made his trump jack. Six diamonds can be made against the deuce of spades lead but, as stated above, it would require exact knowledge of where all the cards are.

SWEEPING VIEW
PARKLIKE GARDEN
LANSDOWNE SLOPE

This beautiful 12-year-old home is offered for the first time and is immaculate. The lovely, large living room looks out to the Olympics and sea over our lovely city. There is a formal dining room which looks over a garden that is Empress-like, with complete seclusion afforded by hedges, trees and shrubs of many varieties. This is a Prairie-man's paradise, believe me, and you should see the rose garden. The large room in the basement has a fireplace and is suitable for a spare bedroom or family room, and the remainder of the basement is spotlessly clean. Only $22,500.

I APOLOGIZE

to the lady who said she was looking for a modern stucco bungalow with three bedrooms, oil package heating, basement and drive-in garage, under five years old, under $12,000. I couldn't help it. I LAUGHED. Then today, I came across a well-located home of this description being offered for sale for—you guessed it—under $12,000. Wouldn't it be funny if the person who capitalizes on this entire situation turned out to be YOU?

TOBACCO KING:

Non-Whites Still Unfit To Govern

VANCOUVER (CP)—A South African said Wednesday those who would criticize his country's racial policies had best make sure that their own houses are in order.

Sir Francis de Guigand, chairman of Rothmans of Pall Mall Ltd. (London), said in an interview double standards apply when some people criticize South Africa.

He cited the recent race riots in Los Angeles and added:

"In my travels I see what happens in other parts of the world and I was shocked at what I saw in the southern United States."

Sir Francis was chief of staff to Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery during the Second World War. He helped mastermind major landings in the war, including the Normandy invasion. He is author of several books.

He has been a resident of South Africa for the last 18 years.

Sir Francis said if universal franchise was granted in South Africa, "the non-whites would take over the country and chaos would result, just as in the Congo."

The non-whites were unfit to operate a highly advanced and technical economy.

But the South African native was no worse off than those of some of the newer African states who could only vote for one man or one party. They were better off economically than other Africans.

Sir Francis, here on Rothman's business, plans to spend a few days fishing.

U.K. May Never See What Nature Hoped

LONDON (UPI) — A British Broadcasting Corp. television film featuring two women clad in a G-string and two pieces of tape each may never be exposed to the nation's viewers.

Nude As Nature Intended was filmed for the new satire show BBC-3. It is intended as a take-off on the nude movies to be seen in the seamier movie houses about London.

"It was all rather a giggle," said Baryl Reid, one of the two stars.

"I was supposed to be the secretary of a nudist colony—rather prim, but with no clothes on.

"I started off full of inhibitions and wore a ski-tight corselet," she added. "When I saw everyone running around with nothing on, I took the corselet off."

"I think there will have to be some careful editing. They can't show everything they took."

A BBC spokesman emphasized no decision had been taken about showing the film. "We cannot say at this stage whether the film will be shown or not," the spokesman said.

"The producer has not seen it, and it hasn't yet been edited."

Sight unseen, the 15-minute film already has drawn strong fire from the Clean Up TV group, Whose secretary, Mrs. Mary Whitehouse, sent a telegram of protest to Sir Hugh Greene, director of the BBC.

She quoted the wire as saying: "In view of your position as interpreter of the BBC's duty to society we would ask you to take personal responsibility for seeing that the program does not offend against good taste and decency."

Shorthorn Expert Begins Work On Classifying Island Herds

They are being looked over by E. H. (Ab) Stoltz, executive secretary of Canadian Shorthorn Association of Guelph, Ont.

He is official classifier for Canada for the association and is visiting Vancouver Island this weekend on his first trip west of the Rockies.

Mr. Stoltz was invited to look over shorthorn herds by Vancouver Island Shorthorn Association.

His job is to inspect the cattle and to classify them for the official records of the association.

Classification will aid owners because it points up weak and good points in their herds and will aid their breeding programs.

Mr. Stoltz, who is also editor of the Shorthorn News, has classified about 5,000 shorthorns in Canada to date into triple A, double A, A and B categories.

There are less than one per cent in the top classification, about 25 per cent in double A, 50 per cent in A and about 10 per cent of the animals he inspects are regarded not good enough for continued breeding.

Immigration Bill Passes Final Test

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress gave swift final approval Thursday to the immigration reform bill. President Johnson announced he will sign it into law Sunday at the foot of the Statue of Liberty in New York harbor.

The president will be in New York Sunday and Monday to attend a United Nations dinner and to meet with Pope Paul. He added the Statue of Liberty trip to his plans late Thursday.

The measure, effective in 1968, carries out the central objective of the White House plan by wiping out the long-criticized national origins system. But it will add something new—a limit on western hemisphere immigration.

The administration was strongly against restricting immigration from Canada and the 22 Latin American countries but decided not to fight the amendment for fear of endangering passage of the full bill.

COUNTERPUNCH PACKS WALLOP

NEW YORK (UPI)—A freelance television director, allegedly punched in the jaw by a bodyguard for actor Richard Burton at the Lunt-Fontanne Theatre last year, has filed a $100,000 damage suit in connection with the backstage fracas.

Named in the suit filed by Joel Glickman were Burton, Bobby La Salle, who allegedly dislocated Glickman's jaw in the melee, the ABC Corp., and theatrical producer Alexander H. Cohen.

Legal Action Threatened By Ex-Dockyard Worker

A former employee of HMC Dockyard said today he will commence legal action if corruption charges he has made are not investigated within two weeks.

Clarence A. Billet, 404 Sherk Street, will ask the courts for reinstatement. He claims he was wrongfully dismissed more than two years ago.

Although Mr. Billet will ask for reinstatement he could not return to his old job of scraping and painting because he has since become disabled.

He would seek two years' back pay.

Mr. Billet said he brought up the corruption charges to "force the issue."

He made the charges Sept. 12 in a letter to associate minister of national defence Leo Cadieux.

Friday he received a reply from Cadieux's special assistant, Lt.-Col. E. A. Blais, which stated:

"Mr. Cadieux has ordered an investigation into the new allegations you have made.

"You will appreciate that this cannot be done overnight and I am sure that Mr. Cadieux will write to you again as soon as he has relevant information."

Mr. Billet said the letter is "just another stall" and nothing will be done.

RCMP inspector G. M. Mackay said they would not undertake any investigation of the corruption charges "until we are asked."

"It may be that the navy wants to do something about this," he said. "If they want us we will be called in due course."

SHIRLEY OF COLONY

MEN ARE WONDERFUL!

There's no doubt about it MEN ARE WONDERFUL. Just look at the average husband and father during the emotional upheaval and nervous strain of house hunting. If only his needs had to be considered, we would concentrate on blissful fishing cottages and miniature hunting lodges. But No! Society demands that not only must he relinquish his own dreams to provide adequate housing for his wife and children, but he has to put his shoulder to the wheel to pay for all the trimmings. We have all witnessed the over-tired, over-anxious man, going from home to home trying to find just the right house for his family, yet all the while wishing he could be on the 7th tee or at least watching Mickey Mantle. When at last the search is over what does our much maligned hero say: "It's up to the little woman . . . if this is the one she wants, I'll buy it for her." Although HOME HUNTING can be a tedious chore for the man at least it can be made as PAINLESS AS POSSIBLE when he and his wife call COLONY HOMESALES, 386-3231, Homesales "from the woman's point of view."

IT'S MAGIC YOU CAN DO

You may have seen a baffling egg trick performed on the stage by a professional magician. Here is a simple version of this trick, which you can do at a party without special apparatus.

Borrow a ladies' pocketbok, after telling the owner to remove all the contents. Let each person in your audience examine the pocketbok, to convince himself it is absolutely "ordinary" and that nothing is concealed in it. The pocketbok is then returned to you, you wave your magic wand over it, mutter "jabberwocky," then open the bag and produce a real egg. Yes, both hands have been shown empty before you begin.

The secret of how this is done is not palming, but a confederate. The last person in the audience who examines the pocketbook is your confederate. He or she has a real hard boiled egg concealed. When the pocketbook is examined, the egg is dropped into the bag.

STAMP CORNER

By REG. NAIRNE

Vol. II of the Scott catalogue for 1966, which lists the stamps of the world not covered by Vol. I (reviewed in this column recently) has followed close on the heels of the former publication, and it certainly does emphasize the present upward trend in the prices of the European countries most forcibly.

During the last war, and for years afterwards, Europe was in such a sorry state financially that holdings of rare postage stamps were sacrificed recklessly in the scramble for hard currency.

Now the position is reversed. Europe is booming, and collectors there are willing to pay what seem to be exhorbitant prices in order to get back their treasures.

These high prices are of certainly surprise those local collectors who confine their attentions to British Colonial issues!

PRICE CHANGES

By actual count (made by someone else, fortunately for the writer!) there are 74,470 price changes in this book—over 10,000 more than last year.

Many additions are to be noted. The Vichy issues of the French colonies are now listed, among others, and then there are, of course, the 3,066 new stamps that have been released during the last 12 months by the countries covered by his volume.

Swiss stamps, always popular in Europe, have made spectacular gains — for instance, the Lunaba miniature sheet of 1951 jumps from $27.50 to $100. The Naba sheet issued in 1934 has nearly trebled in value—from $11 to $28.

JAPAN AHEAD

Vatican City, Liechtenstein and Italy, all show substantial increases. Germany is another country whose issues go up consistently every year, there being no less than 3,732 price changes shown.

Among the Asiatic countries Japan continues to forge ahead. The 50th anniversary set of the P.O. issue, once sold for $1, is now listed at $47.

The first pair of air-mail stamps, available for a few cents when current, is now $80. (Look for forgeries of these!)

Another bargain, if one had only realized it, was the air-mail miniature sheet which you could have got in the old days for a couple of dollars. The new price is $125.

If you collect the countries covered by this fine new volume—or even just a few of them—it will soon pay for itself. And you can sell off your last year's edition at quite a good price into the bargain!

MATTER OF DEDUCTION

'Tis said that a taxidermist, a paleontologist and a numismatist met at their college club. They had brought three prized specimens from their collections and they exchanged articles, so that none had the same. When they left, the taxidermist had a medallion, the paleontologist a pelt, and the numismatist a fossil.

It should be easy for you to tell what article each of the three brought to the luncheon. No?

Answers: Paleontologist, fossil; numismatist, medallion; taxidermist, pelt.

COUNCIL WANTS 'BIG' PARTY

How Old Is a Pioneer?

DUNCAN—Native Indians will be included when the municipal centennial committee starts looking for pioneers to be honored during the 1967 celebrations.

The committee was unanimous on this score Thursday.

However, they split on the quesiton of whether to honor pioneers according to the length of time they had been in Canada or their time on Vancouver Island.

A vote showed in favor of the Island.

There was friendly disagreement on how old a pioneer must be.

Coun. Reg. Clegg quoted Victoria historian James K. Nesbitt as stating a "pioneer" must have been around since 1892.

Coun. George Whittaker said: "That would mean an awfully small party."

Reeve Donald Morton said the committee should choose on the basis of length of time in the district and not on a person's age.

Ram's Horn Will Sound Yom Kippur

A ram's horn will be sounded in Emanu-El Synagogue, Blanshard and Pandora, at sundown Tuesday.

It will signal the start of the annual Jewish festival of Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement. Dr. Henry Katz of New York will lead the 100-member synagogue as Victoria does not have a resident Rabbi.

The ram's horn was sounded in the synagogue last Sunday at sundown to usher in the Jewish New Year of 5,726.

Kairos' First Convention

Young people from the Victoria area will participate in the first annual convention of the B.C. Conference of Kairos at Lake Cowichan Oct. 8-11.

They will be among 150 young men and women aged from 16 to 25, who will be billeted in the Cowichan area over the Thanksgiving weekend.

Various group discussions will centre around the theme Faith In Life Dialogue, led by Rev. Marvin Fowler and Christian education director Rob Nelson of First United Church, Victoria.

"We are anxious to have an excellent registration from Victoria and Vancouver Island," says Miss Gwen Shortt, 2170 Brighton Avenue.

Would-be delegates are asked to contact her.

YOUNG OFFENDERS GET RIDE THROUGH STREETS

SONORA, Calif. (UPI)—A Superior Court judge announced Thursday a plan to publicly expose convicted teen-age offenders in an attempt to discourage juvenile delinquency.

Judge Ross A. Carkeet said convicted juveniles would be transported in an open truck through the streets of Sonora on Saturdays to labor details supervised by members of the sheriff's reserve.

His plan, a compromise measure approved by the board of supervisors, was developed since the county has no juvenile hall and youths must either be locked in jail or serve probation.

Town Rooting For Ship-Jumper

A town has gone to bat for ship-jumper Phillip Shankar.

When the 21-year-old Fiji Islander was hauled off to jail last week, the loggers at Gold River, on Vancouver Island's northwest coast, wasted no time campaigning for his release.

At Phillip's trial in Vancouver Friday — he is charged with illegally entering Canada — a lawyer was on hand to represent him.

The lawyer, Gordon Dowding, has been retained to defend Phillip by the Gold River branch of the IWA.

At the same time, Magistrate Gerald Levey, was handed a petition signed by 150 Gold River residents. He was also shown three bundles of individual letters appealing for Phillip to stay in Canada.

Phillip told the court he left Fiji because he was "fed up sleeping under a banana tree."

He said he wanted to go to a vigorous country to work.

After jumping ship in Victoria in 1963 he hiked to Gold River where he signed up as Francis Solomon, a second rigger.

"We've always known him by that name," said Tahsis Co. personnel manager Daryl Moraes today.

"He's been a good citizen and everyone here is rooting for him." Mr. Moraes was one of the men who signed the petition.

Meanwhile, Phillip is being held in custody under the Immigration Act. Mr. Dowding will appeal to the Supreme Court Tuesday for his release on bail.

THIEVES GET 2.000 STAMPS, ALSO GUNS

SHAWNIGAN LAKE—Oldtime hunter William Gibbs, 77, has been robbed of his arsenal.

His Sylvester Road home was broken into recently while he was ill and convalescing at a neighbor's house.

Stolen was a double-barreled shotgun, a .30-30 Winchester rifle, a .22 Savage semi-automatic repeater rifle and a stamp collection.

The collection of more than 2,000 stamps was Mr. Gibbs' most treasured possession.

RCMP are investigating the theft.

Liberals Name Ex-Roughrider

MOOSE JAW (CP) — Bill Clarke, 33, of Regina, a former football player with Saskatchewan Roughriders, was nominated Thursday as Liberal candidate in Moose Jaw-Lake Centre in the Nov. 8 federal election.

Already nominated in the constituency are J. Ernest Pascoe, who won the seat in 1963 for the Progressive Conservatives, and Ken Fowler of the New Democratic party.

Hunter Jailed Two Months For Beer Theft

GANGES — Norman Derksen, 24, of Ganges was sentenced two months in jail when he pleaded guilty in magistrate's court here to breaking, entering and stealing 14 cases of beer.

The offence took place at the Harbor House Hotel here. Derksen was also placed on probation two years.

Earlier in the day he was charged with using a rifle without care for the safety of others. He was fined $50 with the alternative of 14 days in jail.

His rifle was confiscated and his hunting licence cancelled for one year.

Derksen said he went hunting with friends after a drinking party, lost his way, and fired the rifle to attract attention.

Indonesia Rebels Fight in Streets

All-Out Civil War Threatens

JAKARTA (UPI) — Fighting broke out today in the streets of Jakarta between troops loyal to President Sukarno and leftist rebel forces seeking to overthrow him and seize control of this sprawling island republic of 100 million people.

(A broadcast heard in Singapore said loyal troops rushed into Jakarta appeared to have tipped the balance in Sukarno's favor. But it warned the situation appeared to have grown worse and there were fears of large-scale civil war.)

SINGAPORE (Reuters)— Jakarta radio tonight broadcast a statement by Indonesian President Sukarno saying he had taken over-all leadership of the army.

The statement, which appeared to be in his own voice, appealed to the people for calm and his ministers to carry on.

As the third day of the uncertain struggle for power drew to a close, there was no clue to the fate of Sukarno.

Jakarta radio, held by Sukarno's supporters, repeatedly declared he and defence minster Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution were in "safe hands."

But there has been no direct word from either Sukarno or Nasution since the revolutionary group, which the army said Friday was "Communist inspired," struck suddenly last Thursday.

LOYAL FORCES

An army broadcast last night said loyal forces had crushed the revolutionary "30th of September movement" headed by a presidential guard officer, Lt. Col. Untung.

But shooting erupted this morning and the army-controlled Jakarta radio declared a state of war in the capital and ordered a dusk-to-dawn curfew.

A statement denied reports the air force was involved in the rebel movement headed by Untung. But it did not mention what had become of air force commander vice marshal Omar Dani, who had been listed among Untung's supporters.

POST INVADED BY CHINESE

NEW DELHI (UPI)—The Indian defence ministry said about 20 Chinese Communist troops invaded the Himalayan kingdom of Sikkim today and opened fire on a three-man Indian observation post "well inside" Indian territory. The Indians returned the fire.

It was the first exchange of fire since Chinese troops were reported withdrawing from the mountain border areas where they said the Indians had destroyed military installations Peking claimed were built on Chinese territory.

11 Killed By Bombs In Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — Two terrorist bomb explosions, hours apart, killed 11 Vietnamese in Saigon today and wounded 42 others including two Americans.

The first bomb went off at noon at the base of a steel utility pole near the Cong Hoa National Stadium, a training centre for Vietnamese police officers. Four children and five police officers were killed and 32 persons wounded.

A taxi loaded with a bomb exploded in front of a Saigon theatre and near three American military billets tonight, killing two Vietnamese and wounding 10 other people, including the Americans.

U.S. military police said the bomb was under the rear seat of the small taxi and apparently exploded prematurely about 100 yards from a U.S. navy hospital.

The terrorists were presumed to be Viet Cong agents and the main target the Vietnamese police.

The explosion went off just outside a stadium where policemen had been training. Terrorists have made several other attacks on the police in recent weeks.

The four children killed were between the ages of 12 and 17. Three of the children were going by on bicycles when the mine exploded from the base of a steel utility pole.

Police said the type of mine used usually is filled with steel pellets and can be aimed in any direction.

A second mine was found at the scene but did not explode.

New York Set To Meet Pope

NEW YORK (CP)—Pope Paul arrives here Monday on an unprecedented peace mission and the United Nations is all set to welcome the first pontiff ever to pay a visit to the Western Hemisphere.

Although the primary purpose of the Pope's visit is to address the world organization at a time of conflict in Viet Nam and Kashmir, the pontiff has accepted other engagements during his heavy one-day schedule in New York.

(See also page 25.)

The massive turnout of people expected along the route Pope Paul will take to UN headquarters and later to Yankee Stadium, where he will celebrate mass, has posed numerous problems to New York City police and UN security officials.

Police Commissioner Vincent Broderick, head of the city's 26,000-man force, said 18,000 policemen have been assigned for duty during the 14-hour visit, which includes a meeting between the Pope and President Johnson.

WORK FOR PEACE

The pontiff said in Vatican City that he accepted an invitation by UN Secretary-General U Thant to address the UN General Assembly because he feels it is his duty to "omit no effort" that might promote world peace.

Plans call for U Thant to lead a distinguished group of international officials and church dignitaries in welcoming the Pope when he arrives on a commercial airliner from Rome after a flight that will take it over part of Canada.

The pontiff will enter an open limousine for a motorcade to St. Patrick's Cathedral, where he will kneel in a brief prayer of thanksgiving for a safe journey.

From the cathedral, Pope Paul will rejoin the motorcade to the Waldorf Astroia Hotel for his meeting with Johnson, prior to his visit to the United Nations.

The papal party will arrive at 3:15 p.m. EDT at the UN General Assembly building, which will be closed to the public Monday. He will enter the building through "the Canadian doors"—

Lemay Aim Mexico?

HOUSTON (AP)—U.S. immigration officers and agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Texas have been warned to be on the lookout for Canadian Georges Lemay, escapee from a Florida jail, and two other persons, one of them Lemay's wife.

An immigration service spokesman there, Francis Quebodeaux, said it was feared Lemay, one of North America's most-wanted men, and his companions may attempt to enter Mexico.

. . . eyed in private

TOKYO (AP)—A blackmail letter demanding 1,000,000 yen ($2,800) for negatives of sneak photographs taken of Princess Yasuko, 21, was received Sept. 5 by her mother, Princess Yuriko Mikasa, police said today.

The princess and her parents are expected to return to Tokyo Oct. 4 from a world tour. They now are visiting Canada and were scheduled to arrive in Vancouver today.

Prince Mikasa is Emperor Hirohito's youngest brother. Princess Yasuko's engagement was recently announced.

Police said the letter claimed the photographs were taken of Princess Yasuko's private life through the window of her summer residence at Karuizawa, a mountain resort 100 miles north of Tokyo.

GUEVARA OUSTED IN CUBA

HAVANA (Reuters) — Top Cuban revolutionary leader Ernesto Che Guevara was dropped today from leadership of the Cuban United Socialist Revolutionary party.

The name of the Argentine-born Communist, who disappeared from the public scene six months ago, was omitted from the list of the 100-member central committee, which today replaced a 25-member national directorate as the party's supreme body.

Guevara, considered the third most important man in Cuba after Premier Fidel Castro and his brother Raul, often was thought to have been the brains behind the Cuba revolution.

3-MONTH TOUR

His last important official function was to represent Cuba at the United Nations last December, after which he undertook a three-month African and Asian tour.

He was welcomed home by Castro himself and then disappeared from the public scene.

Four days ago, Castro said he would read a document from Guevara explaining his absence during recent months.

Many rumors have circulated about Guevara. Some said he was abroad, ill, or engaged in special work in Cuba and others that he had had ideological differences with Castro.

Nobody, But Nobody Seeks Nominations

VANCOUVER (CP)—There were only two things missing at a nominating meeting here Friday night—guest speakers and prospective candidates.

The meeting had been called by Social Credit to nominate federal election candidates in Vancouver Burrard and Vancouver Quadra.

Emil Shafer, president of the Quadra constituency association, said candidates expected to run had not turned up.

"We could have got candidates right there at the meeting but we have certain key people in mind who were unable to be there."

The guest speakers were to be Attorney-General Bonner and Trade Minister Loffmark. But the ministers were in Ottawa promoting British Columbia's 1967 International Trade Fair.

The audience of 50 agreed to have another meeting at a later date.

Dief Pushes Unity Appeal

By IAN MacDONALD
Times Ottawa Bureau

TORONTO — Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker made an emotional appeal to Canadians Friday night to unite behind him for the sake of national unity.

The Tory chief urged the people to turn their backs on the Liberals and put Canada back "on the high road again to national greatness and unity."

He made his appeal before an overflow-crowd of some 7,000 chanting, cheering people in Toronto's Varsity Arena.

About another 1,000 unable to get in stood outside and listened to the meeting over loudspeakers.

Tories came in busloads from various parts of the province for the rally.

It was Diefenbaker's most enthusiastic reception, since the election began, and he reacted to it.

He had the backing of a solid show of Tory strength and party unity.

Diefenbaker was flanked on the stage by the Conservative premiers of Ontario, Manitoba, and Nova Scotia.

Before he spoke he heard the crowd cheering the statements of Theo Ricard, the Conservative Quebec leader, that his people are Canadians first and want to remain Canadians.

HIT SCANDALS

He raked the Liberal administration for scandals and disruption of unity, and touched only briefly on the Tory platform.

"I am not going into policy at this hour," he said.

BID FOR CUT IN CAR PRICE TIED TO VOTE

WINDSOR (CP)—Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said today he expects the federal government is trying to bring about lower automobile prices before the Nov. 8 federal election.

"I would think that the powers that be, the Drurys and the Gordons, would be exercising that interest at the moment that might achieve the objective of reduced prices," he told a press conference in this major motor vehicle manufacturing centre.

Mr. Diefenbaker, who has accused the Pearson government of ignoring the interests of consumers when it entered the Canada-U.S. auto trade agreement, said earlier in the campaign he would not be surprised if prices went down before voting day.

FIRST NEGRO BISHOP for the United States is Msgr. Harold Robert Perry, who has been named by Pope Paul VI as auxiliary bishop of New Orleans, it was announced today.

B-A GIVES NO FIGURES

TORONTO (CP) — British American Oil Co. Ltd. net earnings in the nine months ended Sept. 30 will be about the same as in the comparable 1964 period, president Charles Hay says in an interim report to shareholders.

He gave no figures.

"Subject to any adverse effect of the current strike, it is anticipated that there will be a further improvement in earnings in the fourth quarter," he says. "These gains will be offset to some degree by higher income tax."

to avoid the storms that risk loss of investment capital. The mortgage investment already provides a substantial hedge against loss.

Take for example the $5000 Mortgage on a $10,000 property . . . it would take quite a drop in values to effect even one dollar's loss on the investment.

Think about it . . . and it may turn out that an investment in a mortgage, or a mortgage company, will provide the worry-free investment you are looking for.

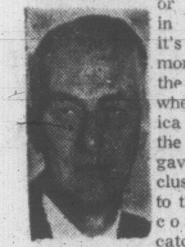
Arthur Mayse

Our big neighbor below the border, a noisy fellow with heart of gold, easily-bruised feelings and a dismaying penchant for skidding on such scatter-rugs as Cuba and the Dominican Republic, now seems to be discovering modest little us.



I suppose he had to sooner or later, and in one way, it's nice to be more than just the place where America (and, by the way, who gave him exclusive rights to the name?) comes to catch our fish and shoot our larger fauna.

But there are times, and they grow more frequent, when I wish we could go back to being the Great North Woods, populated almost exclusively by McGregors and Jean-Baptistes, with Rose Marie carolling here, and a redcoat tall in the saddle yonder.

I'm afraid though, that those days are over. The United States, in recent weeks, has shown disturbing signs of taking us seriously.

You're familiar with 'Viewpoint,' the 10-minute slice of opinion which the CBC sandwiches between national and regional news?

Just a couple of nights ago, Viewpoint's zoo-keeper herded from the pen where they keep the pundits a more than usually impressive specimen.

This man, identified as an American, felt his people should know much more about Canada and Canadians than they now do. He advocated an exchange of students, and deprecated the fact that few U.S. universities offer courses on Canada.

That kind of attention is at worst harmless, and at best may finally clarify for the Californians our relationship with Britain and the Crown.

More dubious, however, are certain other manifestations of awakened interest observed in recent months.

One was the Heeney-Merchant report, an international effort styled 'a dialogue between friends,' and aimed at promoting a better understanding between Canadians and Americans.

It was suggested therein that we refrain from criticizing U.S. foreign policy in matters that didn't directly concern us.

Telling us to mind our own business, huh? And in matters that must inevitably involve us, whether we will or no? We reacted, coast-to-coast, with a yowl like a stepped-on cat.

Then again this week, our neighbor took notice of us, with a couple of jabs that rankle.

Our respective countries, as you know, are working on a plan to integrate the North American automobile industry. This venture has brought us hard words from a pair of United States senators.

One accused us of trying to grab jobs away from Americans. Another reproached us on the grounds that we take the United States' protective military might for granted.

Personally, I worry quite a bit about America's protective military might, especially since the Dominican episode.

As for the job-snitching charge, as long as U.S. industry manages to preserve a $500 million trade surplus in cars and parts, a figure guaranteed by the automotive pact, such inroads as we might make shouldn't be unduly damaging.

One mustn't be reactionary; but I can't help remembering how much easier life was before neighbor Sam interpreted our struggle to stand on our own feet as an affront . . . when he came up here to collect a set of moose horns or to see the Dionne quints . . . and between-times forgot all about us.

OTTAWA TO SHARE BREAKWATER COST

The federal government today announced it will pay 60 per cent of a new breakwater at Kinver Beach, Esquimalt.

The $50,000 breakwater is due for completion in the next month.

Said Victoria Liberal MP in the last Parliament, David Groos, today:

"This is something we (himself and Esquimalt municipality) have been working on together for more than a year.

"But we could get no decision until the federal government decided its new policy covering marinas, breakwaters and dredging of harbors which was announced last month."

The new policy makes federal aid available in cases where the work will promote tourism or otherwise prove economically worthwhile.

Mr. Groos said he believed there were other sites in Victoria which may qualify for federal support.

In particular, the new launching ramps near Victoria Machinery Depot which were recently built by James Bay Anglers' Association.

The remaining cost would have to be paid by the city.

At present the ramps are exposed to the open water, making them virtually inaccessible during bad weather.

In addition, deadheads and other debris washed up by the tide, hamper launching operations.

OFF TO MANITOBA Oct. 15 is B.C.'s assistant deputy minister of finance, William F. Veitch. Mr. Veitch will assume duties as Manitoba's deputy provincial treasurer. For the second time in his life he will be stepping into a spot vacated by Ron Burns, who left Mr. Veitch's present post for the deputy minister's job in Manitoba and is now leaving to accept an appointment at Queen's University

'Civil Service Must Have Strike Rights'

LATE, LATE WESTERN STAGED IN SAANICH

Somebody was shooting up Saanich Friday night.

Police first received a call from a resident near the Tillicum Outdoor Theatre who heard four or five shots around 8:30 p.m.

At 1:45 a.m. today, Mrs. P. E. Griffiths, 3942 Cedar Hill Cross Road, reported someone was firing shots in the area.

Five minutes later, Ken Toby, 1551 Mount Douglas Cross Road, reported 14 or 15 shots from what he believed to be an automatic rifle.

And still 10 minutes later a resident at 726 Canterbury reported shots from the vicinity of Rainbow Park.

Police searched all areas without results.

Federal Staff Head Outlines Legislation

Federal civil servants must have the right to strike when collective bargaining is introduced, one of their leaders told provincial government workers here.

Claude Edwards, president of the 80,000-member Civil Service Federation of Canada, said legislation being prepared by the federal government must not rule out strikes.

He was addressing more than 80 delegates to the B.C. Government Employees Association annual convention at the Empress Hotel.

Mr. Edwards said the preparatory committee looking into bargaining rights for federal civil servants made no recommendation for a "no strike" clause in the proposed legislation.

Although the proposed process hinged on compulsory arbitration "the process did not specifically outlaw strikes by legislation nor did it propose any penalties for strike action."

But, he added, it may well be that the recent postal strike will cause changes.

"We hope not," he said.

Although the federation was prepared to accept compulsory arbitration, it did not believe legislation should specifically deprive employees from rights applicable to almost everyone else.

ULTIMATE WEAPON

"To specifically legislate against strike action could effectively rule out the ultimate weapon an employee organization has in dealing with irresponsible management," he said.

Such management could, through Parliamentary process, effectively deny awards granted by impartial arbitration.

Mr. Edwards said "without a doubt" the transition from consultation to collective bargaining will impose strains on both sides.

While the proposed legislation was obviously not satisfactory to everyone, it was "a very great step forward" in the public service.

B.C. Workers Re-Elect Dave Lyttle

Dave Lyttle of Victoria was re-elected unanimously this morning for a second term as president of the 8,000-member B.C. Government Employees' Association.

Also re-elected at the association's convention in the Empress Hotel were first vice-president Alex McEwen of Oakalla branch, second vice-president Norman Richards of Victoria and treasurer G. F. Boyd of Vancouver-New Westminster.

The post of secretary, held by E. P. O'Connor every year since 1944, is not elected but appointed by the executive.

RETRAINING

The two-day convention drew to a close with consideration of the last resolutions before the more than 80 delegates.

One of the resolutions approved called on the provincial and federal governments to set up job retraining programs for workers displaced by automation in offices and factories.

The resolution said men and women who have spent most of their life in this same kind of work are being replaced by the ever increasing use of automated equipment.

The convention also agreed that the cost of retraining programs be at the expense of employers "as they stand to gain in every phase of this type of progress."

The association, affiliated with the Canadian Labor Congress, has 1,500 members in Greater Victoria.

'Canned Food Tastes the Same . . . I Like It,' Says Tokyo Miss

By BOB DONAHUE

Being a student in a foreign country is not without its problems — or rewards, as six students at the University of Victoria this year have discovered.

There is Maria Luisa Sottovia, a 29-year-old law graduate from Santiago, Chile, whose clothing was lost en route to Victoria.

Her reward came when Uvic students rallied in a clothing drive to outfit her from top to bottom. The luggage has still not arrived.

TASTES SAME

"I like it," she says, "because it tastes the same every day."

And there is Eudorah Alice Bodo, a 23-year-old arts and science student from Kenya whose face and stature mirrors the pride of her race.

She hasn't had time to get used to Canada yet, but she likes what she has seen so far

"The Canadian people are are so friendly," says Richard Ochillo, 22, also of Kenya. "They are always smiling, perhaps because they are different. I don't know."

Richard feels Canadian students are very fortunate because of the easy access to higher education. "There is only one university in Kenya, at Nairobi and it is defficult to get in."

Paul Pius Atalee, from Mutanda, Kenya, is a scholarly 21-year-old who is anxious to get his education so he can return to Africa to teach in a secondary school.

Another foreign student who will be at the University of Victoria for this term is Yutaka Shinoda, 23, who previously attended Keio University, Tokyo.

The African students were brought here through Uvic's African Student Fund and an unusual aspect of the program is that funds for their support will be raised during the four-year course of studies.

Many Canadian universities are interested in this unique approach.

All fees have been waived by the university and living expenses, about $1,200 each year are covered by funds raised through the Alma Mater Society in the case of the non-African students.

Douglas Only Leader City-Bound

Prime Minister Pearson likely won't visit Victoria in the election campaign, a party spokesman said this morning.

The Liberal leader is expected to make a major speech in Vancouver and "if he comes to Victoria it will be a very quick trip."

The party spokesman pointed out Mr. Pearson was here recently on a private visit. The time he can spend on an election campaign is limited because he still is prime minister, he said.

DOUGLAS ON OCT. 28

The only party leader who at this moment has lined up a Victoria meeting is T. C. Douglas of the New Democratic Party.

He will speak at 8 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 28, in the Royal Theatre.

And coming to Victoria Monday to arrange details of the rally is George Home, the director of political education for the Canadian Labor Congress.

A spokesman for the Progressive Conservative party said leader John Diefenbaker is expected to speak here in mid-October but plans have not been discussed.

Day Early For Tricks

Trick-or-Treat night's going to be a day early this year.

Instead of being held on the traditional Oct. 31—a Sunday—Halloween will be celebrated the day before.

Although there is no law against trick-or-treating on Sunday, in the past it has always been brought forward a day.

Last time this happened was 1954.

In 1960 the problem was solved by leap year, which jumped Oct. 31 from Saturday to Monday.

BUS TOURS FULL

Historic Buildings Draw Large Crowds

Victorians are ready and anxious to view their historic buildings.

Bus tours of these buildings, started last Saturday, have proved so successful, there is still a long waiting list, it was revealed at a meeting of Greater Victoria Historic Buildings Trust Friday.

The trust organized two tours last Saturday. Two were in operation today—and two more will take place Sunday.

BUSES CROWDED

Double-decker buses, with a seating capacity of 54 up and down, are used. They were crowded to capacity last Saturday and all seats are booked for today and Sunday.

"There is still a long waiting list but we cannot take any more this year," president Dr. Hugh Borsman reported, "as the double-decker buses are going out of service for this season."

Victoria historians James K. Nesbitt and Peter Cotton gave commentaries on the buildings visited and, at the conclusion of each tour, viewers were entertained to tea at Greater Victoria Art Gallery.

It is hoped that the tours will be resumed next summer, but no definite decision was reached at Friday's meeting.

Major Cuthbert Holmes was elected chairman of the board of trustees, with Douglas Abbott as vice-chairman.

Four Navy Ships Welcomed Home

Securing at HMC Dockyard naval base were HMC Ships St. Croix, Saskatchewan, Mackenzie, and Beacon Hill.

The four ships have been on a month-long training cruise which took them to San Diego, Calif.

Oak Bay Official Named Vice-President

He and municipal works engineer Geoffrey White attended a meeting of the group in Penticton last month.

'WILFUL DISREGARD FOR LAW'

Driver Suspended for Three Years

David Paul, 7306 West Saanich Rd., today in city police court was fined $500 for driving under suspension and leaving an accident scene.

Paul pleaded guilty at an earlier court appearance.

Evidence was he hit a car parked in the Ingraham Hotel lot and his vehicle was later found by police in the parking lot of the Tally-Ho.

His "wilful disobedience and disregard for the law" also prompted Magistrate William Ostler to suspend him from driving in Canada for three years.

"The astonishing thing is you are a good family man, employed and occupy a good position in your band," he told him.

A man who didn't know where he was or in what direction he was travelling was fined $350 in Esquimalt court for impaired driving.

Robert E. Hotchin, 360 Gorge Rd. West, pleaded guilty.

Court was told he had no idea how he managed to roll his auto early this morning at the intersection of Lampson and Rockheights.

The car received an estimated $250 damage.

A breath test conducted on the accused revealed his blood contained .25 per cent alcohol.

He was stopped Aug. 31 while going north on Wharf Street, Aug. 31, and caught in a routine police check Sept. 1 on Esquimalt Road.

Magistrate Ostler termed his acts "quite incomprehensible."

Barry John Foster, 18, of 976 Dunsmuir, pleaded guilty to trespassing by night.

He was caught by police early this morning looking in the basement window of Mr. and Mrs. William Klingle, 762 Hutchinson Street.

When apprehended the accused became "quite violent" court was told.

Foster was remanded to Oct. 8 for sentence.

C. Saanich Adds to Park

Central Saanich council has agreed to purchase 7.63 acres of property to add to its Centennial Park on Wallace Drive.

Purchase price is $7,500.

The proposed new parkland lies west of the park. Part of the property is separated by Holm Road.

With a view to joining the two areas, council will investigate the possible closure of Holm Road from Hovey to White Roads.

NOT EXACTLY a stairway to paradise, but entrance to restaurant on stilts will lead to gastronomic delights and mezzanine view across Centennial Square and fountain. Unusual set of steps is positioned to least detract from view into the civic square. Critics suggest stairs will discourage patrons and should be supplemented by easy ramp.

By HAL MALONE

FIRST RACE: It's been a long, dry summer for this bunch but we expect the drought might end here for Lee's Time. Off her excellent race to Actella, she could lead these home if Ventrella can keep her in on the turns. Kelly Joe appears the only other pace but from the outside she's no bargain. If the leaders tire the improving Fishermaid could grab the bacon. Of the eligibles Pascanna might consume this lot. She's been in over her head and shown fine promise . . . PASCANNA (Lee's Time, Fishermaid).

SECOND RACE: After drawing bad posts twice (and still showing fair horsepower) Wallys Gem finally lands on the inside. Shields should be able to lay fairly close early and take over when he's ready. We look for Magic Eve and Golden Empress to lead them a ways. Avons Jr. is an interesting proposition at a price. If Gisebricht can get good position the first half he could loom dangerously in the stretch . . . WALLY'S GEM (Avons Jr.)

THIRD RACE: The way Green Again has been running it looks like the only way the're going to stop him is with a gun. He meets real speed today in Mil Easy who likes to barrel away from the barrier, preferably unaccompanied. Waraway should benefit from the fast fractions. Will Roll comes from the clouds and will have to if the speed duel materializes. Of much interest will be the Elliott-Phillips' strategy. If they snug in behind Mil Easy that could be it. If they elect to run with her it will be strictly a question of the survival of the fittest . . . GREEN AGAIN (Mil Easy).

FOURTH RACE: He hasn't had a spectacular season but No Soap may be able to draw away. Milne is an alert gateboy and there's no speed to speak of inside him. Colinda couldn't make it with a better post and may have trouble getting good position. Whaang Leather is overdue and the spot certainly isn't too difficult. They're switching riders on Totem Miss here and while we don't want to take anything away from Milne, Shields might fit the mare better. Cor Asia is sharp but has been going a distance and doesn't seem to be the easiest horse to handle. If Loodani draws in, he could get on the board . . . TOTEM MISS (No Soap).

FIFTH RACE: There should be one doozer of a traffic jam at the first turn here. Cherys Pet, Power Tip and Ardorin all like to get the bit in their bicuspids and go-go. The first two tend, however, to develop faint hearts if molested. Ardorin hasn't been to the races since Aug. 19 but she has two highly impressive works under her and if she runs to them, that could mean bye-bye. Orange Result will appreciate the speed duel and if they all get the staggers and Cormack finds an opening he could surprise them . . . ARDORIN (Orange Result).

SIXTH RACE: He's never been known as a marathoner but Pils Friday, weight and all, might fool them here. He's tight, has speed and it appears that he can be rated. If Combs sets up a false pace, the chargers might have difficulty. Constone also likes to cavort fairly close up. Why Him seems to like this racket and wasn't beaten very much the other day. Gay Bond gets a better post but seems to lack the winning kick. Hawksboro rarely puts two good ones together but the distance won't stop him. Chekaj Chekaj will probably be the post favorite and his class should carry him home . . . CHEKAJ CHEKAJ (Pils Friday).

SEVENTH RACE: Frankly, we never considered Permano to be anything but a sprinter and were as surprised as anybody when he not only stayed with Shock Troop but pulled away. Permano picks up four pounds today (he received five from Shock Troop in the Derby trial) but his manner was very impressive. Track Record gets off a brilliant race occasionally and should get on the board. Peaceful Nite has a look with these and the Alberta filly, Bell's Sheila, should improve off her last try . . . PERMANO (Shock Troop).

EIGHTH RACE: They are switching riders all over the place here, and while we don't normally put too much emphasis on changes, they could be a factor today. Nevercot has been backing up, but under Marsh, could make it interesting. Buberiou gets Broomfield, and if he hadn't been forced to take the outside in his last might have taken it. Trejos switches from Miss Orb to Lloyter and may be the one they have to beat. The one we fancy, though, is Gulf Island. He was full of gallop in his list but had no room to breathe in the lane. In a grab-bag. — GULF ISLAND (Lloyter).

Polish Official Dies

LONDON (AP) — Oscar Lange, 61, Poland's deputy premier and chief economic planner, died in Westminster Hospital today after treatment of several weeks for an undisclosed illness.

'Sit Down' For Two Days To Get Results

More than 80 delegates to the annual convention of the B.C. Government Employees Association repeated demands Friday for collective bargaining rights and dues checkoff.

The delegates also passed a resolution calling on the executive of the 8,000-member group to make representations to the government for a 30-hour week with no reduction in pay, to create more jobs.

The resolutions were submitted by the Oakalla local of the Canadian Labour Congress-affiliated union.

It was pointed out that bargaining rights have been extended to government workers in Quebec, Manitoba and Alberta in the last few months.

For many years Saskatchewan government workers have also enjoyed collective bargaining.

But all the B.C. government workers can do is make representation to the Civil Service Commission.

'QUICK WAY'

One delegate said there is a quick way to gain the same rights as employees of private companies enjoy under the Labor Relations Act.

"Go home and sit down for two days," said E. L. Scott of Penticton.

"What are we supposed to do, crawl to them and lick their boots? We're the only organized body in Canada that hasn't got the checkoff."

Deduction of union dues by the government was stopped by the government in 1960, after a brief strike the previous year which was ended by injunction. Dues now are paid voluntary.

"This is our lifeblood," said Alex McEwan of Oakalla. "We want barginining rights and dues checkoff and we will no longer accept excuses.

"I don't want to see delegates passively voting for this resolution. I want to see them stirred up."

The two-day convention at the Empress Hotel ended today.

Social Credit Nomination Last In Area

The last nomination meeting on Southern Vancouver Island will be held Monday night when Esquimalt-Saanich Social Credit members pick their candidate.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in the Lake Hill Women's Institute. No one has declared himself for the candidacy so far.

With this exception, all the expected candidates in the Nov. 8 federal election have been picked in Victoria and Esquimalt-Saanich constituencies.

Here is the lineup:

Victoria — David Groos, Liberal; Rev. Clifford Waite, Progressive Conservative; Lloyd Brereton, New Democrat; Frank Hunter, Social Credit; W. S. E. Morrison, Communist.

Tough Fight For Woman

TORONTO (CP) — Martha Brewin, 23-year-old daughter of Andrew Brewin, the New Democratic Party member for Toronto Greenwood in the last Parliament, was nominated Friday night to contest York West riding for the NDP in the Nov. 8 general election.

Miss Brewin, the youngest political aspirant in Toronto, will have tough opposition, running against her are former Liberal cabinet minister Robert Winters and George Hogan, secretary of the Ontario Progressive Conseravtive Association.

frequently failed to carry to the stage.

"I want you to get home before morning, replied Diefenbaker as his partisan supporters yelled and waved placards.

He kept his main appeal to the end of his speech.

Said the 70-year-old leader:

"To the service of our country I have given the full span of my years and I would like to hope, and hope you will believe me, that whatever the errors that were committed or the shortcomings, the years have not been unworthy.

ALL CANADIANS

"I am going to make an appeal to the conscience of this nation, not just to Conservatives, but to all Canadians.

"This nation has not come to a place of greatness without heavy accountability to history; to answer that accountability, to be worthy of those who began our days at a nation, I ask you to join so that each of us, humbly and with God's help, in the years to come may be worthy of the land which in days long gone by so many gave so much, and that we as Canadians will turn our back on the two years of the present administration which has torn our country asunder," Diefenbaker said.

He said the Conservatives wanted the opportunity to work for the dreams of the founding fathers.

Turning briefly to Tory policy, Diefenbaker repeated his promises of increased aid to higher education and to research.

He referred to his plans for a constitutional conference.

"In the interest of this nation the time has come to end the political carpentry of the present government that has driven province against province and race against race," he said.

THROW RASCALS

He added that the Tories will "restore integrity to national government."

Diefenbaker said the Liberal slogan is "throw the rascals in."

He stated wrongdoing had permeated the heart and soul of the administration, and that the Liberals had tried to conceal it.

"The time has come to establish in this nation new principles of honesty, to restore those things that have been lost in 2½ years," he said.

His pledge to raise old-age pensions to $100 raised the same loud cheers as it has done during the rest of his campaigning.

His only new policy statement was that a Tory government would bring in a program for urban renewal and replacement, and would bring in national housing act legislation to permit mortgages for older homes.

so named because they are a gift of the people of Canada.

The pontiff will have private talks with Thant and Amintore Fanfani of Italy, president of the General Assembly, as well as address the 117-nation assembly and meet delegations. The secretary-general will then give a diplomatic reception in the Pope's honor.

The Canadian delegation to the UN will be headed on this occasion by External Affairs Minister Paul Martin.

At the UN, the Pope will pause outside the assembly hall to pose for a photograph with a group of children from the UN International School, amongst them Ronald Mason, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Mason of Ottawa, who will present a bouquet of flowers to the pontiff on behalf of the United Nations Children's Fund.

After a brief visit with Catholic, Protestant and Jewish groups at Holy Family Church, near the UN, the pontiff will stop at the residence of Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York before going to Yankee Stadium where a crowd of more than 100,000 is expected.

The Pope will celebrate mass at 8:30 p.m. EDT before leaving for a brief visit to the Vatican Pavilion at the New York World's Fair. From the fair, Pope Paul will leave for Kennedy Airport and the flight back to Rome.

An inquest will be held in connection with the stabbing Monday at 7:30 p.m. in McCall Bros. Chapel.

BROKE INTO HOME

It is alleged McDonald, 44, of 1036 Caledonia, broke into the Dyer home, 1213 Walnut, early Monday morning.

Police found Mr. Dyer stabbed, lying on a bed-chesterfield.

McDonald was ruled too sick to appear at a previous court appearance Tuesday.

Today, Dr. Douglas Alcorn described his condition as "confused but quieter" than when he saw him after his arrest in the vicinity of the Dyer home Monday.

He had been seeing him daily in his cell at Victoria Law Courts.

Dr. Alcorn said the accused man told him he "has been in six different countries in the last week."

"SOME CHARGE"

He said he was incapable of defending himself in court or instructing counsel. He added, McDonald understands "some charge has been laid against him."

"He has put his trust in God," the psychiatrist said.

Dr. Alcorn recommended McDonald be sent to the Essondale mental institution for a period of observation to get proper care difficult to provide in Victoria.

Rezoning Hearing Set Monday

Oak Bay ratepayers will get a chance to voice objections to rezoning of former Mountain View Home property for a six-storey apartment building Monday at 7:30 p.m.

The rezoning hearing will take place in the Municipal Hall council chamber prior to council's regular meeting.

The proposed bylaw would change property on Cadboro Bay Road between Cranmore and Bowker from residential to apartment zoning.

Buildings erected on the property, which is owned by the city, shall not be less than two or more than six storeys, excluding basement and penthouse.

Original applications by the city asked for a 12-storey apartment but this was chopped in half by the Oak Bay planning committee.

The city has protested the limit saying the restriction would make any apartment building uneconomic.

OPEN SHELF

By John Mika

Yes, John, there is a Blackwood's.

For years I've heard vague allusions to this enchanting English magazine from persons who have sworn they read it, and avidly, in their youth, which usually was spent in some distant corner of Empire. But they couldn't describe it exactly nor recall where they had last seen it.

At certain cocktail parties and soirees, the name of Blackwood's was almost bound to come up some time during the chatter, like a softly-spoken refrain wafting through the instalments of rye on the raucous. I regarded it as a sort of Kilroy of the magazine world.

So it was a bit of a surprise to find, as I was reaching for a recent Playboy, that at least one Government Street magazine stand figured Victoria qualified as a distant corner of Empire.

Yes, there it was. Blackwood's Magazine, Number 1796—Volume 297.

And having read it, avidly, find it a bit hard to describe exactly.

It looks more like a pocketbook than a magazine and it has no truck with illustrations, bent single-mindedly on presenting only reading matter for the famished bookworm caught between library visits.

Its articles appear to be written, for the most part, by semi-professionals controlled by excellent editors, and the subjects usually seem to be about out-of-the-way incidents in out-of-the-way places—"Excitement on the Whangpo," "Vaal River Diggings" and "Ascension" being among those in the copy I picked up.

They all make interesting reading, but unfortunately I don't go to cocktail parties much any more, so I'll have to keep it between you and me.

If, by the way, you like reading the "little magazines" as they're called, I don't think you can go wrong with Blackwood's, but you might go even less wrong with Tamarack Review.

It's a Canadian quarterly, mainly with articles about distant people and corners of Confederation, which currently is trying to hit the big time with its first full-time editor and an effort to increase its publishing frequency as well as crculation. It, too, makes good reading and it could use more readers.

LOOKING AROUND AT ART

By ROBIN SKELTON

I didn't have space to comment upon the exhibition of prints by Helen V. Piddington at the Victoria Art Gallery when I wrote earlier in the week and now it is almost over. In fact, unless you can get to the Gallery this afternoon or tomorrow, you've missed it.

Skelton

It would be a pity if this were to be the case for Miss Piddington, like all Hayter's better pupils, has enormous technical ability, and her prints are full of rich and exciting textures.

There is a great increase in the number of print-makers in Canada (and indeed elsewhere), these days, and many of these artists have certain qualities in common.

The majority are fascinated by problems of texture. Many are making extremely elaborate relief prints. Dozens of them appear to be exploring entirely new techniques, and bringing recent technological discoveries to bear upon their craft.

This excitement about the craft of print-making, however, appears to have led some artists to forget about such old-fashioned notions as the importance of composition.

Miss Piddington has, in one or two of her works, suffered this lapse of memory, and the result is a pleasingly decorative area of richly textured colors that lacks both decisiveness and direction.

Plomberie de Poitiers is one of these; it delights by its sensual elegance but dismays by its lack of point.

Mere sensuality is not enough. There must be, as Robert Frost said somewhere or other, a "touch of mind" about it for us not to feel, finally, a little cheated.

In most of Miss Piddington's prints there is that needed air of a controlling intelligence. Aristazal organizes its sombre beauty into gently sweeping rhythms that satisfy our desire for design as well as sensation. It is a moving, moody, tone poem with real structural strength.

When Miss Piddington turns to more obviously dramatic structures she sometimes fails. Nestor with its cunningly organized swirls of red, manages to be more than merely decorative, but Gogag, Née-Gamks (where does she get those titles?), and The Thing, appear to me to be pure style, which is to say style without content.

This is always the risk that the technician faces; obsessed with how effects may be created he is liable to forget to wonder why they are worth creating. I've a nasty reactionary suspicion that this applies to a good deal of Op Art, and perhaps even to some Pop Art as well.

It doesn't, as I have said, apply to all Miss Piddington's work by any means.

Look at Tout Est Possible, for example. Here the colors, the textures, and the composition all work beautifully together to create that dynamic balance of sensations which it is the aim of every artist to achieve.

Or almost every artist; a qualification is needed here. There are some artists whose intention is primarily to make a picture which is a source of personal satisfaction to some individual. I am, of course, referring to the general run of portrait painters.

Elizabeth Goward is one of these artists, and, as long as she sticks to pastel and doesn't meddle with oils, she is pretty good as a personality-trapper.

Though there are many cases of second-rate drawing in her collection of portraits, I get the feeling that there are probably very few cases of dissatisfied customers.

She can, as they say, "get a likeness," and she doesn't sentimentalize to more than a perfectly justifiable degree.

Her work, however, does present us with a puzzle which I confess to being unable to solve. When is a bad painting a good picture?

The answer, often given, is "when it's a portrait," but the real puzzle is why this cynical and superficial answer should, somehow, have a speck of truth in it.

Can it be that, in judging art, we ever so occasionally have mixed criteria?

AN AGE OF GRANDEUR CREATED MARTYRS

Reviewed by Grant McOrmond

In his latest novel, Century in Scarlet, Mr. Zilahy tells the story of the struggle for Hungarian independence from the years 1814 to 1914.

It is also the story of the Dukay twins, Count Antal and Count Adalbert. At their christening in 1814, Prince Metternich, the Austrian Chancellor and evil genius presiding over the reactionary forces of nineteenth century Europe, states that "this century will be the happiest, the merriest century . . . It will be a gala century, a century in scarlet, not only in dress and uniform, but in human thoughts and human effort."

The irony of Metternich's statement becomes apparent when the "scarlet" of the century is shown to be the blood of the martyrs for liberty.

In their struggle against Austria for Hungarian independence, the Dukay twins represent two different traditions among Hungarian freedom fighters. Count Antal, the elder, was of the moderates such as Deak and Count Batthyany who sought reform through constitutional means. Count Adalbert, the younger and more radical twin, fought with Louis Kossuth, and with him went into exile in Turkey, subsequently travelling with him to the United States, Britain and France.

Century in Scarlet creates a colorful, detailed picture of a way of life that, like the Habsburg monarchy, has disappeared. It was an age of dignity, tradition and grandeur. It was also an age brutal, treacherous, and ignoble. It was the Vienna of Strauss, but it was also the Vienna of Metternich and Freud.

Lajos Ziliahy here follows the tradition he established in his other works such as The Dukays and Two Prisoners. At times his readers may have difficulty managing the large cast of characters and the broad sweep of events related in such intimate, fascinating detail. But the effort is rewarding. The novel will add much to the reader's understanding of the nineteenth century; it gives many interesting details of Hungary and its history of a thousand years. Certainly it will give added insight into the motivation that creates heroes and martyrs for the cause of liberty.

War History Made Graphic

Reviewed by R. H. Roy

Last year was the 50th anniversary of the outbreak of the Great War. Owing partly to that anniversary, there has appeared a minor flood of war books dealing with various aspects of the fighting. Flanders Fields, Verdun, The Somme, The Guns of August and 1918, The Last Act are but a few titles which come to mind.

If there is any one thing which is common to all these, it is the combination of horror, self-sacrifice and heroism experienced by soldiers of all armies on the battlefield.

In The Great War, John Terraine has brought together an amazing selection of photographs which point up visualy all that other authors attempt to describe. His photos cover all fronts and all the major armies involved, and few collections carry with them such an impact as these.

If anyone wishes to gain some idea of what the war was like from the beginning to the end, whether on land, sea or in the air, and whether the battle was in France, Africa, the Balkans or the Russian front, then this book should satisfy him.

Accompanying the excellent array of photographs is a text which describes the main events of the massive struggle between the Alliance and the Entente.

For anyone interested in military history, this book is a must.

Turbulence Big Hazard For Aircraft

ANVIL OF THE GODS, by Fred McClement. McClelland and Stewart Ltd., Toronto. $5.95.

Reviewed by A. F. GREENWOOD

Anvil of the Gods is one of a series of books edited by Martin Cardin. This series is called Airmen and Aircraft and is intended to eventually cover the whole history of flight.

The Anvil referred to is the characteristic flat top formation of the thunderhead or cumulo-nimbus cloud, and the book is a discussion of the violent effects of storms on aircraft.

Mr. McClement who was Air Canada's (then T.C.A.) photographer for more than ten years and has many air hours, has done an exhaustive job of research on a good number of airline crashes and has come up with some frightening facts.

Of interest mainly to the pilot, this book, written in easy-to-read, reportorial style, is enlightening and instructive.

Anvil of the Gods is also profuselly illustrated with some of the best photographs of aircraft and cloud formations this ex-pilot has ever seen.

Characters Hurt Novel

CEDARHAVEN, by Patricia Campbell. The Macmillan Co., 1965. 343 pp. $5.95.

Reviewed by R. G. Lawrence

Cedarhaven is an undistinguished novel set in a familiar place, Port Townsend, Washington. It will have some interest for readers in that area, its events reaching as far west as Neah Bay. (There are three casual allusions to Victoria.))

The story begins in 1859, when Port Townsend was rough and primitive, and the book conveys a good deal of period flavor, with many allusions to dress and customs of the times, muddy streets, housekeeping difficulties, and standards of morality.

What makes Cedarhaven a less memorable novel than it might be is the obviousness of characterization.

One learns that Darrie grows sharply towards spinsterhood, coping with family and domestic problems with a will of iron, whilst the principal boarder at Cedarhaven, a handsome Irishman, hovers patiently in the background for about 20 years.

The outcome of this situation can be predicted, but many other events in the book are entirely unpredictable and implausible. The lack of depth in character drawing contributes to this difficulty.

In these present enlightened days one can hardly object to various persons of opposite sexes moving in and out of each other's beds, but the unvirtuous liaisons described in this book have an unnecessary coarseness of tone that hints as a catering to a low level of taste.

Canadian Players Set to Launch Toronto Season

For the first time since its inception in 1954, Canadian Players is presenting a season of plays in Toronto.

Under the guidance of Marigold Charlesworth, Artistic Director, and Jean Roberts, Administrator, Canadian Players will have a nine-month season in the intimate (209 seats) and charming Central Library Theatre.

Two English-speaking companies will be operated by Canadian Players. Before Christmas one will cover the eastern provinces in a production of Oscar Wilde's The Importance of Being Earnest, while the Toronto based company presents three productions, The Playboy of the Western World by J. M. Synge, Murder in the Cathedral by T. S. Eliot and the Firebugs by Swiss playwright Max Frisch.

There will be a Christmas show for children.

Early in the New Year the pre-Christmas Toronto based company will go out on tour presenting Murder in the Cathedral. The other company will take over its occupancy of the Central Library Theatre.

Later The Glass Menagerie by Tennessee Williams will be staged and another play, yet to be announced.

"PLACE OF QUIET WATERS" by Margaret McIntyre. Longman's Canada Ltd, 1965. 282 pages. $5.

Reviewed by M. Schierbeck

Two young career women, feeling completely frustrated in a life which is: "simply a matter of digging the ditch to get the money to buy the bread to give you the strength to dig the ditch," decided to break the viscious circle and go back to Nature.

After a number of trips up along the coast of British Columbia they find the place of their heart's desire.

It is a deep inlet, accessible only through a canal where the tides run high and turbulent, but inside the water is quiet and the wooded shores and mountains are beautiful.

Here they acquire a piece of land and one of them tells the story of their victories and failures in their struggle to build a house and live "off the land." It is charmingly and amusingly told and leaves the reader with a vivid impression of the beautiful nature and the few inhabitants who have chosen to live in this isolated spot.

One gets deeply involved in the small events of life lived the hard way and you feel quite let down when the tale comes to an end and you come back to ordinary "civilized" life.

Symphony Students Find Careers Open

By JOAN MASON HURLEY

An opportunity almost unique in Canada is given our young people in being able to play with the Victoria Symphony Orchestra.

Ours is a community orchestra, which means that most of its members make their livings at other jobs. A professional symphony rehearses in the daytime, which precludes students from being members.

Victoria had the largest per capita representation in National Youth Orchestra of any place in Canada. This was very largely due to the training and experience our boys and girls obtain with the Victoria Symphony.

The opportunity is far-reaching in its consequences, possibly affecting the whole future life of the students involved.

Take the case of Vivienne Abbott, aged 18.

Vivienne received her initial training with Dorothy Evans and the Victoria Schools Symphony Orchestra. Next she was invited to join the adult symphony where she has been in the violin section for three years.

This summer she was accepted by the National Youth Orchestra.

Franz-Paul Dekker, conductor, was so impressed with Vivienne's playing that he offered her a contract with his own orchestra, the Rotterdam Philarmonic, starting in the fall of 1966.

Thus, for Vivienne the goal of ultimate professionalism has been accomplished by treading every step up the ladder.

This season she will remain with the Victoria Symphony. She will assist Jean Angers, concertmaster, in teaching pupils at the Victoria School of Music, and study German for the exciting year that lies ahead of her.

It was Hans Gruber who first started students in the orchestra. He arranged through Canada Council that their lessons should be paid for and so they were reimbursed without having to join the union.

Nowadays the students are directly paid, and one boy spoke of the great thrill it gave him to be able to finance his own studies after years of his parents doing so.

Students this year include Mark Butler, 15, violin, Merlin Naduriak, 18, 'cello, both National Youth Orchestra members; Barbara Ann Court, 18, violin, who won a scholarship to attend the Congress of Strings at Lansing, Mich., this year; Janice Lee, 15, 'cello, Anne Valdal, cello, and Ian Franklin, 15, oboe.

Most of these young people have come up through the excellent Victoria public schools system of music. Once they have proved their ability in the Victoria Schools Symphony Orchestra, they are given a chance to join the adult symphony.

VIVIENNE ABBOTT
. . . to Europe

Although rewarding and naturally a great honor, the work is onerous indeed for a youngster. Concerts are every three weeks and involve several evening rehearsals beforehand.

Naturally many hours of home practice are necessary too. One mother told me her child came back from rehearsals at 10:30 p.m. and started right in practising until begged to desist.

School authorities tell me that often marks fall off; but not unnaturally a musical youngster feels that the symphony is the most important thing in his young life.

Students who were with the orchestra last year, and who have gone on to win scholarships in other places are: Norman Abbott, 'cello, winner of the Kathleen Parr Scholarship in performance at the University of Toronto; Donna De Long, violin, scholarship to the New England Conservacry of Music; Velma Ko, violin, scholarship to University of Brandon where she will study under Albert Pratz.

These successes are largely due to the excellent training these young people have received with the Victoria Symphony.

One feels the future of music in Canada is in good hands.

BEGINNING OF THE END?

Welcomed at plate after first-inning, three-run homer got Cincinnati off on right foot is Redleg outfielder Frank Robinson. Clout, which also scored Vada Pinson (28) and Pete Ross (left), could have been beginning of the end of San Francisco Giants' hopes for National League pennant. Gordy Coleman (18) followed with another homer and Redlegs went out to rout Giants 17-2 at San Francisco Friday night. Loss left Giants with chance only to tie Los Angeles. (AP Wirephoto.)

Los Angeles Sure Of at Least Tie For NL Pennant

By UP International

Assured of at least a tie for the National League pennant, the Los Angeles Dodgers were planning to call on 25-game winner Sandy Koufax today and 23-game winner Don Drysdale Sunday to notch the one victory that will kill the San Francisco Giants' forlorn hopes for a playoff.

The Dodgers missed a chance to clinch the flag outright Friday night when they bowed to the Milwaukee Braves 2-0. But their magic pennant-clinching number was reduced to one when the Cincinnati Reds smeared the Giants 17-2 under a barrage of 21 hits.

One Dodger victory or one Giant defeat would officially clinch the flag for Los Angeles. And the Giants, living on borrowed time, are a stumbling, demoralized team as the end of the race nears. They have lost seven of their last nine games and Friday night tossed eight pitchers into the game in a vain effort to stop the Reds' bombardment.

WIN STREAK SNAPPED

Denny Lemaster, a fireballing lefthander who has been bothered with a sore arm most of the season, snapped the Dodgers' 13-game winning streak with a five-hitter.

Claude Osteen matched zeros with Lemaster until the sixth when two walks, and errors by John Roseboro and Jim Gilliam enabled the Braves to take a 1-0 lead. They added their second run in the seventh on Woody Woodward's single, a sacrifice, an infield out and Felipe Alou's infield hit.

A crowd of 29,220 at San Francisco watched in horror as the Reds demolished the Giants. It looked like Cincinnati batting practice as the Reds teed off on the eight Giant pitchers for 21 hits, including homers by Frank Robinson, Pete Rose, Gordie Coleman and Deron Johnson and doubles by Vada Pinson and Tony Perez.

BIFF, BAM!

Successive homers by Robinson and Coleman sent the Reds off to a 4-0 lead in the first inning and Rose's homer made it 6-0 in the second. The Reds' lead was 7-1 after three innings, 11-2 after seven and 15-2 after eight.

Koufax, whose 26th victory of the season would tie the N.L. record for lefthanders held by Carl Hubbell, was to be faced today by 24-game winner Tony Cloninger. Koufax shut out the Cardinals and Reds in his last two starts. Drysdale, slated to pitch Sunday if Koufax failed to apply the clincher today, has shut out the Braves and Cardinals in his last two starts.

Houston Astros beat the Cardinals 4-2 and the Pittsburgh Pirates nipped the Chicago Cubs 2-1 in other NL games.

In the American League, Cleveland shaded Baltimore 3-2 after a 2-0 setback and Chicago downed Kansas City 6-1.

Robin Roberts pitched four-hit ball for seven innings to win his fifth game for the Astros and the 281st of his career. Doubles by Roberts, Chuck Harrison and Rusty Staub were the big blows of a three-run second-inning rally.

Ailing Player Fires Hot 68

MADRID (CP-AP)—Gary Player, despite suffering from a severely strained muscle in his neck, shot a four-under-par 68 today as South Africa continued its hot pace in the Canada Cup golf tournament.

Teammate Harold Henning had a one-under-par 36-35—71 to give the South African team a 419 total and a firm hold on first place. Player, U.S. Open champion, had a 35-33.

Spain held on to second place in the tournament, which ends Sunday over the 7,096-yard, par-72 Club de Campo course. Ramon Sota shot a 35-35—70 and his partner Angel Miguel had a 37-37—74 for a three-round team total of 432.

CANADA FOURTH

The Canadian team of George Knudson, 28, of Toronto, and Wilf Homenuik, 29, of Winnipeg, still was out on the course. Canada held fourth place before today's play.

Jack Nicklaus, defending individual champion and a member of the U.S. team shot a 39-32—71 while teammate Tony Lema shot a 35-36—71, leaving the U.S. team with a total of 437.

Knudson, a 150-pounder, fired a 73 Friday to tie three others, including pre-tournament favorite Jack Nicklaus, for fourth position in the individual standings at 143.

Homenuik, razor thin at 140 pounds, shot 71 to jump into 16th place with a two-round 147.

The favored U.S. team stood sixth at 295 despite steady scores of 71-72 by defending champion Nicklaus. Ailing Tony Lema shot his second consecutive 76 to drag down the U.S. score. Lema is receiving pain-killing injections to relieve arthritic pain in his right elbow.

The team and individual championship ends Sunday.

Tough Season For Pro Pivots

By Canadian Press

The Canadian Football League's campaign may be paying off at the box office but it's been murder on quarterbacks.

Signal callers Bill Redell of Edmonton Eskimos, Kenny Ploen of Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Eagle Day of Calgary Stampeders are all hoping to shake off the effects of injuries and return to action in weekend games.

In interlocking contests, Ottawa Rough Riders have taken what is considered the country's most dangerous offence into Calgary to meet the Stampeders today and Hamilton Tiger-Cats will take the country's most grudging defence into Winnipeg for a game against the Blue Bombers Sunday.

The Hamilton-Winnipeg contest will be televised nationally by CTV at 12:30 p.m., PDT, Sunday.

PLAY LIONS

In the only other weekend game, an all-western conference affair, the revitalized Edmonton Eskimos visit the defending Grey Cup champion British Columbia Lions tonight.

Not one of the six teams can afford a loss.

Hamilton and Ottawa are engaged in a neck-and-neck run for the Eastern Football Conference lead.

All five teams in the WFC are scrambling just to make sure they reach one of the three playoff positions. Only six points separate last-place Edmonton from first-place Calgary.

Stampeder quarterback Day, out since Sept. 11 with stretched knee ligaments, has been declared ready to return to action.

Whether he will dress depends on coach Jerry Williams.

Ploen, out almost four full games with a sprained wrist, will make his own decision if he is ready to play against Hamilton.

Edmonton's Redell, out since Sept. 20 with a dislocated collar bone, will be ready for full-time duty against Lions tonight.

Racing Room Reserved For 'Wizards of Odds'

By HAL MALONE

In the calculating room at Sandown Park Friday, six men and a woman watched on closed circuit television as the winning numbers—6—7—3—were posted after the third race.

In unison seven pencils went to work, adding, dividing, checking.

The "objection" sign flashed on an electronic board, indicating the stewards would be examining the flims of the race for a possible foul.

Long before their decision was announced (the numbers were changed to 6-3-1) Len Heaslip turned to Mrs. Nora Jones and said, "3,396.70."

"Right," checked Mrs. Jones.

Heaslip and Mrs. Jones are two of seven calculators whose mental agility and fast pencils determine odds and mutuel prices of every race.

There is no sign in the room advising its occupants to "Be Quick and Be Right" but it's a pressure spot nonetheless.

Heaslip's figures represented the net win betting pool, corroborated by Mrs. Jones. The total win betting pool on the race was $4,327. He arrived at the net figure by taking 78 per cent of the total. Mrs. Jones had come to the identical conclusion by deducting from the total ($4,327) 12 per cent Provincial tax, nine per cent commission (the track's take) and one-half of one per cent federal levy.

Of Interest to a Fortunate 142 . . .

As soon as the stewards posted the official sign, declaring No. 6 Mill B the winner, Mrs. Jones and Heaslip divided the net pool ($3,396.70) by 142, representing the amount bet on the horse. This gave them the dollar odds, 23.90 to one which, doubled, induced a handful of bettors to neigh happily over a $47.80 win payoff.

Then Mrs. Jones reached for the "Long Tom," a nickname of unknown origin given to a sheet on which she listed the correct figures for the track commission, breakage (pennies involved), provincial tax and federal levy.

Before the next race, Mrs. Jones also visited the $5 and $10 cash wickets (Heaslip does the $2 windows) to check the tickets cashed in the previous race against tickets sold.

Mrs. Jones is a pleasant, dark-haired woman, the wife of a bank inspector. She is something else.

She is the first woman to gain a place in the calculating room in the history of B.C. racing. Or at least in the memory of mutuels manager Walter Geoghegan.

Mr. Geoghegan has a good memory and a long one. He's been in the mutuels department of B.C. tracks since 1920.

The calculating room is the "holy of holies" in the mutuels department, a silent but intense office hithertofore reserved for math specialists who do not have trouble making two and two arrive at four. Up until last Monday it was the sacred preserve of seven males.

Satisfaction In Accomplishment . . .

"Because of illness," Walter Geoghegan was saying, "we lost one of our win calculators. Mrs. Jones has always impressed, first as a money counter, later as a money room accountant. She's quick and accurate. We're very pleased."

Added Mrs. Jones, a woman who has been "going to the races" for 20 years yet never sees the horses run: "I'm honored and fascinated. I've always liked figures—I worked in a bank—and while the pressure is great the satisfaction of accomplishment makes it all worthwhile."

While Geoghan's "wizard of odds" was flexing her pencil, other things were happening outside.

Things like the first objection (by the stewards) and reversal of the order of finish. They ruled that Totem Miss drifted out and interfered with Baby Joe. Totem Miss was dropped from second to fifth.

Things like the numbers four and five prevailing in that precise order in both quinellas and the exacto. And a gleeful punter saying: "I got them all. This was my 45th wedding anniversary and I had to bet those numbers."

Things like Gene Salas protecting his lead in the jockey derby with two winners (Actella and Royal Fair). And Sandy Shields duplicating the feat with Irish Jubilee and Access.

And, surprsingly things like the mutual handle soaring to $93,823, a gain (for the eighth straight day) of approximately 23 per cent.

With figures like that flashing, they need wizards in the odds room. Like Mrs. Jones.

Island director Wilf Sadler said the three, who will arrive from Trenton, N.J., will be guests of honor at a sportmen's dinner Thursday.

On Friday, the baseball trio is to meet Laurie Wallace, chairman of the centennial celebrations committee, and Mayor Dick Wilson.

Life Is Brighter For Leaf Goalie

It has to be something special to get Al Millar enthused.

Millar, the veteran goalie who is back for another Western Hockey League season with Victoria Maple Leafs, isn't noted as a man who is quick with praise for hockey facilities.

He believes they should always be top grade for the pro sport.

But this week at Memorial Arena the slicker with a stick has been looking up and smiling during training-camp sessions. The reason is the lighting, long a source of despair and complaint from fellows who stop pucks for a living.

The new lighting system at the arena has given a new look to local hockey. Visibility along the boards is now better than it was last season directly under the lights.

"This is a big improvement," Millar said Friday. "Now you can actually see the puck at the other end.

"Before, it wasn't bad for the other goalies. They only had to play six times in this arena. But the Victoria goalie had to worry about seeing the puck for 36 games."

GAME AT NANAIMO

Al won't have the local lights to help him when the Leafs play their first pre-season game tonight. They'll be at Nanaimo tackling Vancouver Canucks, who were nipped 5-4 by Seattle Totems Friday night at Chilliwack.

Millar may see action in only one of tonight's three periods. Rookies Mike Berridge and Gary Holland, who are battling for the No. 2 spot behind Millar, may also be given a period in the nets by coach Frank Mario.

Mario will work Bill Shvetz, Fred Hucul, Sandy Hucul, Aut Erickson and Claude Labrosse on defence and plans to give rookie forwards Mike Laughton and Fred Purvis turns with his three attacking units.

Centre John Sleaver is expected to work with Lou Jankowski and Gordie Redahl on one forward line. Milan Marcetta will centre Bob Barlow and Mike Labadie, and Dick Lamoureux is due to skate between wingers Steve Witiuk and Ed Ehrenverth.

ICE CHIPS: More than the lights have been spruced up at Memorial Arena. Out-of-Court Settlement For Lindmoser

VANCOUVER (CP) — Lindy Lindmoser, a former Canadian lightheavyweight boxing champion, will receive $16,200 in an out-of-court settlement for injuries received in a traffic accident Nov. 8, 1961, his lawyer said Friday.

Lawyer Thomas Braidwood said Lindmoser's ring career was ended when he was struck by a car driven by George Whittaker as he walked in Nanaimo. The boxer received multiple injuries.

Lindmoser, in addition to being Canadian champion, was Seattle Golden Gloves champion in 1961.

Dillabough Could Be Dilly as a Bruin

Bob Dillabough came to Boston Bruins this season with a reputation as a penalty-killer, earned in four years with Detroit Red Wings' farm system.

Reg Fleming came to the Bruins with a similar tag from Chicago Black Hawks a year ago and proceeded to score 18 goals for them. Today the Boston management has modest hopes Dillabough will follow his example.

The 24-year-old left winger made his debut in a Boston uniform Friday night and scored twice as the National Hockey League's chronic tail-enders defeated Oklahoma City Blazers, their Central Professional League farm club, 4-2 in their opening exhibition game of the season.

The Bruins could use the goals. In last place for the last five years and out of the playoffs for six, they had only two 20-goal men in their lineup last season as they trailed the NHL in scoring.

Murray Oliver, who bagged an even 20 last year, also scored against Oklahoma City Friday night as did Ron Stewart, another defensive expert whom the Bruins acquired from Toronto Maple Leafs in an off-season trade.

Another Toronto recruit, goaltender Gerry Cheevers, played the last two periods and yielded goals by Dallas Smith and Wayne Maxner after Ed Johnston had blanked the Blazers in the opening 20 minutes.

Montreal Canadiens signed Jim Roberts, their penalty-killing right winger, and lopped 29 players off the bulky 80-man roster that attended their training camp. The Stanley Cup champions play their first exhibition game in Montreal tonight against Cleveland Barons of the AHL.

Jet Dynamiter To Be Hanged For Shooting

EDMONTON (CP) — Harry Hubach, 36, was sentenced Friday night to be hanged Dec. 8 after a jury found him guilty of capital murder in the death Jan. 28 of a security guard.

The victim was Trenton Richardson, 48, who was shot in the gatekeeper's house at the Northwest Industries Limited plant. Three United States Air Force jets were damaged by dynamite the same night.

The jury recommended clemency and Mr. Justice Hugh C. Farthing of Calgary said he would include the recommendation in a report to the Minister of Justice.

Defence counsel Vern Schwab said he would await instructions before deciding whether to appeal.

"I thank you, your lordship," was Hubach's only comment when asked if he had anything to say.

Evidence admitted at the trial included the testimony of a police constable who quoted Hubach as saying he did not wish to kill Richardson, "but these were American planes and were being used in Viet Nam and I sympathize with the people of Viet Nam."

The constable also quoted Hubach as saying he is not a Communist party member "but I would be honored to join if I were asked to."

In a formal confession to police, also admitted as evidence, he told how he had strapped dynamite to three planes and detonated it.

BUSIEST MAN IN TOWN

His Vote Is Mighty Important

Roger Stonebanks Talks To RAY BRYANT

Raymond Bryant is one man who won't have a vote in the Nov. 8 federal election.

Unless, that is, two candidates in the Victoria constituency tie in votes.

"I'm not upset," the 28-year-old reutrning officer said when I finally caught up with him earlier this week.

"If I have a vote, then it is a pretty important one"

Neutral

Just as the chairman of a meeting must remain neutral, so under the Canada Elections Act returning officers cannot vote — unless there is a tie.

Ray is probably the busiest man in town, with the exception of Esquimalt-Saanich returning officer John Davies.

It is his responsibility to set up the machinery to allow more than 53,000 eligible voters in the constituency to cast ballots in the election.

"The biggest burden of the job is the weight of responsibility," he said while grabbing lunch in-between work that sometimes run to 18 hours a day.

53,000 Voters

"The last time there were 53,000 voters in Victoria and I'm the only one responsible for getting them on the voters' list.

"I have to arrange for them to vote and tabulate the votes. I had to hire 562 enumerators and 281 deputy returning officers and some 281 deputy returning officers and some 281 polling stations.

"If they make a mistake it's my responsibility. Sometimes this is difficult because of the number of people involved.

"Whlie we do the best we can, these people are just human."

Ray, who was reluctant at first to be interviewed because of his professional position as a practising lawyer, is the youngest returning officer ever appointed in Victoria.

BRYANT
. . . returning officer

During a two-day refresher course for ROs across the country, he was told he is probably the youngest ever appointed in the country since Confederation

Born and raised in Victoria his father is Esquimalt Coun. James Bryant—he graduated from the University of B.C. in 1962 with a double degree in commerce and business administration, and law.

Misspellings

Among the most frequent calls are those from people whose names have been inadvertently misspelled by enumerators.

"Somehow people think enumeraters are perfect but because it is done by human beings it's not."

That's why there is a court of revision Oct. 21-23 to straighten out such matters.

Some pepole are confused because the federal voters list changes from election to election, while in provincial and municipal elections there is a permanent voters list.

Another frequent inquiry is about absentee voting, which is not possible in federal elections. Ballots must be cast by persons in their own ridings, either at the advance poll or on voting day.

Unusual Request

"This is most unusual when some people cherish these rights," he remarked.

These persons were in addition to various groups who refuse to go on the voters list for religious reasons.

He also found it "fantastic" that at least 25 persons didn't even know an election is going to be held.

Ray's territory for the election includes the city, Esquimalt, Oak Bay and the Saanich Panhandle from Lansdowne Road to the Veterans' Hospital.

His staff of four — which sometimes goes up to nine or 10—now is checking in detail the preliminary lists before they go to the printers.

At the same time, he has to arrange for the polling stations—the places where voters actually cast their ballots.

One question that is often asked is how much an election costs, apart from the money spent by the political parties.

CALDWELL

New Court Facilities Praised

Provincial, civic and bar officials Friday said farewell to years of inadequate courtroom facilities in Greater Victoria.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner officially opened the new municipal courthouse on Fisgard St.

Magistrate William Ostler praised the facilities because it will be the first time municipal court will sit as magisterial benches in two divisions—traffic and criminal.

He said the new courtrooms were long overdue.

Mayor R. B. Wilson said a municipal court had to no place in the confines of a police station as was the case in past years.

CTV Appoints New President

TORONTO (CP)—The CTV Television network Friday announced the resignation as president of Spencer W. Caldwell, 55, founder and architect of Canada's first privately-owned TV network.

He will be succeeded by Gordon F. Keeble, executive vice-president and a director of CTV since its formation in April, 1961.

The board announced the resignation following two days of meetings with its 11 network station affiliates.

Mr. Caldwell, who said he turned in his resignation a week ago after pondering it for more than three months, said he leaves voluntarily because after 40 years in broadcasting he wants to relax.

"I've been working very hard—we've been working very hard—day and night for a very long time," he said. "I've decided I'd better stop and live a little. I can afford it. If I couldn't, it might be different. But you can say I'm a millionaire. There's no doubt of it."

Mr. Coldwell says he plans to hold on to his 37 per cent stock interest in the network. "If it were important to the success of the network—my baby—I'd part with some of it," he said.

He said there can be no change in the network without a two-thirds vote. "And without me, they can't get a two-thirds vote," he said.

Uvic Student Wins Award

The University of Victoria student received the annual award for highest marks in chemistry and zoology obtained in the first year of university studies.

The Lions have made the award for 20 years.

Cubbon Building Supplies Ltd. are pleased to announce the appointment of C. A. (Cliff) Wanless as sales manager. He is well known locally and brings to the Greater Victoria area an excellent knowledge of building materials and practices. We invite you to come in and discuss your requirements.

NO WONDER WHALES BLUBBER

LONDON (AP)—Blue whales and fin whales are in danger of being wiped out by cut-throat hunters, naturalist Peter Scott said Friday. He said they have dwindled in the last 30 years to 35,000 from 400,000.

Scott, 56, author, painter, yachtsman and head of three international conservation groups, is a son of explorer Robert Scott, who died in the Antarctic in 1912.

He made his remarks on whaling at a press conference at the Zoological Society of London.

CRAWFORDVILLE, Ga. (AP)—Negroes stepped up the pace of their demonstrations in the rural Georgia town of Crawfordville with two street marches Friday after futile attempts to block school buses and enrol in a white school.

More demonstrations were planned today. Elsewhere, a Supreme Court justice refused to halt court proceedings in Hayneville, Ala. The U.S. attorney-general said an investigation would continue into a civil rights worker's death in the Alabama city and federal voting registrars were ordered into Alabama's capital.

In Georgia, more than 150 Negroes marched from a church to the old red-brick Taliaferro County courthouse where they sang and prayed.

There were only a few white spectators during the night demonstration which followed a similar march at noon Friday and a rally at the courthouse.

In Washington, Justice Hugo L. Black refused to halt court proceedings in Lowndes County, Ala. Black's decision on a petition by the American Civil Liberties Union came a day after special deputy sheriff Thomas L. Coleman was acquitted in state court in the Alabama county in the killing of a civil rights worker.

U.S. Attorney-General Nicholas Katzenbach said in Midland, Tex., that the investigation into the slaying will continue. The victim, Jonathan Daniels, was gunned down in front of a small store at Hayneville, Ala.

Katzenbach said it was difficult for a law enforcement official to comment on jury actions. "With the jury system, miscarriages of justice can occur and sometimes do occur," he said. "Many of us have strong feelings about this, as I have, but I won't comment."

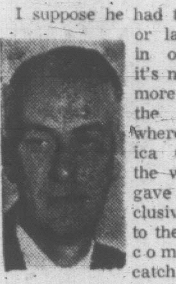
Arthur Mayse

Our big neighbor below the border, a noisy fellow with heart of gold, easily-bruised feelings and a dismaying penchant for skidding on such scatter-rugs as Cuba and the Dominican Republic, now seems to be discovering modest little us.



I suppose he had to sooner or later, and in one way, it's nice to be more than just the place where America (and, by the way, who gave him exclusive rights to the name?) comes to catch our fish and shoot our larger fauna.

But there are times, and they grow more frequent, when I wish we could go back to being the Great North Woods, populated almost exclusively by McGregors and Jean-Baptistes, with Rose Marie carolling here, and a redcoat tall in the saddle yonder.

I'm afraid though, that those days are over. The United States, in recent weeks, has shown disturbing signs of taking us seriously.

You're familiar with 'Viewpoint,' the 10-minute slice of opinion which the CBC sandwiches between national and regional news?

Just a couple of nights ago, Viewpoint's zoo-keeper herded from the pen where they keep the pundits a more than usually impressive specimen.

This man, identified as an American, felt his people should know much more about Canada and Canadians than they now do. He advocated an exchange of students, and deprecated the fact that few U.S. universities offer courses on Canada.

That kind of attention is at worst harmless, and at best may finally clarify for the Californians our relationship with Britain and the Crown.

More dubious, however, are certain other manifestations of awakened interest observed in recent months.

One was the Heeney-Merchant report, an international effort styled 'a dialogue between friends,' and aimed at promoting a better understanding between Canadians and Americans.

It was suggested therein that we refrain from criticizing U.S. foreign policy in matters that didn't directly concern us.

Telling us to mind our own business, huh? And in matters that must inevitably involve us, whether we will or not? We reacted, coast-to-coast, with a yowl like a stepped-on cat.

Then again this week, our neighbor took notice of us, with a couple of jabs that rankle.

Our respective countries, as you know, are working on a plan to integrate the North American automobile industry. This venture has brought us hard words from a pair of United States senators.

One accused us of trying to grab jobs away from Americans. Another reproached us on the grounds that we take the United States' protective military might for granted.

Personally, I worry quite a bit about America's protective military might, especially since the Dominican episode.

As for the job-snitching charge, as long as U.S. industry manages to preserve a $500 million trade surplus in cars and parts, a figure guaranteed by the automotive pact, such inroads as we might make shouldn't be unduly damaging.

One mustn't be reactionary; but I can't help remembering how much easier life was before neighbor Sam interpreted our struggle to stand on our own feet as an affront . . . when he came up here to collect a set of moose horns or to see the Dionne quints . . . and between-times forgot all about us.

OTTAWA TO SHARE BREAKWATER COST

The federal government today announced it will pay 60 per cent of a new breakwater at Kinver Beach, Esquimalt.

The $50,000 breakwater is due for completion in the next month.

Said Victoria Liberal MP in the last Parliament, David Groos, today:

"This is something we (himself and Esquimalt municipality) have been working on together for more than a year.

"But we could get no decision until the federal government decided its new policy covering marinas, breakwaters and dredging of harbors which was announced last month."

The new policy makes federal aid available in cases where the work will promote tourism or otherwise prove economically worthwhile.

Mr. Groos said he believed there were other sites in Victoria which may qualify for federal support.

In particular, the new launching ramps near Victoria Machinery Depot which were recently built by James Bay Anglers' Association.

The remaining cost would have to be paid by the city.

At present the ramps are exposed to the open water, making them virtually inaccessible during bad weather.

In addition, deadheads and other debris washed up by the tide, hamper launching operations.

OFF TO MANITOBA Oct. 15 is B.C.'s assistant deputy minister of finance, William F. Veitch. Mr. Veitch will assume duties as Manitoba's deputy provincial treasurer. For the second time in his life he will be stepping into a spot vacated by Ron Burns, who left Mr. Veitch's present post for the deputy minister's job in Manitoba and is now leaving to accept an appointment at Queen's University

'Civil Service Must Have Strike Rights'

LATE, LATE WESTERN STAGED IN SAANICH

Somebody was shooting up Saanich Friday night.

Police first received a call from a resident near the Tillicum Outdoor Theatre who heard four or five shots around 8:30 p.m.

At 1:45 a.m. today, Mrs. P. E. Griffiths, 3942 Cedar Hill Cross Road, reported someone was firing shots in the area.

Five minutes later, Ken Toby, 1551 Mount Douglas Cross Road, reported 14 or 15 shots from what he believed to be an automatic rifle.

And still 10 minutes later a resident at 726 Canterbury reported shots from the vicinity of Rainbow Park.

Police searched all areas without results.

Federal Staff Head Outlines Legislation

Federal civil servants must have the right to strike when collective bargaining is introduced, one of their leaders told provincial government workers here.

Claude Edwards, president of the 80,000-member Civil Service Federation of Canada, said legislation being prepared by the federal government must not rule out strikes.

He was addressing more than 80 delegates to the B.C. Government Employees Association annual convention at the Empress Hotel Friday.

Mr. Edwards said the preparatory committee looking into bargaining rights for federal civil servants made no recommendation for a "no strike" clause in the proposed legislation.

Although the proposed process hinged on compulsory arbitration "the process did not specifically outlaw strikes by legislation nor did it propose any penalties for strike action."

But, he added, it may well be that the recent postal strike will cause changes.

"We hope not," he said.

Although the federation was prepared to accept compulsory arbitration, it did not believe legislation should specifically deprive employees from rights applicable to almost everyone else.

ULTIMATE WEAPON

"To specifically legislate against strike action could effectively rule out the ultimate weapon an employee organization has in dealing with irresponsible management," he said.

Such management could, through Parliamentary process, effectively deny awards granted by impartial arbitration.

Mr. Edwards said "without a doubt" the transition from consultation to collective bargaining will impose strains on both sides.

While the proposed legislation was obviously not satisfactory to everyone, it was "a very great step forward" in the public service.

B.C. Workers Re-Elect Dave Lyttle

Dave Lyttle of Victoria was re-elected unanimously this morning for a second term as president of the 8,000-member B.C. Government Employees' Association.

Also re-elected at the association's convention in the Empress Hotel were first vice-president Alex McEwen of Oakalla branch, second vice-president Norman Richards of Victoria and treasurer G. F. Boyd of Vancouver-New Westminster.

The post of secretary, held by E. P. O'Connor every year since 1944, is not elected but appointed by the executive.

RETRAINING

The two-day convention drew to a close with consideration of the last resolutions before the more than 80 delegates.

One of the resolutions approved called on the provincial and federal governments to set up job retraining programs for workers displaced by automation in offices and factories.

The resolution said men and women who have spent most of their life in this same kind of work are being replaced by the ever increasing use of automated equipment.

The convention also agreed that the cost of retraining programs be at the expense of employers "as they stand to gain in every phase of this type of progress."

The association, affiliated with the Canadian Labour Congress, has 1,500 members in Greater Victoria.

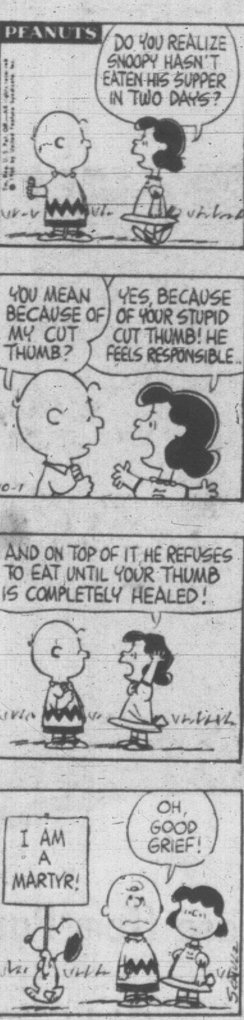
'Canned Food Tastes the Same . . . I Like It,' Says Tokyo Miss

By BOB DONAHUE

Being a student in a foreign country is not without its problems — or rewards, as six students at the University of Victoria this year have discovered.



PEANUTS
YOU MEAN BECAUSE OF MY CUT THUMB?
YES, BECAUSE OF YOUR STUPID CUT THUMB! HE FEELS RESPONSIBLE..
AND ON TOP OF IT HE REFUSES TO EAT UNTIL YOUR THUMB IS COMPLETELY HEALED!
I AM A MARTYR!
OH, GOOD GRIEF!

There is Maria Luisa Sottovia, a 29-year-old law graduate from Santiago, Chile, whose clothing was lost en route to Victoria.

Her reward came when Uvic students rallied in a clothing drive to outfit her from top to bottom. The luggage has still not arrived.

TASTES SAME

"I like it," she says, "because it tastes the same every day."

And there is Eudorah Alice Bodo, a 23-year-old arts and science student from Kenya whose face and stature mirrors the pride of her race.

She hasn't had time to get used to Canada yet, but she likes what she has seen so far

"The Canadian people are are so friendly," says Richard Ochillo, 22, also of Kenya. "They are always smiling, perhaps because we are different. I don't know"

Richard feels Canadian students are very fortunate because of the easy access to higher education. "There is only one university in Kenya, at Nairobi and it is defficult to get in."

Paul Pius Atalee, from Mutanda, Kenya, is a scholarly 21-year-old who is anxious to get his education so he can return to Africa to teach in a secondary school.

Another foreign student who will be at the University of Victoria for this term is Yutaka Shinoda, 23, who previously attended Keio University, Tokyo.

The African students were brought here through Uvic's African Student Fund and an unusual aspect of the program is that funds for their support will be raised during the four-year course of studies.

Many Canadian universities are interested in this unique approach.

All fees have been waived by the university and living expenses, about $1,200 each year are covered by funds raised through the Alma Mater Society in the case of the non-African students.

Douglas Only Leader City-Bound

Prime Minister Pearson likely won't visit Victoria in the election campaign, a party spokesman said this morning.

The Liberal leader is expected to make a major speech in Vancouver and "if he comes to Victoria it will be a very quick trip."

The party spokesman pointed out Mr. Pearson was here recently on a private visit. The time he can spend on an election campaign is limited because he still is prime minister, he said.

DOUGLAS ON OCT. 28

The only party leader who at this moment has lined up a Victoria meeting is T. C. Douglas of the New Democratic Party.

He will speak at 8 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 28, in the Royal Theatre.

And coming to Victoria Monday to arrange details of the rally is George Home, the director of political education for the Canadian Labour Congress.

A spokesman for the Progressive Conservative party said leader John Diefenbaker is expected to speak here in mid-October but plans have not been discussed.

Day Early For Tricks

Trick-or-Treat night's going to be a day early this year.

Instead of being held on the traditional Oct. 31—a Sunday—Halloween will be celebrated the day before.

Although there is no law against trick-or-treating on Sunday, in the past it has always been brought forward a day.

Last time this happened was 1954.

In 1960 the problem was solved by leap year, which jumped Oct. 31 from Saturday to Monday.

BUS TOURS FULL

Historic Buildings Draw Large Crowds

Victorians are ready and anxious to view their historic buildings.

Bus tours of these buildings, started last Saturday, have proved so successful, there is still a long waiting list, it was revealed at a meeting of Greater Victoria Historic Buildings Trust Friday.

The trust organized two tours last Saturday. Two were in operation today—and two more will take place Sunday.

BUSES CROWDED

Double-decker buses, with a seating capacity of 54 up and down, are used. They were crowded to capacity last Saturday and all seats are booked for today and Sunday.

"There is still a long waiting list but we cannot take any more this year," president Dr. Hugh Borsman reported, "as the double-decker buses are going out of service for this season."

Victoria historians James K. Nesbitt and Peter Cotton gave commentaries on the buildings visited and, at the conclusion of each tour, viewers were entertained to tea at Greater Victoria Art Gallery.

It is hoped that the tours will be resumed next summer, but no definite decision was reached at Friday's meeting.

Four Navy Ships Welcomed Home

Crew members of four Pacific Command warships were welcomed home by their families and loved ones this morning.

Securing at HMC Dockyard naval base were HMC Ships St. Croix, Saskatchewan, Mackenzie, and Beacon Hill.

The four ships have been on a month-long training cruise which took them to San Diego, Calif.

Controversial Road Bylaw Goes to Voters On Monday

Sidney residents Monday will vote on a controversial $185,000 road improvement program.

The poll at the village hall will be open between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m.

The program calls for improvements and reconstruction of:

Resthaven Drive, from Malaview to Mills; Pleasant, from Amelia to Calvin; Melissa, from Amelia to Malaview; Bradford, from Resthaven to Pleasant; Amherts, from Resthaven to Pleasant; Almond, from Amelia to Calvin; Amelia, from Resthaven to Bevan; Weiler; Seventh, from Beacon to Henry; Sixth, from Beacon to Henry; Malaview, from Third to Melissa; Henry, from Third to West Side School; Mills, from Resthaven to Melissa; Third, from Ocean to Roberts Bay; Eighth, from Ocean to Oakville.

Property-owners will vote on a bylaw authorizing council to borrow $85,000, payable over 10 years.

Council also plans to borrow an additional $47,000 and to use $53,000 from its budget for the program.

Oak Bay Official Named Vice-President

Ralph Futcher, Oak Bay municipal works superintendent, has been named vice-president of the Public Works Association of B.C.

He and municipal works engineer Geoffrey White attended a meeting of the group in Penticton last month.

'WILFUL DISREGARD FOR LAW'

Driver Suspended for Three Years

David Paul, 7306 West Saanich Rd., today in city police court was fined $500 for driving under suspension and leaving an accident scene.

Paul pleaded guilty at an earlier court appearance.

Evidence was he hit a car parked in the Ingraham Hotel lot and his vehicle was later found by police in the parking lot of the Tally-Ho.

His "wilful disobedience and disregard for the law" also prompted Magistrate William Ostler to suspend him from driving in Canada for three years.

"The astonishing thing is you are a good family man, employed and occupy a good position in your band," he told him.

A man who didn't know where he was or in what direction he was travelling was fined $350 in Esquimalt court for impaired driving.

Robert E. Hotchin, 360 Gorge Rd. West, pleaded guilty.

Court was told he had no idea how he managed to roll his auto early this morning at the intersection of Lampson and Rockheights.

The car received an estimated $250 damage.

A breath test conducted on the accused revealed his blood contained .25 per cent alcohol.

A man caught driving without a licence two days in a row was fined a total of $250 in city court today.

Edward Charles Lumley, 203 Montreal Street, pleaded guilty to driving without a licence two days in a row.

He was stopped Aug. 31 while going north on Wharf Street, and caught in a routine police check Sept. 1 on Esquimalt Rd.

Barry John Foster, 18, of 976 Dunsmuir, pleaded guilty to trespassing by night.

He was caught by police early this morning looking in the basement window of Mr. and Mrs. William Klingle, 762 Hutchinson Street.

When apprehended the accused became "quite violent" court was told.

Foster was remanded to Oct. 8 for sentence.

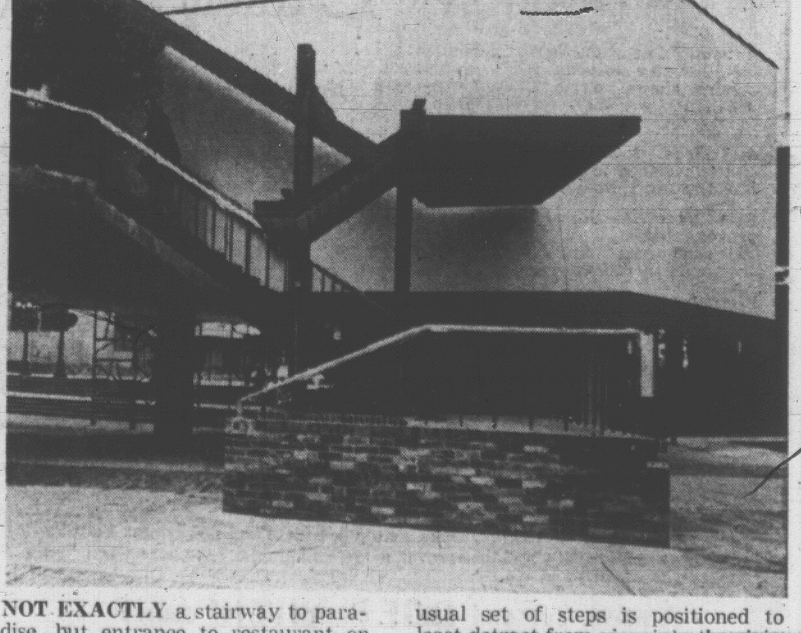
C. Saanich Adds to Park

Central Saanich council has agreed to purchase 7.63 acres of property to add to its Centennial Park on Wallace Drive.

Purchase price is $7,500.

The proposed new parkland lies west of the park. Part of the property is separated by Holm Road.

With a view to joining the two areas, council will investigate the possible closure of Holm Road from Hovey to White Roads.



NOT EXACTLY a stairway to paradise, but entrance to restaurant on stilts will lead to gastronomic delights and mezzanine view across Centennial Square and fountain. Unusual set of steps is positioned to least detract from view into the civic square. Critics suggest stairs will discourage patrons and should be supplemented by easy ramp.

Analyst's Comments

By HAL MALONE

FIRST RACE: It's been a long, dry summer for this bunch but we expect the drought might end here for Lee's Time. Off her excellent race to Actella, she could lead these home if Ventrella can keep her in on the turns. Kelly Joe appears the only other pace but from the outside she's no bargain. If the leaders tire the improving Fishermaid could grab the bacon. Of the eligibles Pascanna might consume this lot. She's been in over her head and shown fine promise . . . PASCANNA (Lee's Time, Fishermaid).

SECOND RACE: After drawing bad posts twice (and still showing fair horsepower) Wallys Gem finally lands on the inside. Shields should be able to lay fairly close early and take over when he's ready. We look for Magic Eve and Golden Empress to lead them a ways. Avons Jr. is an interesting proposition at a price. If Gisebricht can get good position the first half he could loom dangerously in the stretch . . . WALLY'S GEM (Avons Jr.)

THIRD RACE: The way Green Again has been running it looks like the only way the're going to stop him is with a gun. He meets real speed today in Mil Easy who likes to barrel away from the barrier, preferably unaccompanied. Waraway should benefit from the fast fractions. Will Roll comes from the clouds and will have to if the speed duel materializes. Of much interest will be the Elliott-Phillips' strategy. If they snug in behind Mil Easy that could be it. If they elect to run with her it will be strictly a question of the survival of the fittest . . . GREEN AGAIN (Mil Easy).

FOURTH RACE: He hasn't had a spectacular season but No Soap may be able to draw away. Milne is an alert gateboy and there's no speed to speak of inside him. Colinda couldn't make it with a better post and may have trouble getting good position. Whaang Leather is overdue and the spot certainly isn't too difficult. They're switching riders on Totem Miss here and while we don't want to take anything away from Milne, Shields might fit the mare better. Cor Asia is sharp but has been going a distance and doesn't seem to be the easiest horse to handle. If Loodani draws in, he could get on the board . . . TOTEM MISS (No Soap).

FIFTH RACE: There should be one doozer of a traffic jam at the first turn here. Cherys Pet, Power Tip and Ardorin all like to get the bit in their bicuspids and go-go. The first two tend, however, to develop faint hearts if molested. Ardorin hasn't been to the races since Aug. 19 but she has two highly impressive works under her and if she runs to them, that could mean bye-bye. Orange Result will appreciate the speed duel and if they all get the staggers and Cormack finds an opening he could surprise them . . . ARDORIN (Orange Result).

SIXTH RACE: He's never been known as a marathoner but Pils Friday, weight and all, might fool them here. He's tight, has speed and it appears that he can be rated. If Combs sets up a false pace, the chargers might have difficulty. Constone also likes to cavort fairly close up. Why Him seems to like this racket and wasn't beaten very much the other day. Gay Bond gets a better post but seems to lack the winning kick. Hawksboro rarely puts two good ones together but the distance won't stop him. Chekaj Chekaj will probably be the post favorite and his class should carry him home . . . CHEKAJ CHEKAJ (Pils Friday).

SEVENTH RACE: Frankly, we never considered Permano to be anything but a sprinter and were as surprised as anybody when he not only stayed with Shock Troop but pulled away. Permano picks up four pounds today (he received five from Shock Troop in the Derby trial) but his manner was very impressive. Track Record gets off a brilliant race occasionally and should get on the board. Peaceful Nite has a look with these and the Alberta filly, Bell's Sheila, should improve off her last try . . . PERMANO (Shock Troop).

EIGHTH RACE: They are switching riders all over the place here, and while we don't normally put too much emphasis on changes, they could be a factor today. Nevercot has been backing up, but under Marsh, could make it interesting. Buberlou gets Broomfield, and if he hadn't been forced to take the outside in his last might have taken it. Trejos switches from Miss. Orb to Lloyter and may be the one they have to beat. The one we fancy, though, is Gulf Island. He was full of gallop in his list but had no room to breathe in the lane. In a grab-bag. — GULF ISLAND (Lloyter).

New York Set To Meet Pope

NEW YORK (CP)—Pope Paul arrives here Monday on an unprecedented peace mission and the United Nations is all set to welcome the first pontiff ever to pay a visit to the Western Hemisphere.

Although the primary purpose of the Pope's visit is to address the world organization at a time of conflict in Viet Nam and Kashmir, the pontiff has accepted other engagements during his heavy one-day schedule in New York.

(See also page 25.)

The massive turnout of people expected along the route Pope Paul will take to UN headquarters and later to Yankee Stadium, where he will celebrate mass, has posed numerous problems to New York City police and UN security officials.

Police Commissioner Vincent Broderick, head of the city's 26,000-man force, said 18,000 policemen have been assigned for duty during the 14-hour visit, which includes a meeting between the Pope and President Johnson.

WORK FOR PEACE

The pontiff said in Vatican City that he accepted an invitation by UN Secretary-General U Thant to address the UN General Assembly because he feels it is his duty to "omit no effort" that might promote world peace.

Plans call for U Thant to lead a distinguished group of international officials and church dignitaries in welcoming the Pope when he arrives on a commercial airliner from Rome after a flight that will take it over part of Canada.

The pontiff will enter an open limousine for a motorcade to St. Patrick's Cathedral, where he will kneel in a brief prayer of thanksgiving for a safe journey.

From the cathedral, Pope Paul will rejoin the motorcade to the Waldorf Astoria Hotel for his meeting with Johnson, prior to his visit to the United Nations.

The papal party will arrive at 3:15 p.m. EDT at the UN General Assembly building, which will be closed to the public Monday. He will enter the building through "the Canadian doors"—

11 Killed By Bombs In Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — Two terrorist bomb explosions, hours apart, killed 11 Vietnamese in Saigon today and wounded 42 others including two Americans.

The first bomb went off at noon at the base of a steel utility pole near the Cong Hoa National Stadium, a training centre for Vietnamese police officers. Four children and five police officers were killed and 32 persons wounded.

A taxi loaded with a bomb exploded in front of a Saigon theatre and near three American military billets tonight, killing two Vietnamese and wounding 10 other people, including the Americans.

U.S. military police said the bomb was under the rear seat of the small taxi and apparently exploded prematurely about 100 yards from a U.S. navy hospital.

The terrorists were presumed

Thinkin' Paid Off For Some

The light brown, three-year-old filly paid $58, $16.30 and $10.20.

The Quinella paid $103.60.

Swan Lady was second, paying $4,20 and $3.50, and Aleja was third, paying $7.80. Time was 1,21 and 3.

Good Thinkin' was outrun for the first three-eighths of a mile then started to move up on the outside, picking up the leaders just on the wire.

Swan Lady moved up on the back stretch. Aleja was pace setter all the way.

Nobody, But Nobody Seeks Nominations

VANCOUVER (CP)—There were only two things missing at a nominating meeting here Friday night—guest speakers and prospective candidates.

The meeting had been called by Social Credit to nominate federal election candidates in Vancouver Burrard and Vancouver Quadra.

Emil Shafer, president of the Quadra constituency association, said candidates expected to run had not turned up.

"We could have got candidates right there at the meeting but we have certain key people in mind who were unable to be there."

The guest speakers were to be Attorney-General Bonner and Trade Minister Loffmark. But the ministers were in Ottawa promoting British Columbia's 1967 International Trade Fair.

The audience of 50 agreed to have another meeting at a later date.

FIRST NEGRO BISHOP for the United States is Msgr. Harold Robert Perry, who has been named by Pope Paul VI as auxiliary bishop of New Orleans, it was announced today.

Suspect May Never Stand Trial

Murder suspect Robert McDonald may never stand trial in connection with the knifing death Monday of 83-year-old retired farmer Frederick Adolph Dyer.

He was declared too sick to appear in court again today to hear a charge of capital murder read against him.

Magistrate William Ostler remanded him into the custody of the superintendent of Riverview Hospital at Essondale until Oct. 30.

Dief Pushes Unity Appeal

By IAN MacDONALD
Times Ottawa Bureau

TORONTO — Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker made an emotional appeal to Canadians Friday night to unite behind him for the sake of national unity.

The Tory chief urged the people to turn their backs on the Liberals and put Canada back "on the high road again to national greatness and unity."

(See also page 8.)

He made his appeal before an overflow-crowd of some 7,000 chanting, cheering people in Toronto's Varsity Arena.

About another 1,000 unable to get in stood outside and listened to the meeting over loudspeakers.

Tories came in busloads from various parts of the province for the rally.

It was Diefenbaker's most enthusiastic reception since the election began, and he reacted to it.

He had the backing of a solid show of Tory strength and party unity.

Diefenbaker was flanked on the stage by the Conservative premiers of Ontario, Manitoba, and Nova Scotia.

Before he spoke he heard the crowd cheering the statements of Theo Ricard, the Conservative Quebec leader, that his people are Canadians first and want to remain Canadians.

He raked the Liberal administration for scandals and dis-

ODDS AGAINST THE TWINS

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Regardless of which National League team wins the pennant, it will be favored to defeat Minnesota Twins in the World Series.

Las Vegas bookmakers posted Los Angeles Dodgers and San Francisco Giants at 10-13 favorites Friday, which means $13 must be bet to win $10.

Large Scale War Feared

JAKARTA (UPI)—Fighting broke out today in the streets of Jakarta between troops loyal to President Sukarno and leftist rebel forces seeking to overthrow him and seize control of this sprawling island republic of 100 million people.

(A broadcast heard in Singapore said loyal troops rushed into Jakarta appeared to have tipped the balance in Sukarno's favor. But it warned the situation appeared to have grown worse and there were fears of large-scale civil war.)

As the third day of the uncertain struggle for power drew to a close, there was no clue to the fate of Sukarno.

Jakarta radio, held by Sukarno's supporters, repeatedly declared he and defence minister Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution were in "safe hands."

But there has been no direct word from either Sukarno or Nasution since the revolutionary group, which the army said Friday was "Communist inspired," struck suddenly last Thursday.

LOYAL FORCES

An army broadcast last night said loyal forces had crushed the revolutionary "30th of September movement" headed by a presidential guard officer, Lt. Col. Untung.

But shooting erupted this morning and the army-controlled Jakarta radio declared a state of war in the capital and ordered a dusk-to-dawn curfew.

A statement denied reports the air force was involved in the rebel movement headed by Untung. But it did not mention what had become of air force commander vice marshal Omar Dani, who had been listed among Untung's supporters.

Dani is considered pro-Communist and his reported support of the rebel movement raised doubts about the loyalty of the Soviet-supplied air force.

SINGAPORE (Reuters)—Jakarta radio tonight broadcast a statement by Indonesian President Sukarno saying he had taken over-all leadership of the army.

The statement, which appeared to be in his own voice, appealed to the people for calm and his ministers to carry on.

Suspect Shot

SEATTLE (AP) — A man about 30 was wounded and captured by police today after a wild auto chase during which he abducted a Seattle couple.

Authorities said the man, not immediately identified, forced his way into the couple's car when it stopped for a traffic light near the scene of an attempted holdup.

Authorities got a description of the Eckman car, broadcast an alarm and halted the vehicle. The gunman was wounded and taken to hospital. The couple escaped injury.

Crash Hurts 36

LYONS, France (UPI) — A switch engine today crashed into the rear of the stalled Paris-Geneva express, injuring 36 persons aboard the crack train. Railway officials, who reported the three rear cars of the passenger train badly damaged, said none of the 36 was badly hurt.

March Halted

NATCHEZ, Miss. (UPI) — Police arrested more than 300 civil rights demonstrators today when they attempted a mass march to protest racial conditions in this river city. One of those taken into custody was Negro leader Charles Evers. The demonstrators, mostly Negroes, were halted by a police blockade one block from a Negro church where they had gathered.

UN Split Hit

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — India complained today that confusion will surely result from division of UN cease-fire observers on its border with Pakistan, into two groups. In a formal protest to Secretary-General Thant, the Indians expressed the belief that the divided cease-fire organization would be unable to achieve the co-ordination essential to success.

Pickets Ask Beer

VANCOUVER (CP) — The striking brewery workers union today said employers must have hired three mystery pickets who paraded outside the union hall for two hours. The pickets, who said they did not know who hired them, carried signs that said "Workers demand their beer" and "2,000 bartenders out of work." The International Union of United Brewery, Flour, Cereal, Soft Drink and Distillery Works of America (CLC) have been on strike against the four major British Columbia breweries for more than six weeks.

Paratroops In Aden

ADEN (Reuters) — British paratroopers were brought in by helicopter after rioters attacked a newspaper office and set fire to cars in the Crater district of Aden today.

BID FOR CUT IN CAR PRICE TIED TO VOTE

WINDSOR (CP)—Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said today he expects the federal government is trying to bring about lower automobile prices before the Nov. 8 federal election.

"I would think that the powers that be, the Drurys and the Gordons, would be exercising that interest at the moment that might achieve the objective of reduced prices," he told a press conference in this major motor vehicle manufacturing centre.

Mr. Diefenbaker, who has accused the Pearson government of ignoring the interests of consumers when it entered the Canada-U.S. auto trade agreement, said earlier in the campaign he would not be surprised if prices went down before voting day.

GUEVARA OUSTED IN CUBA

HAVANA (Reuters) — Top Cuban revolutionary leader Ernesto Che Guevara was dropped today from leadership of the Cuban United Socialist Revolutionary party.

The name of the Argentine-born Communist, who disappeared from the public scene six months ago, was omitted from the list of the 100-member central committee, which today replaced a 25-member national directorate as the party's supreme body.

Guevara, considered the third most important man in Cuba after Premier Fidel Castro and his brother Raul, often was thought to have been the brains behind the Cuba revolution.

3-MONTH TOUR

His last important official function was to represent Cuba at the United Nations last December, after which he undertook a three-month African and Asian tour.

He was welcomed home by Castro himself and then disappeared from the public scene.

Four days ago, Castro said he would read a document from Guevara, explaining his absence during recent months.

Many rumors have circulated about Guevara. Some said he was abroad, ill, or engaged in special work in Cuba and others that he had had ideological differences with Castro.

'Sit Down' For Two Days To Get Results

More than 80 delegates to the annual convention of the B.C. Government Employees Association repeated demands Friday for collective bargaining rights and dues checkoff.

The delegates also passed a resolution calling on the executive of the 8,000-member group to make representations to the government for a 30-hour week with no reduction in pay, to create more jobs.

The resolutions were submitted by the Oakalla local of the Canadian Labour Congress-affiliated union.

It was pointed out that bargaining rights have been extended to government workers in Quebec, Manitoba and Alberta in the last few months.

For many years Saskatchewan government workers have also enjoyed collective bargaining.

But all the B.C. government workers can do is make representation to the Civil Service Commission.

'QUICK WAY'

One delegate said there is a quick way to gain the same rights as employees of private companies enjoy under the Labor Relations Act.

"Go home and sit down for two days," said E. L. Scott of Penticton.

"What are we supposed to do, crawl to them and lick their boots? We're the only organized body in Canada that hasn't got the checkoff."

Deduction of union dues by the government was stopped by the government in 1960, after a brief strike the previous year which was ended by injunction. Dues now are paid voluntary.

"This is our lifeblood," said Alex McEwan of Oakalla. "We want bargining rights and dues checkoff and we will no longer accept excuses.

"I don't want to see delegates passively voting for this resolution. I want to see them stirred up."

"I am not going into policy at this hour," he said.

"Why?" replied a heckler, one of several whose remarks frequently failed to carry to the stage.

"I want you to get home before morning, replied Diefenbaker as his partisan supporters yelled and waved placards.

He kept his main appeal to the end of his speech.

Said the 70-year-old leader:

"To the service of our country I have given the full span of my years and I would like to hope, and hope you will believe me, that whatever the errors that were committed or the shortcomings, the years have not been unworthy.

ALL CANADIANS

"I am going to make an appeal to the conscience of this nation, not just to Conservatives, but to all Canadians.

"This nation has not come to a place of greatness without heavy accountability to history; to answer that accountability, to be worthy of those who began our days at a nation, I ask you to join so that each of us, humbly and with God's help, in the years to come may be worthy of the land which in days long gone by so many gave so much, and that we as Canadians will turn our back on the two years of the present administration which has torn our country asunder," Diefenbaker said.

He said the Conservatives wanted the opportunity to work for the dreams of the founding fathers.

Turning briefly to Tory policy, Diefenbaker repeated his promises of increased aid to higher education and to research.

He referred to his plans for a constitutional conference.

"In the interest of this nation the time has come to end the political carpentry of the present government that has driven province against province and race against race," he said.

THROW RASCALS

He added that the Tories will "restore integrity to national government."

Diefenbaker said the Liberal slogan is "throw the rascals in."

He stated wrongdoing had permeated the heart and soul of the administration, and that the Liberals had tried to conceal it.

"The time has come to establish in this nation new principles of honesty, to restore those things that have been lost in 2½ years," he said.

His pledge to raise old-age pensions to $100 raised the same loud cheers as it has done during the rest of his campaigning.

His only new policy statement was that a Tory government would bring in a program for urban renewal and replacement, and would bring in national housing act legislation to permit mortgages for older homes.

to be Viet Cong agents and the main target the Vietnamese police.

The explosion went off just outside a stadium where policemen had been training. Terrorists have made several other attacks on the police in recent weeks.

The four children killed were between the ages of 12 and 17. Three of the children were going by on bicycles when the mine exploded from the base of a steel utility pole.

Police said the type of mine used usually is filled with steel pellets and can be aimed in any direction.

POST INVADED BY CHINESE

NEW DELHI (UPI)—The Indian defence ministry said about 20 Chinese Communist troops invaded the Himalayan kingdom of Sikkim today and opened fire on a three-man Indian observation post "well inside" Indian territory. The Indians returned the fire.

It was the first exchange of fire since Chinese troops were reported withdrawing from the mountain border areas where they said the Indians had destroyed military installations Peking claimed were built on Chinese territory.

The pontiff will have private talks with Thant and Amintore Fanfani of Italy, president of the General Assembly, as well as address the 117-nation assembly and meet delegations. The secretary-general will then give a diplomatic reception in the Pope's honor.

The Canadian delegation to the UN will be headed on this occasion by External Affairs Minister Paul Martin.

At the UN, the Pope will pause outside the assembly hall to pose for a photograph with a group of children from the UN International School, amongst them Ronald Mason, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Mason of Ottawa, who will present a bouquet of flowers to the pontiff on behalf of the United Nations Children's Fund.

After a brief visit with Catholic, Protestant and Jewish groups at Holy Family Church, near the UN, the pontiff will stop at the residence of Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York before going to Yankee Stadium where a crowd of more than 100,000 is expected.

The Pope will celebrate mass at 8:30 p.m. EDT before leaving for a brief visit to the Vatican Pavilion at the New York World's Fair. From the fair, Pope Paul will leave for Kennedy Airport and the flight back to Rome.

BROKE INTO HOME

It is alleged McDonald, 44, of 1036 Caledonia, broke into the Dyer home, 1213 Walnut, early Monday morning.

Police found Mr. Dyer stabbed, lying on a bed-chesterfield.

McDonald was ruled too sick to appear at a previous court appearance Tuesday.

Today, Dr. Douglas Alcorn described his condition as "confused but quieter" than when he saw him after his arrest in the vicinity of the Dyer home Monday.

He had been seeing him daily in his cell at Victoria Law Courts.

Dr. Alcorn said the accused man told him he "has been in six different countries in the last week."

"SOME CHARGE"

He said he was incapable of defending himself in court or instructing counsel. He added, McDonald understands "some charge has been laid against him."

"He has put his trust in God," the psychiatrist said.

Dr. Alcorn recommended McDonald be sent to the Essondale mental institution for a period of observation to get proper care difficult to provide in Victoria.

Rezoning Hearing Set Monday

Oak Bay ratepayers will get a chance to voice objections to rezoning of former Mountain View Home property for a six storey apartment building Monday at 7:30 p.m.

The rezoning hearing will take place in the Municipal Hall council chamber prior to council's regular meeting.

The proposed bylaw would change property on Cadboro Bay Road between Cranmore and Bowker from residential to apartment zoning.

Buildings erected on the property, which is owned by the city, shall not be less than two or more than six storeys, excluding basement and penthouse.

Original applications by the city asked for a 12-storey apartment but this was chopped in half by the Oak Bay planning committee.

The city has protested the limit saying the restriction would make any apartment building uneconomic.

with a modern self-winding Ω OMEGA Seamaster CALENDAR WATCH

HERE is one of the most modern of timepieces! 2 watches in 1... a wristwatch of utmost precision... and, a perpetual calendar. The self-winding Seamaster calendar model tells the exact time and the exact date... automatically ... without old-fashioned hand winding. Your everyday wrist motion is the only source of power needed to keep it running... always "on time" and "on date". You change the date manually only 5 times a year (in months with less than 31 days). Otherwise, just set your Omega and forget it. The handsome Seamaster DeVille case is water and shock resistant... and, surprisingly thin. We recommend the Seamaster to the man who puts perfection above price.

Seamaster Calendar watches from $155.00
Other Omega Seamasters from $130.00
